Ike Says Khrushchev's Blasts Bring Western Allies Closer

Cuban Heads Reject U. S. Protest Bid

Castro Group Hit On Slander Drive Charge

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government Saturday "categorically rejected" a U. S. protest against anti-American activities in Cuba.

The United States, in a strong note, had protested against an "intense official campaign of slander."

Castro's Ministry of Foreign Relations issued a brief note of reply saying the protest was rejected.

It added that an answer would be made to nine specific U. S. complaints in what it termed due time.

PROTEST

Daniel Braddock, U. S. Embassy minister-counselor, delivered the American protest to the Cuban ministry shortly before noon, but the Cuban answer did not acknowledge receipt of the note.

The reply from the ministry of foreign relations said: "The government of Cuba rejects categorically affirmations which appeared in a press statement issued today in Washington and in due time will answer each one of the points contained in it."

The reply was termed an "official note of the Ministry of Foreign Relations." It bore no signature. Foreign Minister Raul Roa now is on a South American trip with President Osvaldo Dorticos.

The U.S. move to complain officially was said to have been initiated before Friday's announcement by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that he had accepted an invitation to visit Cuba. Officials said there was no connection.

But U.S. authorities were obviously concerned with the proposed Khrushchev visit as one more piece of evidence of Cuba's ties with the Communist bloc.

The U.S. note spoke of a Cuban tactic of seeking "to sow distrust and animosity" while claiming to seek friendship and understanding.

"An intense official campaign of slander like this does not promote the climate of economic cooperation and peaceful development which the people of the United States, like those of all this hemisphere, certainly seek," the U.S. note said.

Voting Machine Fix Method To Be Explained

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — A mechanic charging Louisiana voting machines can be fixed to favor one candidate over another will go "on stage" in the Legislature Monday to show how it's done.

Capitol building workmen began yesterday building the platform in the House chamber. C. C. Saxton has been invited to demonstrate to a special committee of lawmakers how the machines can be rigged.

Rep. John Lewis, Beauregard parish, chairman of the seven-member committee chosen to investigate the charges, said he would offer "the fairest hearing possible" for Saxton and a group of Baton Rouge politicos.

INVITED

Notable among the local politicians invited to the hearing was W. H. "Joe" Cooper, who filed Friday as a candidate for mayor-president of Baton Rouge. Cooper opened his campaign last month

School Plan Nets Approval

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas School Board's "salt and pepper" segregation plan was approved, with reservations, Saturday by U. S. Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson.

Davidson told the board at a hearing in which Negro attorneys stoutly opposed the plan that they should remove an item which made the integration pattern contingent on a segregation referendum.

Negro attorney W. J. Durham had hammered at that part of the plan for more than an hour with Dallas School Supt. W. T. White on the stand.

Opposing counsel, after the hearing was adjourned by the 33-year-old Davidson, were undecided on whether another hearing would be necessary.

"I just can't comment sensibly on the decision until I read the judge's written opinion," Durham said.

Henry Strasburger, school board attorney, answered similarly.

"I'm not sure," he said. "I have to get a copy of the judge's opinion and try to figure it out."

HEAVY SCHEDULE

Legislature Set For Last Half Of Meet

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana legislators, halfway through the current 60-day session, convene tonight to start a week's work that could produce the legislature's first sparks.

While both houses were scheduled to open at 7 p.m., trouble brewed at LSU over Rep. T. T. Fields' bill to chop the terms of university board members from 14 to seven years.

The LSU Alumni Federation Council had a meeting planned for 3 p.m. while the board of supervisors was set to meet at 5 o'clock.

Both the federation and the board have come out against Fields' bill, but there were signs of dissension among the LSU ranks.

SOME FAVOR

One source said federation leaders favored amending the bill to reduce the board terms to 10 years.

Fields, from Farmerville, also proposes to have a board member from each of Louisiana's Congressional Districts. At present, board members are appointed by the governor at large.

Meantime, fireworks could explode over a move to investigate voting machines, school finances with emphasis on the hot lunch program and a right-to-work bill.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, in general control over the legislature so far, may see the lines draw when a bill reducing the hot lunch program by $5.5-million comes up for passage.

STATE OFFICIALS

Bills Introduced For Pay Raises

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — Louisiana legislators have introduced bills to increase the salaries of every top state official except the governor.

In addition, pay raise bills are in the hopper now covering innumerable officials, from sheriffs to city judges.

While Gov. Jimmie H. Davis is not up for a raise, his budget to operate the mansion is being increased from $23,000 to $50,000 annually, his staff budget is going up from $90,000 to $100,000.

STATE, PARISH

There are bills to increase the salaries of the Superintendent of Education, the Register of the State Land Office, the State Comptroller and no less than 45 pay - raising bills for the Lieutenant Governor.

Other officials up for a raise are clerks of court, registrars of voters, sheriffs, judges, tax assessors and supreme court justices.

One bill calls for school bus drivers and janitors to receive increases in the same proportion that teachers get — a teacher whose salary is now $4800 a year and who gets a raise to $6,000, which means that a janitor's $2,400 salary would jump to $3000.

The same 25 per cent increase would apply to school bus drivers while another measure would permit police jurors who serve ex - officio on the governing body of their subdivisions of government.

Some levee board members are due for pay hikes too. Still another bill has been introduced to

Plane Crash Proves Fatal To 3 People

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —A small plane crashed in an inlet on the Atlantic Coast near here Saturday killing the three persons aboard.

The three who died in the crash were the pilot, William Leon Flowers, Charlotte, N.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lee, both of Columbia, S.C.

Authorities said Flowers and Mrs. Lee worked for Investors Corporation of Columbia, the company which owned the airplane. They said Mrs. Lee had won a trip to Miami for her and her husband in a company efficiency contest. The airplane was en route from Columbia to Miami when it crashed.

SINGLE ENGINE

The airplane was a four-seat, single engine Beechcraft.

Witnesses at a fishing dock near where the airplane crashed said it was trying to skirt around a thunderstorm when it ripped apart in air. Some witnesses said they believed a lightning bolt hit the airplane. Others said it appeared that severe air turbulence tore the airship apart.

The airplane was flying at about 300 feet when it crashed.

Spy Device Try By Reds Disclosed

Soviets Used Method Before 1959 Nixon Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Russians planted a spy device in the U.S. Embassy residence in Moscow shortly before Vice President Richard M. Nixon visited the Soviet Union last summer but it was discovered and removed before Nixon arrived, it was learned reliably Saturday.

The abortive Soviet attempt to penetrate the embassy residence, known as Spasso House, was disclosed by sources who also said:

HIDDEN

—There were hidden listening devices in all of the Soviet guest houses where Nixon stayed on his wing through Russia, including Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's Dachma some 25 miles down the Moscow River from the Soviet capital. These were permanent installations placed there long before Nixon's visit. The guest houses—in Leningrad, Novosibirsk, and Sverdlovsk (near where the American U-2 spy plane was brought down)—Are used by visiting dignitaries of other countries as well as Soviet officials who go there to rest. This suggests the Soviets listen in on their own people.

—Khrushchev's Dacha, where the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon spent their first Saturday night in Moscow as guests of the Soviet Premier, is thoroughly "bugged." It is even equipped with a recording room to pick up conversation from all points in the building.

One Killed In Texas Plane Crash

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—A supersonic B58 bomber crashed during a raging thunderstorm and carried at least one man to death late Saturday.

Peace officers who found the body radioed there was no trace of survivors near a huge crater dug by the craft. It broke up on a farm about 40 miles east of here in West Texas.

The B58, an intercontinental bomber named the Hustler, ordinarily carries a three-man crew.

Strategic Air Command officials identified the ship as one owned and manned by employes of the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. Convair builds the 15-million-dollar craft at its Fort Worth, Tex., plant.

A Convair spokesman said a B58 took off from Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque, N. M., and was more than two hours overdue in Fort Worth at 9 p. m.

Reese Air Force Base authorities in Lubbock reported the ship disintegrated so thoroughly "they can't tell what kind of plane it was."

Deputy Sheriff Bob Hale at Crosbyton, near the scene, said officers had been unable to confirm a report one or more parachutes were seen about the time the bomber crashed.

Residents of the area placed the time of the crash at 6:p.m., Hale said.

Wreckage of the ship struck on a farm about 23 miles south and a little east of the town of Ralls, which is 28 miles east-northeast of Lubbock.

"We heard a big explosion during the thunderstorm," said D.E. Berry, who operates a small store in the Kalgary community five miles southeast of where the crash occurred. "For a minute we thought a tornado was on the way."

Showers, Clouds Possible Here

The weatherman predicts clear to partly cloudy skies for the Twin Cities, with not much change in temperature and maybe a few isolated thundershowers.

Today's highs are expected to be in the lower 90's, while last night's lows were supposed to be in the 60's and 70's.

Throughout Arkansas and Mississippi, there will be little change in temperature, and skies will be generally fair through tonight.

Yesterday's high, as recorded at Selman Field in Monroe, was 90 and the low was 68.

UNDERGROUND HIDEAWAY

Defense System Project Doomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to put the country's air defense command nerve center in an underground mountain stronghold apparently is doomed.

Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, chief of the North American Air Defense Command, is fighting virtually a lone battle to get approval for going ahead with the original program. Plans called for putting his combat headquarters in a deep underground location in Colorado, protected from immediate destruction by nuclear bomb or missile attack.

Cost estimates for the project had run as high as 175 million dollars.

TRIP

Kuter, who recently made another trip to Washington on behalf of his effort, has said centralized control of the defense system is vital.

"This control system must have some protection against the first salvo of missiles, or we will truly have a one-shot war as far as air defense is concerned," he added.

Kuter has been pleading his case before congressional committees. But he now has little if any support from some top level quarters of the Air Force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, told Congress earlier this spring, when asked about the NORAD underground headquarters, that "we do not intend to build it as of now."

On the other hand, Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp indicated a few weeks earlier that the project merely had been suspended while new studies were being made.

Long Begins Campaign For Congress Seat

BOYCE (AP) — Former Gov. Earl K. Long, just out of a hospital, Saturday opened his campaign for the eighth district seat in Congress with a stump speech.

Long, 64, said he was feeling a little better since his discharge from a New Orleans hospital where he underwent an operation for removal of a cyst.

"I'm feeling a little weak," Long said. "The doctor told me not to come, but I had all these engagements."

Long promised to conduct "a clean campaign based on the needs of the people and the qualifications of the various candidates to give it."

OPPOSING

Long is opposing Rep. Harold McSween and Atty. Ben Holt, Alexandria, a former state representative.

Long said he would recommend that the government sell the front 20 acres of all federal-owned land facing highways to individuals for home sites. Some 350,000 acres in the area, he said is owned by the federal government.

And, he said, the only way to accomplish these things is by electing a Democratic president, being made.

CHASES POPULACE

Three Injured As Cow Goes On Spree

By TOMMY AYRES
Staff Writer

A half-crazed, half-frightened cow led West Monroe police, firemen, two local cowboys and several livestock officials on a not-so-merry chase through a west side, West Monroe residential section late yesterday afternoon.

The red and white faced longhorn cow reportedly injured at least three persons during a rampage which lasted from 5:15 until 6:30 p.m. when the culprit was roped and tied to a telephone pole.

Three-year-old Debra K. Stewart, 101 Orange St., was the first victim. The child reportedly was kicked by the cow.

A two-year-old Negro child, James Bowman, 212 Railroad Ave., was playing in the yard near his home when the cow "run up and hooked him" according to witnesses.

Neither child was believed to be hurt seriously. The Negro youth had a slight abrasion on his shoulder.

Witnesses said an unknown Negro woman "was tossed into the air" by the cow, but the woman could not be found late yesterday to verify the story.

Another Negro woman, whose name was not known, was reportedly slightly injured when the cow chased her onto the porch of her home.

The longhorn at another time sent a Morning-World reporter scurrying into a nearby house, then turned to chase a police-

'No Nation Dares Try U. S. Attack'

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower said Saturday night the "ill-tempered expressions" of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev have brought the Western Allies closer together than at any time since he became president.

In apparent allusion to Khrushchev's recent rocket rattling remarks, Eisenhower also declared: "No nation in this world dares attack the United States, and they know it."

Eisenhower left a 45th reunion dinner of his West Point classmates to speak briefly after another dinner—one given by the Rockland County Republican organization in honor of Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY). Both affairs were held at the nearby Bear Mountain Inn.

SURPRISED

Eisenhower surprised his GOP audience by taking his first public note of Khrushchev's personal attacks on him. The Kremlin leader Friday declared that Eisenhower is too dangerous a man to be president of the United States.

The Soviet Premier also has threatened that the Soviet Union will turn its rockets against any Allied base from which planes are launched for reconnaissance flights over the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower has ordered a halt to U2 spy plane flights over Soviet territory. That order came after the Russians had downed a U2 on May 1 and captured its pilot.

Saturday night, the President hit again at what he called Soviet secrecy. He got a big round of applause from about 1,500 GOP diners when he asserted the United States tries to penetrate Soviet secrecy, and "and in my opinion properly."

The President arrived at West Point from Washington Saturday afternoon. He went to the Republican dinner from his own class reunion wearing a yellow and

Turkish Leaders Suspended In Ouster Wake

ANKARA (UPI)—A spokesman for the ruling national unity committee said Saturday that "many" Turkish army officers have been suspended in the wake of the military coup that ousted the regime of Adnan Menderes.

The spokesman, Col. Ertugrul Alatli, did not specify how many officers had been suspended or the reason for the action against them.

DISCLOSED

It was disclosed earlier this week, however, that five generals were under arrest for ordering soldiers to fire on students demonstrating against the Menderes regime. There had been unconfirmed rumors that as many as 150 officers were arrested.

At the same time the spokesman for the unity committee—the 20-man military junta headed by Premier Gen. Cemal Gursel—also admitted that the group lacked "firm information" to back its charges that the Menderes regime had committed atrocities against students killed in last month's demonstrations.

The statement was in sharp contrast to the blunt charges in a communique issued by the committee Friday night on behalf of Gen. Gursel, who led the swift military coup against the government eight days ago.

One Killed In Texas Plane Crash

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—A supersonic B58 bomber crashed during a raging thunderstorm and carried at least one man to death late Saturday.

Peace officers who found the body radioed there was no trace of survivors near a huge crater dug by the craft. It broke up on a farm about 40 miles east of here in West Texas.

The B58, an intercontinental bomber named the Hustler, ordinarily carries a three-man crew.

Strategic Air Command officials identified the ship as one owned and manned by employes of the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. Convair builds the 15-million-dollar craft at its Fort Worth, Tex., plant.

A Convair spokesman said a B58 took off from Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque, N. M., and was more than two hours overdue in Fort Worth at 9 p. m.

Reese Air Force Base authorities in Lubbock reported the ship disintegrated so thoroughly "they can't tell what kind of plane it was."

Deputy Sheriff Bob Hale at Crosbyton, near the scene, said officers had been unable to confirm a report one or more parachutes were seen about the time the bomber crashed.

Residents of the area placed the time of the crash at 6:p.m., Hale said.

Wreckage of the ship struck on a farm about 23 miles south and a little east of the town of Ralls, which is 28 miles east-northeast of Lubbock.

"We heard a big explosion during the thunderstorm," said D.E. Berry, who operates a small store in the Kalgary community five miles southeast of where the crash occurred. "For a minute we thought a tornado was on the way."

Showers, Clouds Possible Here

The weatherman predicts clear to partly cloudy skies for the Twin Cities, with not much change in temperature and maybe a few isolated thundershowers.

Today's highs are expected to be in the lower 90's, while last night's lows were supposed to be in the 60's and 70's.

Throughout Arkansas and Mississippi, there will be little change in temperature, and skies will be generally fair through tonight.

Yesterday's high, as recorded at Selman Field in Monroe, was 90 and the low was 68.

UNDERGROUND HIDEAWAY

Defense System Project Doomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to put the country's air defense command nerve center in an underground mountain stronghold apparently is doomed.

Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, chief of the North American Air Defense Command, is fighting virtually a lone battle to get approval for going ahead with the original program. Plans called for putting his combat headquarters in a deep underground location in Colorado, protected from immediate destruction by nuclear bomb or missile attack.

Cost estimates for the project had run as high as 175 million dollars.

TRIP

Kuter, who recently made another trip to Washington on behalf of his effort, has said centralized control of the defense system is vital.

"This control system must have some protection against the first salvo of missiles, or we will truly have a one-shot war as far as air defense is concerned;" he added.

Kuter has been pleading his case before congressional committees. But he now has little if any support from some top level quarters of the Air Force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, told Congress earlier this spring, when asked about the NORAD underground headquarters, that "we do not intend to build it as of now."

On the other hand, Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp indicated a few weeks earlier that the project merely had been suspended while new studies were being made.

Long Begins Campaign For Congress Seat

BOYCE (AP) — Former Gov. Earl K. Long, just out of a hospital, Saturday opened his campaign for the eighth district seat in Congress with a stump speech.

Long, 64, said he was feeling a little better since his discharge from a New Orleans hospital where he underwent an operation for removal of a cyst.

"I'm feeling a little weak," Long said. "The doctor told me not to come, but I had all these engagements."

Long promised to conduct "a clean campaign based on the needs of the people and the qualifications of the various candidates to give it."

OPPOSING

Long is opposing Rep. Harold McSween and Atty. Ben Holt, Alexandria, a former state representative.

Long said he would recommend that the government sell the front 20 acres of all federal-owned land facing highways to individuals for home sites. Some 350,000 acres in the area, he said is owned by the federal government.

And, he said, the only way to accomplish these things is by electing a Democratic president.

CHASES POPULACE

By TOMMY AYRES
Staff Writer

A half-crazed, half-frightened cow led West Monroe police, firemen, two local cowboys and several livestock officials on a not-so-merry chase through a west side, West Monroe residential section late yesterday afternoon.

The red and white faced longhorn cow reportedly injured at least three persons during a rampage which lasted from 5:15 until 6:30 p.m. when the culprit was roped and tied to a telephone pole.

Three-year-old Debra K. Stewart, 101 Orange St., was the first victim. The child reportedly was kicked by the cow.

A two-year-old Negro child, James Bowman, 212 Railroad Ave., was playing in the yard near his home when the cow "run up and hooked him" according to witnesses.

Neither child was believed to be hurt seriously. The Negro youth had a slight abrasion on his shoulder.

Witnesses said an unknown Negro woman "was tossed into the air" by the cow, but the woman could not be found late yesterday to verify the story.

Another Negro woman, whose name was not known, was reportedly slightly injured when the cow chased her onto the porch of her home.

The longhorn at another time sent a Morning-World reporter scurrying into a nearby house, then turned to chase a police-

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower said Saturday night the "ill-tempered expressions" of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev have brought the Western Allies closer together than at any time since he became president.

In apparent allusion to Khrushchev's recent rocket-rattling remarks, Eisenhower also declared: "No nation in this world dares attack the United States, and they know it."

Eisenhower left a 45th reunion dinner of his West Point classmates to speak briefly after another dinner—one given by the Rockland County Republican organization in honor of Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY). Both affairs were held at the nearby Bear Mountain Inn.

SURPRISED

Eisenhower surprised his GOP audience by taking his first public note of Khrushchev's personal attacks on him. The Kremlin leader Friday declared that Eisenhower is too dangerous a man to be president of the United States.

The Soviet Premier also has threatened that the Soviet Union will turn its rockets against any Allied base from which planes are launched for reconnaissance flights over the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower has ordered a halt to U2 spy plane flights over Soviet territory. That order came after the Russians had downed a U2 on May 1 and captured its pilot.

Saturday night, the President hit again at what he called Soviet secrecy. He got a big round of applause from about 1,500 GOP diners when he asserted the United States tries to penetrate Soviet secrecy, and "and in my opinion properly."

The President arrived at West Point from Washington Saturday afternoon. He went to the Republican dinner from his own class reunion wearing a yellow and

Turkish Leaders Suspended In Ouster Wake

ANKARA (UPI)—A spokesman for the ruling national unity committee said Saturday that "many" Turkish army officers have been suspended in the wake of the military coup that ousted the regime of Adnan Menderes.

The spokesman, Col. Ertugrul Alatli, did not specify how many officers had been suspended or the reason for the action against them.

DISCLOSED

It was disclosed earlier this week, however, that five generals were under arrest for ordering soldiers to fire on students demonstrating against the Menderes regime. There had been unconfirmed rumors that as many as 150 officers were arrested.

At the same time the spokesman for the unity committee—the 20-man military junta headed by Premier Gen. Cemal Gursel—also admitted that the group lacked "firm information" to back its charges that the Menderes regime had committed atrocities against students killed in last month's demonstrations.

The statement was in sharp contrast to the blunt charges in a communique issued by the committee Friday night on behalf of Gen. Gursel, who led the swift military coup against the government eight days ago.

Speaking forcefully, Eisenhower said the United States is determined to keep itself strong—scientifically, economically and militarily. Such determination, he added, is based on the concept of human dignity.

"Freedom and liberty eventually will triumph over tyranny," the President declared to another round of applause.

It was then he asserted, "ill-tempered expressions of Mr. Khrushchev" have really brought the West closer together than at any time since he became president in 1953.

At the start of his brief talk, Eisenhower told his audience that he and his West Point classmates had just been reminiscing about the days when they were cadets. World War I had started in Europe at that time, he recalled, but it still was an era of leisure and relatively little tension.

Turning to the present in contrast, Eisenhower said we now are living in a time of bewilderment. He went on to say he does not like the term "crisis," and then he asserted with great emphasis that no nation in the world would dare attack the United States.

man, who vacated his motorcycle and headed for cover.

Police had been urged by livestock officials not to shoot the steer except in an emergency.

The West Monroe police department received a complaint about 5:20 that the culprit was rampaging through the streets near Railroad Avenue.

NEEDED HELP

A patrolman who was dispatched to the scene, reported back that he could not catch the cow, and requested that another officer be sent to aid him.

The other officer arrived and then a member of the fire department, and then another policeman.

Meanwhile, the cow was chasing citizens through the streets, lawns and in several cases ran upon the porches of dwellings in an effort to get at the inhabitants.

The patrolmen raised the alarm, and tried to keep residents in their homes and out of danger.

The police had long since given up hope of catching the cow, but had contacted officials at a local livestock auction barn to announce the sale.

Neil Noel, owner of the barn, dispatched Jerome Clark, manager of the Bossier livestock auction barn to the scene.

After several unsuccessful attempts to corner the cow, Clark finally roped the steer, as it charged at a bystander. Clark and Noel both on foot grabbed the rope and were dragged approximately half a block before the rope could be wound around a telephone pole.

Pete Coats and an unidentified person arrived on horses which had been transported to the scene and took the cow to the auction barn.

Officials at local auctions said they did not own the steer, and Monroe police, late yesterday were still trying to find the owner.

man, who vacated his motorcycle and headed for cover.

Police had been urged by livestock officials, not to shoot the steer, except in an emergency.

The West Monroe police department received a complaint about 5:20 that the culprit was rampaging through the streets near Railroad Avenue.

NEEDED HELP

A patrolman who was dispatched to the scene, reported back that he could not catch the cow, and requested that another officer be sent to aid him.

The other officer arrived and then a member of the fire department, and then another policeman.

Meantime, the cow was chasing citizens through the streets, yards, and in several cases ran upon the porches of dwellings in an effort to get at the inhabitants.

Two patrol cars, cruised the streets and tried to keep residents in their homes and out of danger.

The police had long since given up hope of catching the cow, and had contacted officials at a local livestock auction barn to apprehend the steer.

Fred Niel, state livestock branding inspector, from Monroe, and Curtis Clark, manager of the Bossier livestock auction arrived at the scene.

After several unsuccessful attempts to corner the cow, Clark finally roped the steer, as it charged at a bystander. Clark and Niel both on foot grabbed the rope and were dragged approximately half a block before the rope could be wound around a telephone pole.

Pete Coats and an unidentified person arrived on horses which had been transported to the scene and took the cow to the auction barn.

Officials at local auctions said they did not own the steer, and Monroe police, late yesterday were still trying to find the owner.

Youth Attacked, Beaten At City Drive-In-Friday

Monroe police yesterday received a complaint from a Monroe father that his son had been beaten by two men at a local drive-in restaurant.

Dennis Murphy, 211 Egan St., told officers that his son, James, 16, had received a broken jaw and had several teeth knocked out during the tracas.

Police said the incident took place between 11 and 12 p.m. Friday night at Mill's Drive-in on South 2nd St., Monroe.

Investigators said they did not know the identity of the men who reportedly attacked the youth.

Should Public Schools Sponsor Baccalaureate?

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Should public high schools sponsor baccalaureate services?

The question comes up every year at this time, and in some communities it leads to bitter controversy.

The custom of holding a religious service for the high school graduating class is deeply entrenched in American tradition. Many Protestants and educators are anxious to retain it as one of the few remaining links between religion and public education.

The viewpoint is expressed by the Rev. Ewart G. Watts, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Topeka, Kans.

"I believe we should go right ahead having high school baccalaureate services as a great symbol of our religious heritage and faith," he said. "If there are those who conscientiously feel they cannot attend these services, let them stay home or attend services elsewhere. But for those of us who are willing to forget our theological differences and to join with others in this expression of faith in God, let us continue to give our young people this expression of our comon faith in God."

On the other hand, there are many Catholics and Jews, and some Protestants, who feel that the baccalaureate service violates the constitutional principle of separation of church and state, creates community strife, and puts non-Protestant children on an embarrassing spot.

Their viewpoint is expressed by Catholic Bishop Daniel J. Feeney of Portland, Me., who has forbidden Catholic pupils in Maine to participate in such services.

"The format of these ceremonies is always that of New England Congregationalism," said Bishop Feeney. "The conscience of those who are not products of this tradition is thus violated in the name of non - sectarianism and even sometimes in the name of politeness and democracy."

The issue is posed most sharply when the baccalaureate service is held in a Protestant church —a situation that is not uncommon in communities where Protestants constitute a large majority of the population.

Catholic Archbishop William O. Brady of St. Paul, Minn., has stressed the significance of this point by saying that Catholic children may attend, and Catholic Clergy participate in, baccalaureate services only if they are "held in a purely public place."

The Committee on Religion and Public Education of the National Council of Churches has also taken the positoin that baccalaureate services should always be held in public buildings, and that attendance should be strictly voluntary.

Pope John Readies For Council

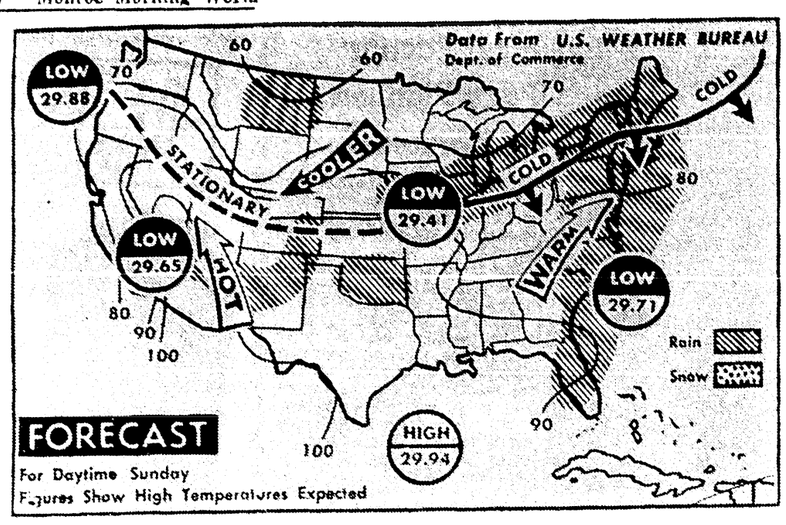

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII set up administrative machinery Saturday for the Roman Catholic Church's forthcoming ecumenical council.

By decree, the 78-year-old pontiff created 11 commissions to study matters to be discussed by the worldwide gathering of cardinals, archbishops, and bishops.

He established several secretariats to handle related problems.

One of the secretariats was specifically assigned the task of helping Protestants and Orthodox Christians "to follow the work of the council and to find more easily the path" to Christian unity.

The dates for the ecumenical council, the first to be held by the Roman Catholic church in almost a century, have not been announced. It is felt that two years of preparatory work will be needed.

RAINY WEATHER is expected today for Atlantic states, lower Lakes area, northern Ohio Valley, parts of mid-Mississippi Valley, Oklahoma, sections of southern Plateau and in eastern Montana. Is should be cooler over upper Lakes region and Mississippi Valley, and northern Plains and Plateau; continued very warm in Southwest and warm over Atlantic states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Ike Indicates Ready To Go Stumping

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower indicated Saturday he's ready to take up active campaigning for Republican candidates in the forthcoming elections.

Addressing a GOP gathering in New York State, Eisenhower said "I am ready to do my part" in the campaign.

He urged his audience to go out "and work as you have never worked before" if they believe in these fundamental principles of the party: "That the government of the United States intends to do its full duty by every one of its citizens, but it shall never—in the words of Abraham Lincoln—do those things for the individual that he can do better himself."

He spoke briefly at a dinner given by the Rockland N. Y. County Republican organization in honor of Rep. Katherine St. George (R-NY).

Adlai E. Stevenson, meanwhile, urged Vice President Richard M. Nixon to repudiate a supporter's statement that a big Democratic vote in Tuesday's California primary will mean Americans don't support Eisenhower's attitude toward communism.

The 1952-56 Democratic presidential nominee praised Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California for attacking the statement "as the ugly tactics of the old Nixon and 11th-hour McCarthyism."

Patrick Hillings, a former congressman and now Los Angeles County GOP chairman, had noted that Brown had called for a vote in the primary that would swamp the Nixon showing.

Hillings, a longtime Nixon associate, said such a vote would be interpreted by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "as an indication that the administration's tough attitude toward communism is not supported by the American people."

Stevenson, in a telegram to Brown said Nixon's failure to repudiate the Hillings letter "can only be interpreted as approval of tactics that would debase our politics in this critical year."

The major interest in the California primary is whether Nixon, alone on the Republican ballot, can outpull Brown who has Democratic opposition from George McLain, a Los Angeles pension promoter.

The Democrats have a 3-2 registration edge, but Republicans traditionally get more party members to the polls.

Campaigning in New York State, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas asked for an election year truce of "internal warfare." He said there would be little or no point in winning an election "and losing a nation."

Services Monday For Area Writer

FERRIDAY (Special) — Funeral services will be held Monday for Roman Miller McDougald, 32-year-old Clayton author, mystery story writer, and novelist, who died unexpectedly at his home either Thursday night or early Friday morning. At the time of his death, he was finishing drafts on two new novels.

The mystery story writer, born in Vidalia, was a lifelong resident of Concordia Parish with the exception of the time he served in the U. S. army during World War II, and while he was attending Tulane University following graduation from Ferriday High School.

All of his seven published mystery stories were written in Clayton. He had just returned home from the Veteran's Hospital in Alexandria to finish the revisions on his latest books.

His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McDougald. He has no close relatives in this area.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of Young's Funeral Home in Ferriday at 2 p.m. Burial will take place next to his mother, the late Mrs. Grace Elizabeth McDougald, who died last December, in the family plot at the Natchez, Mississippi City Cemetery, overlooking the Mississippi River. Masonic rites will be held at the graveside, with the Rev. J. P. McKeithen, pastor of the Ferriday Methodist Church, officiating.

Head Says Red Attack Staged To Miss Blame

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter declared Saturday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made his abusive personal attacks on President Eisenhower in an attempt to escape blame for shattering the Paris summit conference.

In an unusually harsh statement which had the President's approval, Herter said: "All America, I am sure, shares the disgust I feel at the ill-tempered attacks emanating from Mr. Khrushchev."

Pope John Readies For Council

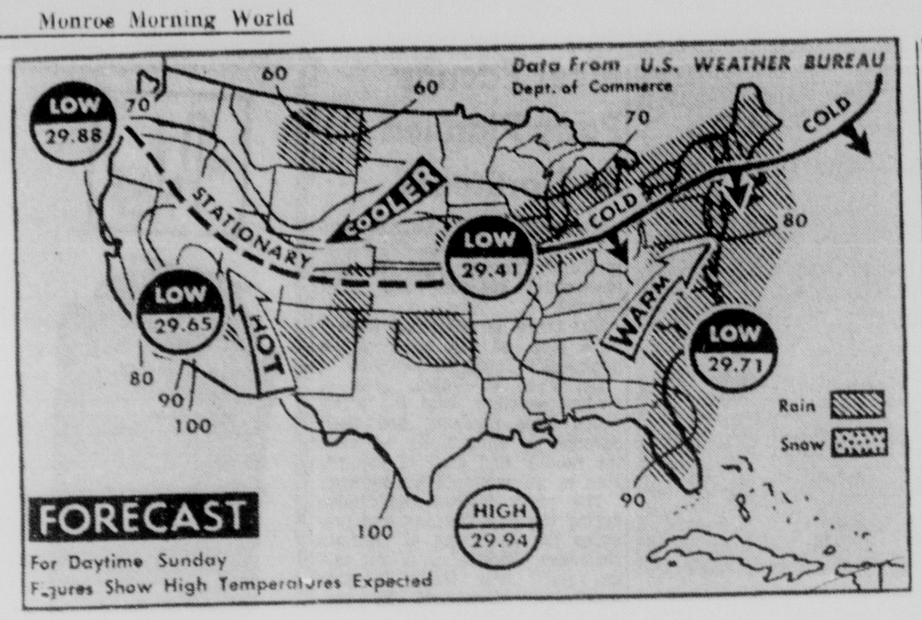

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII set up administrative machinery Saturday for the Roman Catholic Church's forthcoming ecumenical council.

By decree, the 78-year-old pontiff created 11 commissions to study matters to be discussed by the worldwide gathering of cardinals, archbishops, and bishops.

He established several secretariats to handle related problems.

One of the secretariats was specifically assigned the task of helping Protestants and Orthodox Christians "to follow the work of the council and to find more easily the path" to Christian unity.

The dates for the ecumenical council, the first to be held by the Roman Catholic church in almost a century, have not been announced. It is felt that two years of preparatory work will be needed.

RAINY WEATHER is expected today for Atlantic states, lower Lakes area, northern Ohio Valley, parts of mid-Mississippi Valley, Oklahoma, sections of southern Plateau and in eastern Montana. Is should be cooler over upper Lakes region and Mississippi Valley, and northern Plains and Plateau; continued very warm in Southwest and warm over Atlantic states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Ike Indicates Ready To Go Stumping

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower indicated Saturday he's ready to take up active campaigning for Republican candidates in the forthcoming elections.

Addressing a GOP gathering in New York State, Eisenhower said "I am ready to do my part" in the campaign.

He urged his audience to go out "and work as you have never worked before" if they believe in these fundamental principles of the party: "That the government of the United States intends to do its full duty by every one of its citizens, but it shall never—in the words of Abraham Lincoln—do those things for the individual that he can do better himself."

He spoke briefly at a dinner given by the Rockland (N. Y.) County Republican organization in honor of Rep. Katherine St. George (R-NY).

Adlai E. Stevenson, meanwhile, urged Vice President Richard M. Nixon to repudiate a supporter's statement that a big Democratic vote in Tuesday's California primary will mean Americans don't support Eisenhower's attitude toward communism.

The 1952-56 Democratic presidential nominee praised Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California for attacking the statement "as the ugly tactics of the old Nixon and 11th-hour McCarthyism."

Voting Machine Fix Method To Be Explained

with a pledge to prove machines "can be and have been rigged."

R. F. Shoup, president of the firm which makes the voting machines, was also scheduled to appear at the hearing. Shoup's attorneys have warned Cooper they will press slander or libel suits against Cooper unless Cooper's remarks about the Shoup machines cease.

Cooper countered that he was not charging Shoup officials with rigging the machines, but rather Louisianians not employed by Shoup, and said he would continue his campaign along the same lines.

Lewis said he would simulate election day conditions at Monday night's hearing. He said he would have a vote machine set up on the platform, checked by a voting commissioner, and then say to Saxton: "It's all yours."

Lewis had the vote machine warehouse in Baton Rouge put under state police guard Thursday.

Saxton, himself not an active politician, was irked earlier this year, he said, when he tried unsuccessfully to interest state officials in the possibility of machine rigging. He went on television last month to show a film of machine rigging techniques.

East Baton Rouge parish district attorney J. St. Clair Favrot announced he planned to call Saxton before the parish grand jury in a separate investigation of Saxton's claim.

Voting Machine Fix Method To Be Explained

with a pledge to prove machines "can be and have been rigged."

R. F. Shoup, president of the firm which makes the voting machines, was also scheduled to appear at the hearing. Shoup's attorneys have warned Cooper they will press slander or libel suits against Cooper unless Cooper's remarks about the Shoup machines cease.

Cooper countered that he was not charging Shoup officials with rigging the machines, but rather Louisianians not employed by Shoup, and said he would continue his campaign along the same lines.

Lewis said he would simulate election day conditions at Monday night's hearing. He said he would have a vote machine set up on the platform, checked by a voting commissioner, and then say to Saxton: "It's all yours."

Lewis had the vote machine warehouse in Baton Rouge put under state police guard Thursday.

Saxton, himself not an active politician, was irked earlier this year, he said, when he tried unsuccessfully to interest state officials in the possibility of machine rigging. He went on television last month to show a film of machine rigging techniques.

East Baton Rouge parish district attorney J. St. Clair Favrot announced he planned to call Saxton before the parish grand jury in a separate investigation of Saxton's claim.

EYES, EARS FOR PARENTS

Little Boy Gets Own New Room

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A little fellow who shoulders as much responsibility as 5-year-old Clarence Hathaway needs a room all his own, folks here decided. And Saturday they built him one.

Clarence missed out on much of the construction activity. He and his parents left their three-room cottage at nearby Stow about half an hour after carpenters arrived about 9 a.m. The family went to shop at suburban Cuyahoga Falls, and Clarence was to get some new clothes.

Harold Hathaway and his wife, Georgia, didn't go away just to avoid the hammer-pounding noise and confusion. Neither can see or hear. Clarence is their eyes and ears. And helping them shop is just one of the responsibilities he undertook at an age when other tots are having their noses wiped and shoe-strings tied by mother.

By their midday lunch break, half a dozen carpenters had the floor laid and two walls up on the 12x12-foot addition which will be Clarence's room. Union building trade workers are donating their labor and two companies have provided materials free.

Clarence has been sleeping with his parents in the cottage's only bedroom, which, like the new one, opens off the living room. A kitchen and a closed-in porch where most of Clarence's toys are stored make up the rest of the house.

"I only wish we could start from scratch and build them a whole new place," said Elmer Jacobs, carpenters union business agent who has been supervising the job. "They could sure use it."

Jacobs said the Akron Community Chest came to the Building Trades Council some weeks ago with the idea of a bedroom for Clarence. Business agents of the union got the project started.

Carpenters just about finished their jobs Saturday, installing walls, floor and roof. Electricians and plasterers will be in next week, Jacobs said.

"The other business agents and the rank-and-file members have got quite a kick out of doing this. And anyone who could see the job would feel the same way about pitching in," Jacobs said.

Clarence's parents are cooperative and anxious to help, Jacobs said.

"Mr. Hathaway wanted to backfill the dirt against the fillers," the carpenters union agent said.

Also at work at the Hathaway cottage were half a dozen coeds from Delta Gamma sorority of Ken State University. Once a quarter the sorority sends in a crew for a top-to-bottom house cleaning which includes floor-scrubbing and window-washing.

It's hard for the blind Mrs. Hathaway to get to all the places where dust and dirt collect, one of the girls said.

The folks near Stow applauded when a judge decided five years ago against a welfare agency contention it would be better for Clarence to be taken away from his parents.

And they haven't been sitting on their hands since then, in helping to make a difficult situation work out.

Rockefeller Proposes Food Reserve

JAMESTOWN, N.D. (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller proposed Saturday that wheat and other farm surpluses be used to create a nationwide food reserve to feed people in the wake of nuclear attack.

Rockefeller, in a talk at a Republican rally here, said that if such an attack should come, experts estimated the country would need up to a year's supply of food to survive afterwards.

"A year's supply would require nearly half the present surplus of wheat," the governor said. "It would turn a present liability into a great national asset."

Rockefeller is making a two-day tour of North Dakota, campaigning for gov. John E. Davis, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate vacancy created by the death of Sen. William Langer (R-ND).

In proposing the use of farm surpluses for an emergency food reserve, Rockefeller said the collapse of the summit conference requires attention to "greater preparedness in depth."

Rockefeller said he has ideas in several areas which apply to the farm situation in North Dakota and other states.

FFA Convention Set June 8-11 In Shreveport

The Thirty-First Annual State Convention of the Louisiana Association of Future Farmers of America will be held in the Captain Shreve Hotel, Shreveport, June 8-11.

There will be approximately 1,000 FFA boys from 233 high schools throughout the state attending, along with about 130 Chapter FFA Sweethearts.

The sweetheart program will be climaxed Friday, at 8:00 p.m. with a Coronation Ball at which time the newly elected State FFA Sweetheart will be crowned.

The convention will be concluded Saturday at 11:30 a.m. with the installation of newly elected officers.

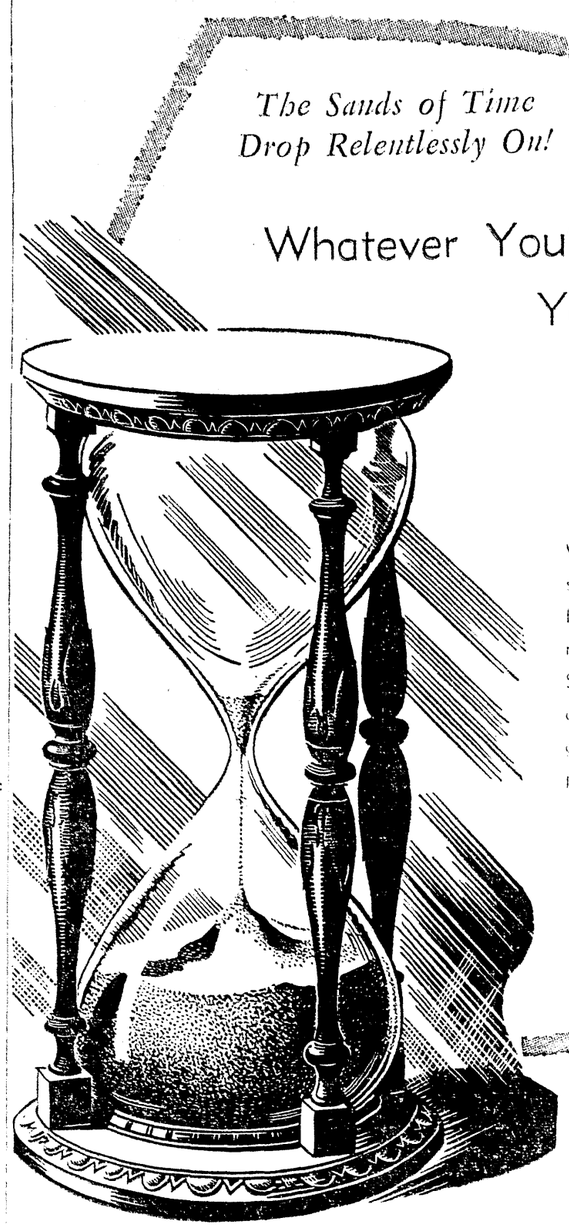

Biologist Plans Meet Attendance

A Northeast Louisiana State College biologist has been selected as one of 20 participants in a conference for college genetics teachers at Colorado State University this summer.

Dr. B. Earl Prince, associate professor of biology, will attend the Conference for College Teachers of Genetics sponsored by the National Science Foundation Aug. 8-26. Colorado State is in Fort Collins.

Participants were selected on their experience and interest in teaching genetics at the undergraduate level in U. S. colleges and universities.

Bees are the only insects of importance in distribution of pollen to fruits during the period of blossom. Of these, the honey bee is the only one that can be distributed where wanted and when needed in the orchard.

Mamie To Stay Another Week In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower probably will spend another week in Walter Reed Army Hospital, her sister said Saturday.

It appears from this that she will not go to the Far East with President Eisenhower, who plans to leave on that trip Sunday, June 12.

Mrs. Eisenhower already has spent five days in the hospital for treatment of acute asthmatic bronchitis. She is reported to be progressing satisfactorily.

Her sister, Mrs. G. Gordon Moore, said the first lady expects to continue under treatment with antibiotics for a few more days and to stay in the hospital another week to get a good rest.

"She sounded real good," said Mrs. Moore, who returned Friday from a trip and spoke to Mrs. Eisenhower at the hospital by telephone.

They did not discuss the Far East trip, Mrs. Moore said, but she surmised that Mamie will not go.

Before leaving for a West Point reunion weekend Saturday, the President spent almost an hour visiting his wife in her three-room hospital suite—the same one he occupied during his ileitis attack.

Solid South Meet Hears Editor Talk

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Northern editors and publishers suppress southern views and facts by setting themselves as judges of what is and what is not news.

So said William D. Workman of Charleston, S.C., at a luncheon of the Solid South conference Saturday.

Workman, political editor of the Charleston News and Courier and author of "The Case of the South," said that an "encouraging" factor was good reception his book got. He said it may indicate there was a "fracturing" of attitudes against the south and that some publications are beginning to give the South fairer coverage.

Speaking on the subject "America's Paper Curtain," he said "despite almost solid editorial backing of segregation, Southern papers have given pretty well the whole North-South picture. In the North, however, damage is done in less columns.

Workman said, "The American people can be relied upon to form solid judgment only with sufficient facts."

The rally Saturday night will feature speakers Tom Anderson, editor and publisher of Farm and Ranch magazine of Nashville, Tenn.; Clayton Rand, of Gulfport, Miss., author, historian and humorist; and Ken Courtney, New Orleans publisher of the Independent American, sponsors of the meet.

Anderson, in an earlier interview said, one-way toward "less government and more individual responsibility" should be repeal of the income tax amendment.

"One full swoop would remove the trend to socialism and an all powerful government. I'm an ardent segregationist but this is bigger than segregation.

"If there were no Negroes, there would still be the problem of states rights," Anderson said.

Anderson said "very powerful elements" and leaders in the United States are dedicated to a one-worked socialist state. He said our policy incongruously is aelping Communists such as Tito of Yugoslava succeed."

Rand told newsmen the South must provide the leadership to keep the American Republic because no such leadership exists in the North. Rand said after years of studying outstanding personalities he believed the "South has produced the greatest aggregation of leaders of any part of the world in any given length of time."

Railway Settles Dispute

CHICAGO (AP) — A 15-month wage dispute between the 17,000-member Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen and the nation's railroad was settled on the four per cent boost formula of the engineers' arbitration award.

The conductors' agreement calls for a two per cent, or 5.146 cents an hour, increase in average basic wage rates effective July 1, this year. Another boost of the same amount will be applied March 1, 1961.

The pact incorporates a cost-of-living adjustment of 17 cents an hour into the basis pay but discontinues the cost-of-living escalator clause. The contract will expire Nov. 1, 1961.

Base pay for conductors, including the 17-cent cost-of-living allowance, under the contract which expired Nov. 1, 1959, ranged from $2.43 to $2.59 an hour.

Average annual earnings of passenger and freight conductors have been reported at about $9,770.

Theodore Short, spokesman for the Carriers' conference committees, said the settlement Saturday and Friday's arbitration award to the engineers do not affect the railroads' proposals for changes in work rules.

Short said the 10.3-cent boost for conductors will increase annual labor cost for railroads almost seven million dollars a year. He said application of the 4 per cent pattern to all classes of railroad employes would boost carriers' cost by nearly 200 millions annually.

He said the higher pay will have to come from elimination of waste under current work rules or from increased tariffs and a decrease in the number of jobs.

The conductors on March 2, 1959, demanded a 12 per cent increase in wages and continuance of the cost-of-living escalator clause.

The carriers demanded a 15-cent cut in hourly wages.

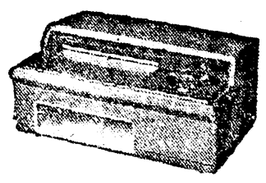

Directed negotiations failed, and both parties requested the National Railway Mediation Board to mediate the dispute on Sept. 24, 1959.

Mediation, however, was slowed to await the outcome of the recent arbitration board hearings and settlement of the engineers' case.

MOSCOW (AP) — Potato chips have arrived in the stores of Kirov, 650 miles southwest of Moscow. A dispatch to the newspaper Soviet Russia said the chips—pronounced about the same as in English—are produced by a special section of the state vegetable and berry trading organization.

"If there were no Negroes, there would still be the problem of states rights," Anderson said.

Anderson said "very powerful elements" and leaders in the United States are dedicated to a one-worked socialist state. He said our policy incongruously is aelping Communists such as Tito of Yugoslava succeed."

Rand told newsmen the South must provide the leadership to keep the American Republic because no such leadership exists in the North. Rand said after years of studying outstanding personalities he believed the "South has produced the greatest aggregation of leaders of any part of the world in any given length of time."

Railway Settles Dispute

CHICAGO (AP) — A 15-month wage dispute between the 17,000-member Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen and the nation's railroad was settled on the four per cent boost formula of the engineers' arbitration award.

The conductors' agreement calls for a two per cent, or 5.146 cents an hour, increase in average basic wage rates effective July 1, this year. Another boost of the same amount will be applied March 1, 1961.

The pact incorporates a cost-of-living adjustment of 17 cents an hour into the basis pay but discontinues the cost-of-living escalator clause. The contract will expire Nov. 1, 1961.

Base pay for conductors, including the 17-cent cost-of-living allowance, under the contract which expired Nov. 1, 1959, ranged from $2.43 to $2.59 an hour.

Average annual earnings of passenger and freight conductors have been reported at about $9,770.

Theodore Short, spokesman for the Carriers' conference committees, said the settlement Saturday and Friday's arbitration award to the engineers do not affect the railroads' proposals for changes in work rules.

Short said the 10.3-cent boost for conductors will increase annual labor cost for railroads almost seven million dollars a year. He said application of the 4 per cent pattern to all classes of railroad employes would boost carriers' cost by nearly 200 millions annually.

He said the higher pay will have to come from elimination of waste under current work rules or from increased tariffs and a decrease in the number of jobs.

The conductors on March 2, 1959, demanded a 12 per cent increase in wages and continuance of the cost-of-living escalator clause.

The carriers demanded a 15-cent cut in hourly wages.

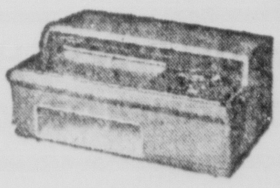

Directed negotiations failed, and both parties requested the National Railway Mediation Board to mediate the dispute on Sept. 24, 1959.

Mediation, however, was slowed to await the outcome of the recent arbitration board hearings and settlement of the engineers' case.

AGAINST BOARD

Helis Answers Perez Charges

William G. Helis Jr., chairman of the state mineral board, yesterday answered charges levied against him earlier in the week by Leander Perez, district attorney and political leader of St. Bernard and Plaquemines Parishes.

Perez had charged Helis with "selling Louisiana down the river" in the U. S. Supreme Court's decision last week turning the offshore oil lands of Louisiana over to the federal government.

Perez claimed that Helis, as chairman of the mineral board was conducting a "secret" geographical survey in the offshore lands.

Helis statement follows:

"Certain statements with respect to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Tidelands litigation, which appeared in the Louisiana press and were aired on television and radio in the past few days, require clarification and correction.

"In the first place, the Mineral Board of the State of Louisiana has no secret or clandestine agreements with the Department of the Interior or any one else.

"From the time the Submerged Lands Act was passed in May of 1953 until the aggressive action initiated by the then new Mineral Board and Attorney General, Mr. Jack P. F. Gremillion, in the early summer to 1956, little if anything was done to establish the extent of Louisiana's rights under that Act and, in fact, the United States was attempting to exercise authority over all but a very limited three mile area beginning from the arbitrary so-called Chapman Line, which has always been completely unacceptable to Louisiana. As a result of a suit which the Board and the Attorney General caused to be filed to prevent the United States from granting leases on the area claimed by Louisiana, the Supreme Court of the United States, on June 11, 1956, issued an order enjoining both the United States and the State of Louisiana from further leasing or drilling on the area in dispute, except by agreement. For the first time, therefore, Louisiana was enabled to prevent leasing and drilling by those holding under the United States law on the area which it claimed.

"It was following this order of the United States Supreme Court that Louisiana Act 33 of 1956 was adopted as emergency Legislation and approved by the Governor on June 24, 1956, the purpose of this Act being to permit negotiations and agreements limited to operations under any mineral lease on the area in dispute and to the deposit in escrow or impounding, in whole or in part, of same derived from said leases pending settlement or adjudication of the controversy. The Act also provided a basis under which, upon payment of all proper sums, the State of Louisiana could ratify a lease on the area in dispute. The Act specifically provided that it would not be construed or considered to authorize any agreement or compromise which might affect the State's claim to its historic boundaries as re-defined in Act 33 of 1954. Under the authority of this Act, on October 12, 1956, an interim agreement was entered into between the Mineral Board, with the concurrence of the Attorney General of Louisiana, and the Secretary of the Interior, with the concurrence of the Attorney General of the United States, in which the Submerged Lands were divided into four areas, the first of which fixed a minimum definitive area in which the rights of Louisiana were recognized and the second and third of which, the outer limits of which were fixed by Act 33 of 1954, were recognized to be the area in dispute. On the basis of this agreement, all funds derived from the area in dispute were placed in escrow, including funds which previously had been going without restriction to the United States.

"In the Interim Agreement, the greatest care was taken to preserve and maintain Louisiana's legal position. No concessions were made and nothing was done to impair Louisiana's claims, as indeed nothing could have been done in view of the limitations of the Statute. Everyone will recall the enormous pressure generated from all sources to effectuate the Interim Agreement and permit the resumption of offshore operations. The difficult task of preserving Louisiana's rights and at the same time minimizing the damage to the economy from the shut down was accomplished in what is now conceded to be a remarkably short time, despite the obstacles which existed. Those who now criticize the Act of 1956 and the Interim Agreement were parties to the confection of that Act and were given full opportunity to present their views. They also joined in the clamor to expedite the Interim Agreement. It comes with poor grace at this time to criticize what was done then for the benefit of the State of Louisiana and which, regardless of the ultimate outcome of the Tidelands litigation, has been and will be of benefit to the State of Louisiana.

"The United States has always denied that Louisiana's coast line is as defined in Act 33 of 1954, as specifically evidenced by the arbitrary Chapman Line which in some places runs even inland of the mainland of Louisiana. It has also been apparent that the United States would attempt to push the court line back to a low water mark and to a line of inland waters far beyond what the State of Louisiana would contend for if its position with respect to the coast line under Act 33 of 1954 were to be rejected.

"Considerable confusion would probably be avoided if note is taken that in the public press, in ordinary usage, and sometimes, even in legal discussions and proceedings, the words "shore," "coast" and "coast line" are used interchangably, without due regard to the definition thereof, and particularly the definitions in the Submerged Lands Act and Act 33 of the Louisiana Legislature of 1954. From the inception of the current Tidelands litigation, Louisiana has vigorously and firmly maintained the position that its coast line, from which the extend of its ownership of submerged lands would be measured, is the "coast line" as defined in Act 33 of 1954. It is this contention which the Supreme Court of the United States said should be postponed to a later stage of the case, in which the location of Louisiana's "coast line" will ultimately be determined.

"When it was learned that the United States proposed to undertake studies to locate the ordinary low water mark on the Louisiana shore, which Louisiana regards as not determinitive of its coast line, but which may be used by the United States in support of its contention, it was deemed wise to join informally in this work so that Louisiana would have the benefit of the information derived and could present its views in order to sustain the maximum legal position which may result from the ultimate determination of the United States Supreme Court. These arrangements were entered into openly and in no event have ever been intended to establish a coast line which would be binding upon either the State or the United States. The information derived, which will not be finalized for some time to come, includes basic data which will be available for many purposes and which is the same type of data which has been secured by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey in many other States. It was never intended that these arrangements in any way minimize Louisiana's claim, or concede that Louisiana's coast line is anything other than that fixed by Act 33 of 1954, or otherwise affect Louisiana's claim to the submerged lands within its historic boundaries. Of course, in view of the provisions of Act 32 of 1956, even if such had been considered or attempted, it could not be done.

"The views, advice and assistance of all those who it was believed could further the prosecution of Louisiana's historic claims have always been sought and gladly accepted, included among whom have been those who now criticize the presentation of Louisiana's case. Indeed, on numerous occasions opportunity was afforded fully to set forth such views and they have been incorporated in the briefs filed on behalf of the State of Louisiana, in large part verbatum as submitted. This is particularly true with respect to Louisiana's position under Act 33 of 1954.

"The Attorney General and I said in a joint statement that the Tidelands' fight is far from ever. We will use every honest and legal means at our command in our defense of Louisiana's position. The interest of the State of Louisiana is paramount and this is no time for dissension. We welcome all of the help we can get.

False Alarm

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The report of a suspected burglary sent two patrol cars hurrying to a Phoenix home.

"We're the ones who called you," said Trudel Kininmonth, 9, and Kathleen Cavness, also 9. "We think there is a burglary going on at that vacant house down the street."

The girls handed officers a written report on the preliminary investigation. It read:

"Clues for boogelry. Two dead oirds, 10 feet apart; one foset slitly bent; one bottle; one open one broken beer bottle; one open window; one door by swimming pool almost open; one torn scream."

The officers checked out the clues, found no "boogelers" and left.

TV Roundtable Set By Jaycees On Monroe Plan

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a roundtable discussion on KNOE-TV at 5:30 p.m. today concerning the proposed Vocational Rehabilitation School for Mentally Retarded.

This is the sixth program in the Jaycee Roundtable series, and the three panel members will discuss different phases of the proposed school, which is a national project of the Civitan Clubs of the Twin Cities and the Ouachita Parish Association for Retarded Children, according to Stan Boggs, Jaycee publicity chairman and moderator of tonight's program.

Dr. Levelle Haynes, Northeast State College, will discuss the testing program; Ross Golson, senior counselor for the Louisiana Department of Vocational Rehabilitation will discuss the actual vocational training; and Mrs. Christine Hutts, special education teacher for the Ouachita Parish School Board, will discuss classroom instruction for mentally retarded persons as it's being carried on at present.

Telephone questions will be answered over the air.

The proposed vocational rehabilitation school would train mentally retarded persons to be useful citizens who would be able to contribute to their support, according to Civitan officials.

Five Arrested On Charges Of Drunk Driving

Twin city police late yesterday had arrested five persons and charged them with operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Monroe reported the arrest of three, and West Monroe two.

Apprehended in Monroe were, Charlie Nettles, 23, 2803 Gordon St., Monroe; Elmo L. Evans, 46, Route 1, Olla; Wesley Wright, 24, Negro, 167 South College St., Monroe.

West Monroe picked up Jimmy D. Yelverton, 24, Baton Rouge and Robert E. Hollis, 30, of Farmerville.

Hollis, was apprehended after leaving the scene of an auto accident on Bridge Street in West Monroe.

Police said a car driven by Robert Y. Williford, 27, 1200 North 3rd St., Monroe collided with the rear of Hollis' vehicle. Williford told officers Hollis fled the scene, and he chased him and then called the police.

Nettles, Evans and Wright received additional charges of reckless driving. Their bonds were set at $438 each.

Helis Answers Perez Charges

Perez had charged Helis with "selling Louisiana down the river" in the U. S. Supreme Court's decision last week turning the offshore oil lands of Louisiana over to the federal government.

Passman Talks To REA Co-Op Meet Saturday

WINNSBORO (Special) — Congressman Otto E. Passman and A. A. Robinson, president of the Association of Louisiana Electric Co-ops, were guest speakers at the annual Rural Electrification Association meeting in Winnsboro last night.

Eight directors were elected to serve another year on the REA board.

Passman, who devoted most of his talk to the REA and power co-ops, said that there are 13 power co-ops in Louisiana serving half a million persons.

Passman, who was critical of the page ads of private power companies in national magazines, said the power co-ops borrowed money, but were repaying it on schedule. He said that in the past 23 years, the 13 Louisiana co-ops have borrowed a total of "$55 million and have repayed over $19 million" of that sum. He stated that private power and telephone companies had also borrowed from the REA.

Concerning government spending, loaning and borrowing, Passman said, "We are collecting the highest taxes ever, and yet are borrowing extra money. This trend will have to stop, or we will have a 10 cent dollar."

Robinson, president and manager of the co-op at New Roads, reviewed the history of the REA and power co-ops. He said that the main problems facing us today that must be solved are that the co-ops must have an adequate wholesale power supply at reasonable rates or be allowed to generate our own power if necessary.

Directors elected to serve another year were C. J. Grayson, Fort Necessity; J. E. Richardson, Winnsboro; E. C. Calloway, Holly Ridge; Lloyd Neal, Pioneer; W. P. Martin, Delhi; E. L. Tarver, Oak Grove; P. P. Ferguson, Bastrop; J. E. Randall, Newellton; and W. H. Patrick, Lake Providence.

Grayson, president of the Northeast Co-op, and Calloway, secretary treasurer, gave a report of the past year's activities.

Interstate 20 Bridge Work Ready To Start

Construction materials and equipment for the new Interstate 20 bridge across the Ouachita River are expected to start arriving June 27, according to State District Highway Engineer Wayne Huckaby.

The $3,787,000 bridge contract was awarded to Peter Kiewit Sons, construction contractors from Omaha, Neb. The work which was scheduled to have begun May 23 is expected to be completed 18 months from the May date.

JULY ESTIMATE

Huckaby said that construction will probably be well underway by the end of July.

The elevated bridge, which is supposed to provide a clearance of 50 feet above the Ouachita's high water mark which stands at 50½ feet, will require the building of a five or six foot wooden levee wall along South Grand Street at a point in front of the old Ouachita Parish Grammar School where the east end of the bridge will be located.

The elevated portions of the highway, built to connect with the bridge, will extend from the bridge to just west of Stella Street in West Monroe and to South Twelfth Street in Monroe.

Most of the present streets that cross the right - of - way of the new highway will remain unchanged except that they will run under the elevated section of Highway 20.

Auxiliary Meeting

The Lake Providence American Legion Auxiliary unit will hold its regular meeting at the American Legion Home June 14.

The unit, Powell - Martin-Barrett Unit 37, will serve supper at 7 p.m. just prior to the business meeting. Mrs. Gloria Matthews, unit president, will be in charge of the meeting.

Atmosphere Big Place To Clean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The way the fastidious Dr. Lester Machta see it, "We live in the atmosphere, and it is important that we keep it as clean as possible."

Obviously, not everyone thinks of air pollution in quite those terms. Who would deliberately befoul his own nest? Strike out "deliberately" and the answer is, almost all of us.

The atmosphere is so big, so self-renewing that it looks like the perfect place to dump the gaseous and particulate wastes of industry, transportation, and backyard incinerators. In the vast windy reaches of the great atmosphere, you might think, all man-made poisons could be safely dispersed and diluted until the end of time.

Is this so? According to Machta research scientist of the U. S. Weather Bureau, the atmosphere has its limits. If industrial pollution continues at indicated rates, he says, "contamination may become global, making further dilution impossible."

CAN KILL AND SICKEN

Polluted air can kill and sicken. In the industrial Meuse Valley of Belgium 60 persons succumbed to smog in 1930. In 1949, at Donora, Pa., 20 died and some 6,000 fell ill. In December, 1952, a four-day smog blackout carried off nearly 4,000 Londoners.

In addition to killing, air pollution can destroy crops, put a blight on city buildings, and permanently damage health. It also may affect the weather.

"There is strong evidence," Machta says, "that increased atmospheric contamination reduces visibility and modifies electrical conductivity, precipitation, and the radiation balance."

Machta is a weather man, and what can the weather man do about pollution of the atmosphere in which, as he says, well all live?

For one thing he can identify the kind of weather which tends to concentrate pollution by preventing its dispersal. This has been done. A stagnant weather condition known to meteorologists as "a warm high" prevailed during all of the smog disasters of modern times.

In this country these conditions occur most frequently in the southern Appalachian Mountains and in October. Warm highs, even in winter, frequently cover the southeastern United States.

"It seems probable that with equal industrialization," Machta says, "air pollution complaints would be more numerous in the southeast than, say, in New England with its stormier weather."

The best way to prevent smog disasters, Machta says, is to stop pouring wastes into the atmosphere. He doubts that will happen.

So the next best thing, he suggests, might be to permit addition to the atmosphere's burden of filth and poison only when weather conditions are "conducive to dilution."

Nixon Aide Discusses Confidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's press aide claimed Saturday that Americans have more confidence in Nixon's ability than that of leading Democrats to deal with international problems.

In support of this contention, Herbert G. Klein produced a California poll made for the Los Angeles Times which gave the vice president a 13.6 per cent edge over Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and an 8.3 margin over Adlai E. Stevenson in this field.

Klein said there was evidence indicating similar trends in other states.

He told reporters Nixon's call for "firmness without belligerence" in dealing with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is catching on with the voters.

"We believe the American people have confidence in the vice president's ability to represent the country in the foreign field," Klein said. "We are satisfied they feel he would deal effectively with Khrushchev at the proper time."

Nixon, as the likely Republican presidential nominee, has named Kennedy as his probable opponent in November.

The California canvass, made by Facts Consolidated Polls, represented 3,028 samples on a statewide basis, without reference to party affiliation.

Those polled were asked this question: "In view of the current East-West and world situation, which one of these men do you think would best represent the United States sitting across the conference table from Khrushchev?"

Klein said the results showed Nixon 48.4 per cent, Kennedy 34.6 per cent, no opinion 17 per cent. Against Stevenson, he said, Nixon polled 47.9 per cent, Stevenson 39.5 per cent, with 12.5 per cent having no opinion.

Climbers

TOKYO (AP)—The Red Chinese who reported they topped Mt. Everest last month have calculated a higher elevation than ever before for the highest mountain. Peiping Radio said they figured it at 29,133 feet. For almost a century most maps have shown Everest's height as 29,002 feet, and some have had it 29,131. The Indian government recalculated it at 29,028 feet in 1954, with a 29-foot fluctuation for snow, and this has been accepted by the U.S. National Geographic Society.

Red Attack On Ike May Cut Trade

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's attacks on President Eisenhower may have an adverse effect on Soviet tourist trade, but before Friday's news conference there was little indication of it here.

Hotels are full. Travel agencies said there had been no cancellations from America that could be traced to political troubles.

Americans continue to find themselves pleasantly treated by Russians they know. Again, that could change if Khrushchev continues to sharpen his attacks to a degree that Russians feel they must follow suit. So far they have not.

Early this spring the Soviet travel agency Intourist said it expected 25,000 American visitors this summer in Moscow compared with 15,000 last summer.

People here wonder where any such increase will find accommodations. Hotels have been booked solid, and even important visitors will have trouble finding places of their choice or any place at all to stay.

Many travelers are beginning to find that travel agency assurances of hotel accommodations don't always hold. Fifteen American and French travelers recently were stranded in a hotel lobby, faced with sleeping four to six in a room. It was already long after midnight, and some had waited for hours.

Most tourists don't stay long enough to get far off the beaten track. They visit Moscow, the nearby monastery at Zagorsk where priests still live and work, Leningrad and Kiev.

Some are touring now around the Black Sea, which is rather hot around this time of the year. It is a favorite Soviet resort.

So far as it can be learned there are no more restrictions on travel than in presummit days. There are always a good many spots in the Soviet Union where travelers, official or otherwise, are not permitted.

Khrushchev has said visas still continue to be issued for Americans to come to the Soviet Union. Only those applying from outside can say whether they are tougher to get than normally.

What is tougher to get is hotel accommodation, and Intourist normally won't arrange for a tour until all hotel space is available. Reportedly that is holding down the number of tourists.

Student Interest Ranges Like Melody

Herbert Peterson, director of music in Ouachita parish elementary schools, guides students through tuneful lessons.

By FRANK NOONAN
Staff Writer

Often a beginning student's interest in music may range like the notes of a catchy melody -- from high to low.

"It's a matter of getting over that first little hump," said Herbert Peterson, director of music in Ouachita parish elementary schools, in explaining the ups and downs of learning music.

"When you start a beginner, he's all enthused and has fun," he explained. "Then it sometimes becomes harder than he expected, hard to play notes over and over."

From this low point comes an upturnd. Peterson added, "Then when he learns about six notes and can start a tune, interest picks up. It's that first little hump. The more he learns, the better his interest is. And the better the interest, the better he learns."

OPPORTUNITY

Peterson has had a good opportunity to observe such things. In his key capacity in the music 'epartment of the parish school system during the past two years, he has guided many youngsters to more tuneful heights.

He instructs some 100 students in four elementary schools in use of various band instruments, woodwind, brass and drums.

Classes are held twice a week at each school.

"I try to see each student at least two times each week. I need to see them five times a week," Peterson said, "but there's no time."

The instruction sessions at Kiroli, Highland, Mitchell and Crosley run 30 minutes for a section, and 45 minutes where all the band students are together.

ESSENTIAL

"Rhythm is an essential part of music. The student must have a sense of rhythm," said the band maestro. "Two of the basic beginning instruments are clarinet and cornet. We need more of these. Cornets carry the melody and are similar to a bugle. The boys like the cornet."

He said that more girls are playing the clarinet, and more boys follow the cornet. There are a few drummers. Kiroli has three and Mitchell, seven.

However, the drum is a more difficult instrument than many believe, said Peterson.

"To be a drummer you have to have a very good sense of rhythm. A lot of people start and don't have any rhythm and ability for playing it," he explained. "We had a good beginning drum class this year at Mitchell."

Kiroli has the smallest group of band students since it is a relatively new school in a new area, but the instructor thinks next year will see a considerable increase in participation.

LARGEST

Crosley and Mitchell have the largest number of band students.

Peterson said that some of the main benefits of music for elementary students is that it teaches them to work together, and "discipline improves as music study improves."

The fourth is the lowest grade at which students are accepted for band instruction, and there aren't many in this category.

"When I start students in the fourth grade that gives me three years with them. I like it that way," the instructor observed. "I think if a student will apply reasonable study and concentration it is a very simple thing to learn to read music quickly."

Some youngsters play part of a tune after the first lesson, others require six or eight lessons to reach this point. The average student makes the hurdle by the sixth lesson.

"Some students in four weeks are playing little tunes such as 'Mary Had a Little Lamb,' " said Peterson.

FIRST TUNES

Other first tunes for the young musicians include "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," and "Lightly Row," pieces that are easy to catch on to and not difficult rhythm-wise.

"By the time they have had three years of study they should be able to play concert pieces, and marches," Peterson added. "The students who will work well, learn music and keep up with it. It depends on how hard they want to learn music."

In the early stages of study, breath control is one of the hardest things to learn, he said, but most students overcome this problem. It also takes a lot of practice to get fingers lithe enough to coordinate properly.

There are some natural elements which play a major role in the success of a band student. Peterson explained some of these:

"The shape of jaws, teeth, crooked or even, and thickness of lips have all in the world to do with playing an instrument. If the teeth are uneven it would be harder to play a brass than a reed instrument because brass is pressed against the lips. The reed instrument goes into the mouth."

In the grade schools some instruments are too large for some students. The larger students can handle the trombone and bass horn. But there aren't many studying these.

FAVORITE

What is Peterson's favorite instrument?

"My major instrument was the clarinet. I started at Sherrouse," he recalled.

He expects that most of his students will go on into high school band studies after leaving elementary school.

Drums and some larger instruments are available for rent to students, but they are advised to buy their smaller instruments.

"The parish has a few instruments like the bass horn, which would cost $600 or $700, which can be rented," said Peterson. "All music books are furnished by the state department of education."

The parish elementary system's students made a favorable showing at a district music festival held in Ruston last April. The band made up of musicians from four schools who had been practicing together for several Saturdays prior to the big event, got a "very good rating."

Peterson, who was born in Monroe, studied at Sherrouse and Neville, and graduated from Northeast State College. He is married, has two children, a boy, 6, and a girl, 3. His residence is located off White's Ferry Road on Wall Williams Road.

He was affiliated with the Alexandria, La. school system before coming to his present assignment. He taught vocal music in a high school and band at three elementary schools there.

He spent three years in Army service, and in 1956 was stationed in Germany as pilot of a liaison plane observing artillery fire.

In planning ahead for next year, he is hoping, he said, to establish a rotating schedule for music students which would cause them to miss a particular subject for band practice only once in a six weeks period.

Under present methods the same subjects may be hit regularly.

Anguish, Horror, Heroism Of Korean Conflict Recalled

Editor's note—Ten years ago on June 25, Communist forces struck in Korea and a bitter, frustrating struggle began. The ordeal was followed by a peace without victory, a peace without elation. In the following article, AP's chief of bureau in Tokyo—who helped cover much of the Korean War—recalls its anguish, horror, and heroism.

By JOHN RANDOLPH
Associated Press Staff Writer

Memories of death and destruction, bravery, misery and blood live in the mind forever. They haunt us like restless ghosts.

That's the way it is with the Korean War, a dirty, obscene—and glorious—war. It began one quiet Sunday morning when Communist tanks roared out of the North on June 25, 1950, and ripped across the 38th Parallel into the South.

For 31 of its 37 months, I was part of that war. I watched its agony and wonder.

Much has happened since then, in the world at large and in Korea where the government of President Syngman Rhee, who had long led his nation in war and peace, was overthrown recently by a popular uprising. But 10 years after, the sights and sounds and feelings of the Korean War still come flooding back.

VIVID

My first vivid recollection was in Tokyo, in December, 1950, when I was sent to interview the human wreckage of the 10th Corps in Tokyo General Hospital. There was a man whose hands and feet had frozen while he lay wounded beside the Chosin Reservoir. They were as black as four pieces of soft coal. He was full of penicillin and floating in a morphine fog, but he could still talk. The doctors told me they probably would not have to amputate everything—some fingers and toes would be saved. I remember how a little Japanese nurse, in her white starched cap, gave him another injection while he told me, in a dull, faraway voice, how the Chinese Communists had climbed up on the stalled trucks and submachinegunned the American wounded trapped in the icy valleys. He had pretended death—and survived. But he did not look at his hands.

Then there are memories of the withdrawals, the villages burning in the night, the exhausted, beaten men. The short, stocky, Republic of Korea (ROK) soldiers retreating down the snowy road, their feet wrapped in bloody rags but carrying their weapons.

This was the time of the refugees.

They say that in January, 1951, there were two million Koreans on the roads fleeing from the Communists. All of these people had seen the Reds at firsthand in the first three months of the invasion. Their flight from the second wave in the middle of that bitter winter was the most eloquent damnation of communism the world saw until Hungary revolted. These people were not the politicians, the wealthy, or even the "kulaks." They were the little people. They were voting with their feet, and every step was pain.

With the Army defeated and in retreat, short of everything—even ammunition—nothing could be done for them. Nothing. The suffering that these pitiful millions endured is beyond description.

There was the sick-faced American lieutenant who had just seen a young wife give birth to her baby in a ditch by the road, cut the cord with her teeth, strangle the fresh born child, leave it in the ditch and get up to march south with her other children.

There was the farm family pushing a heaped-up oxcart that tumbled over an embankment into a stream. There was no chance, no help, no time to pick up anything.

They stood there, five or six of them, looking at each other stupidly as realization sank in that they were alone in the middle of Korea, on the edge of no-man's-land, on that twilight winter road, with nothing but the clothes they wore.

There was the old couple walking down the railroad track at Pyongtaek with their daughter, her husband, their two small babies and a boy of about 6. Night was falling, and a wet snow was soaking their quilted cotton clothing. The old woman could walk no more. For her it was the end of the road, the final end, and she knew it. There was a short argument, but she rejected all help. Desperately, fiercely, she gesteured them onward. They carried her to the shelter of a railroad shack beside the tracks and started walking south again. But after about 20 steps the old man shook his head, turned around, and walked back to die beside his wife when the deep cold came with midnight to freeze them to death in their wet clothes. The young couple looked at them for a moment with bowed heads, then silently turned and marched on with the children.

Then the army pulled itself together and fought again in its bloody-named "Operation Killer." This was savage, swaying, fighting—stand where you are and die in your tracks.

The names of the battles were Wonju, Chipyong, and Hoengsong where the third Chinese Communist human-sea dashed against a modern army that was learning how to fight and didn't dare retreat because there was nothing more to retreat to.

At Wonju two pig-headed Communist divisions fortunately ignored a 12-mile hole in the Second Division's front and marched robot-like into a hastily arranged artillery ambush. This "Wonju shoot," as I named it in an AP dispatch, caught the Communists where they could neither go forward or back. It killed so many on the hillsides that an Army pilot, flying overhead in a spotting plane radioed back. "The blood is running down the hill into the river."

At Chipyong, the 23rd Infantry with the French Battalion fought one of the finest regimental battles in the history of the American Army—probably the finest regimental action of the entire war.

Surrounded on a low ring of hills around Chipyong for three days—and 12 miles deep inside the Communist lines—the 23rd and the French gave more than they got and the French volunteers wrapped their heads in red French paratrooper scarves and gave the startled Chinese Communists a "mansei" charge of their own with bayonets.

One American infantry company, reduced to a second lieutenant and 10 men and driven off the ridge, pulled itself together and counterattacked until the artillery drove the Chinese Communists off the crestline.

After the battle, by actual count, 1,800 dead Communists covered the slopes around Chipyong—against less than 90 dead inside the perimeter.

The Eighth Army had become professional.

Three weeks later I accompanied the 1st Marine Division when it recaptured Hoengsong. We charged through the town on tanks, passed the frozen bodies of the dead, and rushed the hills beyond. Not a shot was fired until we reached the crest, when a Chinese Communist machinegunner on the next ridge suddenly sawed off the top of our hill. A Marine scout had just lifted up his head to peer over, and the machinegun burst drove a bullet into his left temple and stung my face with flying gravel. He was less than three feet from me, and I will never forget the shock of how quickly a vital, charging man could be converted into a corpse. His blood spattered over us, and I was so cold that little droplets of it froze as bright and glossy as fingernail polish.

April and May saw the last great Chinese Communist human sea attacks—the biggest battles of the war. These were real actions—whole armies in motion, roaring tank columns and the thunder of an Allied artillery that at last had enough ammunition.

HUMAN SEA

The 8th Army, and to some extent the green and much-slandered ROK army, had learned how to handle the human-sea.

Across the front in April and May the human-sea had been a failure, and the Communists were fighting only light delaying actions north of the 38th Parallel when Soviet Russit suggested an armistice late in June.

To create a mood for peace, we stopped our offensive, and the Communists dug in and brought up reserves. When the armistice still cluded us late in August, we started fighting again—and discovered a new war. The Communists now had seemingly unlimited mortars and artillery, their bunkers were 30 feet deep on selected ridgelines, and every hill battle was a Verdun and a bloodbath.

Heartbreak Ridge was the prototype. AP named that one, too, for the Army would not let correspondents use the meter-heights of the hills—the normal military identification. Heartbreak lasted a full month, where earlier hills had usually taken one day or at the most three. It cost the still splendid 23rd Infantry and the French almost 10 times the price of Chipyong.

From then on until the last night of the war, these violent hill battles flared up and burned like volcanoes as either the Allies or the Communists decided to straighten the line here, or test something there.

WITHOUT HOPE

These savage hill battles were fought without any hope of victory. No one believed in victory any more—that had been suffocated under the ooze of the Panmunjom armistice talks. These fights were often without any real purpose or even justification. Even worse, they were fought without any relation to the rest of the front that might have spread out and equalized the pain and suffering.

One strip of the 150-mile line only a mile wide would suddenly erupt into a reeking, smoking slaughterhouse that went on for weeks.

Yet for miles on either side of it the rest of the front would lie under an absolute peace broken only by the cries of the whippoorwills and the gunshosts of helmeted officers and GIs hunting pheasants in the minefields with shotguns from the Seoul and Tokyo PXs.

The film "Pork Chop Hill" (this was a GI name), shows a slice of the fighting of this period—how men could fight bravely because of their self-respect, their orders, and their duty, and not because it was worth anything, or because they hoped to win. Yet this ultimate courage was strained here and there as this unnatural war began to affect the 8th Army. As death and rotation eliminated the veterans, efficiency and leadership went down. There were a few (not many) cases of American infantry from good regiments throwing down their guns and running away from the horrors of these hill attacks. The Army tried to suppress these incidents, but they are true, and you can believe them. Americans can run, too.

Pork Chop Hill was horrible, but it was by no means the worst. That distinction belong to a combined battle called "Snipers Ridge and Triangle Hill" on our side, and "Samkyangryang" by the Communists. It was so awful that Peiping Radio was shocked into broadcasting a fairly accurate account of it that exaggerated our casualties only 100 per cent—which is not really bad reporting by an enemy in wartime.

Civil Code Revision Needed

One of the admittedly constructive acts pending before the current session of the Louisiana Legislature is House Bill No. 186, to adopt a system of laws consolidating the procedural rules applicable generally to civil actions and proceedings in the state's courts.

If and when this is adopted, it will be known as "The Louisiana Code of Civil Procedure." The over-all effect of the adoption of this act should be to expedite the handling of civil cases before our courts. This is not limited to law suits as such, but includes succession proceedings, adoption and all of the matters that comes before the courts of Louisiana.

The Louisiana Code of Civil Procedure which the act would place in effect is the result of a decade of work by judges, lawyers, and law professors of the state working through the Louisiana State Law Institute. More than 10,000 man hours have been spent by unpaid members of the Institute in this project. This does not include the countless hours spent in research and drafting by the various Louisiana Law Institute reporters and research assistants who worked on this act.

The Louisiana State Law Institute is an integral part of the legislative process in this state. It was created by the Louisiana Legislature and has had a long history of productive efforts in simplifying and codifying our laws.

During the course of its years of work on this Code of Civil Procedure, the Louisiana State Law Institute has kept the bar of the state informed of its progress, step by step, through reports at the annual meetings of the Louisiana State Bar Association and through seminars held at various places in the state.

During the past year the draft of the code which is now before the legislature has been taught in the law schools of the state because it is such an excellent statement and clarification of the rules of procedure before the state's courts.

As the law of procedure in this state now stands, much of it comes from many different sources, including the Civil Code, the Code of Practice, many special statutes of the state that have not been incorporated in the Code of Practice, and then through years of judicial interpretation by the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal in Louisiana.

In addition to this, a great deal of the current practice in civil cases hinges around customs which, in many cases, vary from parish to parish. This work brings together in one place all of these various rules, irons out inconsistencies, and simplifies in some cases cumbersome procedures. The result should be that of expediting civil cases and proceedings in the state courts.

One of the real bases of a functioning government, such as our federal and state governments, is a respect by the people for law and particularly for the administration of justice in the courts. The average layman, when he comes into court perhaps only once or twice in a lifetime, is surprised by the delays and cumbersome proceedings surrounding the proceedings of the courts. This tends to lessen the confidence of the average citizen in the judicial processes of his government. Anything that expedites the procedures of our courts that seem cumbersome and strange to the layman will be of benefit to all people who have occasion to use our courts.

The adoption of this act will be for the best interests of all of the people of the state.

Louisiana Delegation

There is a political question that the voters of Louisiana would like to have answered—and quite rightfully so. Who will our delegation to the Democratic nominating convention support next month?

This is a question that has thus far been skillfully avoided by all who are in a position to exercise some say-so in the decision. The Democratic State Central Committee has chosen the delegation and instructed them only to vote as a unit for a nominee for president.

However, the party leader in the state, Governor Jimmie H. Davis, has eluded questions about his preference for the candidacy.

In Louisiana, most voters in the Democratic primaries just vote for committee members, seldom giving much thought to their choice. They do not often take into consideration the tremendous responsibilities that can be incumbent on the office.

Most politics on a national scale are handled through the committees and the average citizen has little say in such matters. But at least our elected representatives have the responsibility to seek public opinion before casting their vote on an issue so important to the entire nation as a candidate for president. The people should have some voice in this.

But as matters stand in Louisiana right now, the delegation will go to Los Angeles and the first a lot of voters will know of their decision is when the roll call is taken on the convention hall floor.

Should Governor Davis crack his "shell of silence" and voice his choice for the nomination? It would seem that would be a fair thing for him to do since he will hold virtual sway over whatever decision is ultimately made.

The Democratic party—and the state at large—placed great confidence in Gov. Davis in January and April of this year when they sent him back to the state house for a second term after 12 years of absence from the scene. The most they can hope for is a return of that confidence. Surely the governor's fortunes cannot be enhanced by a continued silence on this vital issue. Why should he fear to let his people know where he stands here?

Governor Davis has tastefully avoided giving out a lot of information relative to various appointments since he took office last month and has often announced his new job-holders only at the time of the appointment. This has been good, keeping the political aspects of state office at a minimum for the first time in a long time in this state. But secrecy can sometimes be harmful. Here, no state jobs are at stake and a decision must be made that could conceivably affect generations to come. These are trying times in the world and the next president must be a man capable of coping with the complex problems he will face.

Louisiana has a long tradition of going to the Democratic candidate — with two notable exceptions. Once the governor favored President Eisenhower and was able to take the state electoral vote for him. But such is not often the case. Since the odds are strongly in favor of our electors being pledged to vote for whoever is nominated at the Los Angeles convention, surely it is not asking too much to know before hand whom they will favor.

19th Century Presidents

None Born Within Last 60 Years Has Ever Become Chief Executive Of United States

The Twentieth Century is 60 years old and no man born in it has yet been elected President of the United States. But, barring an unforeseen event, a son of the present century will move into the White House next January 20, shortly after it has entered into its 62nd year.

The unforeseen and highly unlikely event that would send one more man born in the Nineteenth Century to the White House would be the nomination by the Democrats of a venerable "dark horse." Harry S. Truman would be the only possibility for that, and a Truman nomination seems just about as remote as anything could be.

The Republicans are practically certain to nominate Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who if elected would enter the high offices at the age of 48 years and 11 days, younger than any of our Presidents except Grant, Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt, were at the beginning of their terms. Pierce at 49 was just slightly older than Nixon.

Should Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller be the Republican nominee he would be 52 years old, still somewhat below the age bracket this nation has historically preferred for its Presidents — somewhere past the middle 50's. We started with George Washington, 57. Jefferson and Madison were 56.

Of the thirty-three men who have been President of the United States twenty-one were in their 50's when they entered upon their duties. Seven or them, including with John Adams were in their 60's. Not until James K. Polk, our eleventh President, did the nation, which has always seemed to prefer men in their 50's for President, dip into the 40's and we have had only four other Presidents in their 40's.

Adlai Stevenson, born February 5, 1900, is the oldest man today serious consideration for a Presidential nomination. Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri is a mere lad 59. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson will be 52 next year.

The Nineteenth Century was 5 years ahead of the Twentieth in electing its first son. Franklin Pierce, and Pierce at 47 in 1852 was the youngest President who had ever been elected at that time, being a few days younger than was Polk when he assumed office.

The field in both parties is younger than it has been for many years. That and the fact that so many of the candidates are Senators is one of those rare paradoxes of American political life.

But this third time in the nation's history with a large Senatorial field aspiring to the Presidency has seen the Senatorial group somewhat diminished with the acknowledgement of Senators Hubert Humphrey and Wayne Morse that they have had it. Only Johnson, Symington and Kennedy remain.

In 1920 Warren G. Harding, 55, the only sitting Senator ever nominated for the Presidency, distanced a field of older Senators, William E. Borah of Idaho, Hiram Johnson of California and Philander C. Knox, of Pennsylvania plus a Governor — Lowden of Illinois — and a General Leonard Wood.

Away back in the 22nd Congress — 1832 — Senators Henry Clay of Kentucky, Daniel Webster of Massachusetts, Thomas A. Benton of Missouri, John C. Calhoun of South Carolina, John Tyler of Virginia and William R. King of Alabama, all sought the Presidency and none of them made the grade. This illustrates how snagery the road to the Presidency has been for Senators.

The youngest of the Presidential candidates is Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who if nominated and elected, would be 42, the youngest man ever elected to that office. Theodore Roosevelt was approximately the same age as Kennedy when he assumed the duties but Roosevelt came from the office of Vice President upon the assassination of President McKinley.

T. R. was considered pretty much in the kindergarten by a nation accustomed to "maturity" in the Presidency. But Theodore Roosevelt seemed much more mature in age, experience and personality than does Kennedy. Electing a man of Kennedy's age would be something of an experiment, but it could happen.

The present accent on youth for public office in the United States is unprecedented and is a contrast with other countries. Our next President would be dealing with very much older and truly experienced men in other nations. The list included Khrushchev, who is 66; McMillan who is 67; DeGaulle, 69; Nehru of India, who is 70; Chiang Kai Shek of Formosa, who is 73 and Konrad Adenauer of Germany, who is 84.

Probably our next President, if he remains in office eight years, will be in power longer than any of the top men now holding office in the countries with which we have so many dealings.

DISCUSSES EDITORIAL

Lake Providence

To The Editor:

Just before I came to the office this morning I read your editorial regarding the governor's program to get legislation passed regarding illegitimate children.

You have many points in your editorial which we must consider. It is true that legislation won't cure people's morals. However, did you consider that it is a crime for two people to act as agents in bringing innocent children into the world without two parents to claim? Don't you agree that it is a crime which should be punished by law for woman or man to refuse to consider the welfare of the child for which their irresponsible act entered into without precaution has brought into being? I think the governor is on the right track and something should be done ... not to legislate morals, but to protect the rights of new-born citizens.

Just wanted to put in my two cents worth. I know you don't expect everybody to agree with you any way and that you will consider all viewpoints.

Journalist Back From Cuban Jail

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Edward S. Scott, veteran Cuban correspondent for NBC and the London Daily Mail, arrived Saturday after four days in a Havana jail and under orders to stay out of Cuba permanently.

Scott said he was given no clue to why he was arrested and expelled, except that officials who questioned him seemed to "think I am opposed to the present regime in Cuba."

He said before he was released, the Cubans confiscated news copy he had planned to deliver to The Associated Press.

Scott, interviewed as he rushed to catch a New York plane, attributed his arrest to a possible case of mistaken identity.

He said that in the same cell with him was Leslie Norman Bradley, of Minneapolis, a pilot suspected of counterrevolutionary activities.

He said he learned that a letter addressed to an Edward or Ed Scott had been found in Bradley's pocket, but the letter must have been for someone else, as he did not know Bradley.

The stocky 35-year-old correspondent, a native of New Zealand, had a several days' growth of beard when he arrived here but showed no sign of mistreatment.

He said he had been in jail since Wednesday morning, after his arrest just as he was planning to leave by plane for a "rapid roundtrip to Miami."

"Military intelligence officers came aboard my plane, and forced me to disembark," he said. "I was taken to military intelligence headquarters and shut up in an 18x20 foot cell."

In the cell, he said, were Bradley and 17 Cubans. He said so far as he knew, Bradley was "still behind bars."

Saturday afternoon, Scott said, he was taken to the airfield and put on a Pan American Airways plane by a guard carrying a machine gun.

"I left the land of Fidel Castro under order of permanent expulsion," he said.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Parties In U.S.

William Jennings Bryan Great Advocate Of Free Silver

During each election, political parties announce themselves with candidates and a platform. Some are significant contributions to political history; others only add to the general confusion. The Populist party undoubtedly captured the Democratic party when William Jennings Bryan was first nominated for president (1896). The Populists were middle-western farmers who advocated what they called "cheap" money in order to free the farmer from Wall Street. The Populists were for free silver, a low tariff on manufactured goods, anti-monopoly, and anti-imperialism. In the latter sense, they were isolationists. Had Bryan been elected president, it is likely that he would have made these his abiding principles. He held to them all his life, even after Woodrow Wilson had made him secretary of state.

The Progressive party was founded by Theodore Roosevelt for the 1912 campaign. It was generally known as the Bull Moose party, Roosevelt characteristically making the bull moose head his symbol. Roosevelt had singlehandedly made William Howard Taft President of the United States, assuming that Taft would carry out the Roosevelt program and principles. Roosevelt went shooting in Africa. When he returned to the United States, he found that Taft had gone off on his own. In the historic record, Taft shows up favorably, much that was constructive having been achieved during his administration. Roosevelt demanded that the Republican party ditch Taft and nominate him for a third term. The Republicans refused and Roosevelt formed his own party.

The Progressive party never amounted to much except in the state of Wisconsin where it gave rise to the La Follette dynasty.

The Socialist party was at one time the strongest and most persistent of the independent parties. Founded by Eugene V. Debs, it sought to establish a political party similar to the British Labour party with strong trade union backing. In this objective it failed. Samuel Gompers who organized and headed the American Federation of Labor was anti-socialist and indeed objected to affiliation with any political party. Victor Berger of Milwaukee served in Congress for some years.

There have been many other small and splinter political parties. In New York state, the Liberal party represents a kind of pressure on the Democratic party and at one time, the Communist party garnered some votes. In Minnesota and the Dakotas, the Farmer-Labor party put pressure upon the Republican and Democratic parties.

In the 1960 campaign, there will be a few splinter parties in various states. One of them is the Constitution party which will run General Merritt B. Curtis for president and Bryan M. Miller for vice president. Neither is a national figure; both are anti-Communists. The program of the Constitution party is almost definable from its name. But it adds a few touches which are selective, as, for instance, "'This is a Christian Nation,' U.S. Supreme Court 1892 (143US457)."

This party favors the repeal of the income tax but does not provide any substitute for it. This is one of the major problems of splinter parties. They favor particular reforms without indicating the consequences of such reforms. How are we to shoot missiles unless we pay for them? And as we have to pay for them, where is the money to come from? It would seem to me that any new or old political party must have something to say about that. Mere abolition of the cruel income tax will not help. Are the abolishers of the income tax in favor of a transaction tax or of a universal sales tax? For instance, this splinter party believes in the return of foreign trade to the control of Congress. But that precisely is where it is. What Congress delegates, Congress can retake. Each Congress is responsible only for its own decisions. Ours is not a continuous Congress in being but meets in plenary sessions. That precisely is what Khrushchev made such a fuss about at the abortive summit conference.

The Constitution party presents a conservative facade but like so many conservative groups, the program has not been worked out on a philosophic basis. It is a reaction to resented and denounceable immediate situations and even these do not fully reflect the necessities of the nation in this period of cold war. For instance, it would make membership in the Communist party a crime against the government of the United States. But what constitutes membership in this party and how it is proved?

49 Main Stocks

Startling Concentration In Few Corporations Revealed

The giant investment funds of America, which hold billions of dollars of your savings, have well over one-third of all their stock investments in only 49 stocks.

By any yardstick, this is a handful of stocks — reveals a startling concentration of money in a few corporations, an extraordinary unanimity of opinion among the professionals in Wall Street on what are the best stock investments now.

To indicate the extent of the concentration, the funds' stake in each of these stocks runs from at least $50 million to over $335 million. To indicate the degree of agreement on the superiority of the list, the 73 funds which qualify as giants because of the size of their assets have put $44 billion of the $72.1 billion they have in stocks in just these 49 issues.

Now even though I spend most of my working hours in Wall Street I freely confess that every time I come across a list of stocks favored by the pros I study it with intense interest. Maybe they don't have as much inside information as I think they have, but I like me they surely are better analysts than most of us. Thus, when I received the latest list of the preferred 49, compiled by the Capital Gains Research Bureau, I did my usual probing job and turned up some facts which I suspect will intrigue you as they did me.

Space prohibits a listing of the whole 49, but here are the top 15, ranked in order of the total dollars invested in them. Here too is how the 15 performed in the stock market decline of January-mid May — when the market, as measured by Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks, declined 9.13 per cent.

(1) International Business Machines. Held by a full 43 of the 73 funds, this stock actually went up during the stock market sell-off. The rise was 2.7 per cent.

(2) Texaco, Inc. Also held by 43 funds, this one went down more than the market average — 17.1 per cent, to be exact.

(3) U. S. Steel. Down more than the market — 23.8 per cent.

(4) DuPont. Down more than the market — 20.9 per cent.

(5) General Electric. Down more than the market — 10.8 per cent.

(6) Goodyear Tire & Rubber. Down more than the market average — 20.4 per cent.

(7) International Paper. Down substantially more — 26.3 per cent.

(8) Standard Oil, N.J. Down more than the market — 17.1 per cent.

(9) American Telephone. Happily, this one went up during the period of market decline. The rise was a comfortable 9.9 per cent.

(10) General Motors. Down more than the average — 21.1 per cent.

(11) Royal Dutch Petroleum. Down more — 14.2 per cent.

(12) Ford Motor. Obviously down more — 25.6 per cent.

(13) Minnesota Mining. This one went up — 10.2 per cent.

(14) Armco Steel. Back to the dreary side — down 22.6 per cent.

(15) Gulf Oil. Still dreary — down 19.7 per cent.

To sum up, of the top 15 favorites, 12 went down more than the market average, three rose during the decline. Of the full 49, over half went down more than the market average, eight went down less than the market average and 16 climbed against the trend.

Daily Devotional

He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well with him. — Jer. 22:16.

Jeremiah was probably the outstanding man of his age and lived in a period when the people were ruled by unworthy kings. In the verse above, he calls to mind the effective and just reign of Josiah, Jehoiakim's father. In contrast to the rule of this unworthy son Josiah showed an interest in the problems of the poor and needy. Jehoiakim exploited his people in selfishness and injustice, enlarging and beautifying his own palace when his subjects could not afford taxes to provide such luxuries.

Our Father and our God, may we be fair, honest and just in the realms of business and homes, where we reign. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

It was signed by ten legislators — Senators Adcock, Harris, Hickey, Jordan, O'Keefe and Stewart, and Representatives Barringer, Tessier, Bertrand, and Michot. It has been referred to the committee on Transportation and Public Works, and is scheduled for hearing Tuesday June 7th at 2 o'clock in the Senate.

The bill is now Senate Bill 185. With the help of our many friends like you and Willie B. Wisdom we have gotten this far, and will continue struggling every inch of the way. And it is a struggle. The Outdoor Advertising people are undercutting us on all sides.

DISCUSSES EDITORIAL

Lake Providence

To The Editor:

Just before I came to the office this morning I read your editorial regarding the governor's program to get legislation passed regarding illegitimate children.

You have many points in your editorial which we must consider. It is true that legislation won't cure people's morals. However, did you consider that it is a crime for two people to act as agents in bringing innocent children into the world without two parents to claim? Don't you agree that it is a crime which should be punished by law for woman or man to refuse to consider the welfare of the child for which their irresponsible act entered into without precaution has brought into being? I think the governor is on the right track and something should be done — not to legislate morals, but to protect the rights of new-born citizens.

Just wanted to put in my two cents worth. I know you don't expect everybody to agree with you any way and that you will consider all viewpoints.

F. A. BABB

Journalist Back From Cuban Jail

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Edward S. Scott, veteran Cuban correspondent for NBC and the London Daily Mail, arrived Saturday after four days in a Havana jail and under orders to stay out of Cuba permanently.

Scott said he was given no clue to why he was arrested and expelled, except that officials who questioned him seemed to "think I am opposed to the present regime in Cuba."

He said before he was released, the Cubans confiscated news copy he had planned to deliver to The Associated Press.

Scott, interviewed as he rushed to catch a New York plane, attributed his arrest to a possible case of mistaken identity.

He said that in the same cell with him was Leslie Norman Bradley, of Minneapolis, a pilot suspected of counterrevolutionary activities.

He said he learned that a letter addressed to an Edward or Ed Scott had been found in Bradley's pocket, but the letter must have been for someone else, as he did not know Bradley.

The stocky, 55-year-old correspondent, a native of New Zealand, had a several days' growth of beard when he arrived here but showed no signs of mistreatment.

He said he had been in jail since Wednesday morning, after his arrest just as he was planning to leave by plane for a "rapid roundtrip to Miami."

"Military intelligence officers came aboard my plane, and forced me to disembark," he said. "I was taken to military intelligence headquarters and shut up in an 18x20 foot cell."

In the cell, he said, were Bradley and 17 Cubans. He said so far as he knew, Bradley was "still behind bars."

Saturday afternoon, Scott said, he was taken to the airfield and put on a Pan American Airways plane by a guard carrying a machine gun.

"I left the land of Fidel Castro under order of permanent expulsion," he said.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Parties In U.S.

William Jennings Bryan Great Advocate Of Free Silver

During each election, political parties announce themselves with candidates and a platform. Some are significant contributions to political history; others only add to the general confusion. The Populist party undoubtedly captured the Democratic party when William Jennings Bryan was first nominated for president (1896). The Populists were middle-western farmers who advocated what they called "cheap" money in order to free the farmer from Wall Street. The Populists were for free silver, a low tariff on manufactured goods, anti-monopoly, and anti-imperialism. In the latter sense, they were isolationists. Had Bryan been elected president, it is likely that he would have made these his abiding principles. He held to them all his life, even after Woodrow Wilson had made him secretary of state.

The Progressive party was founded by Theodore Roosevelt for the 1912 campaign. It was generally known as the Bull Moose party, Roosevelt characteristically making the bull moose head his symbol. Roosevelt had singlehandedly made William Howard Taft President of the United States, assuming that Taft would carry out the Roosevelt program and principles. Roosevelt went shooting in Africa. When he returned to the United States, he found that Taft had gone off on his own. In the historic record, Taft shows up favorably, much that was constructive having been achieved during his administration. Roosevelt demanded that the Republican party ditch Taft and nominate him for a third term. The Republicans refused and Roosevelt formed his own party.

The Progressive party never amounted to much except in the state of Wisconsin where it gave rise to the La Follette dynasty.

The Socialist party was at one time the strongest and most persistent of the independent parties. Founded by Eugene V. Debs, it sought to establish a political party similar to the British Labour party with strong trade union backing. In this objective it failed. Samuel Gompers who organized and headed the American Federation of Labor was anti-socialist and indeed objected to affiliation with any political party. Victor Berger of Milwaukee served in Congress for some years.

There have been many other small and splinter political parties. In New York state, the Liberal party represents a kind of pressure on the Democratic party and at one time, the Communist party garnered some votes. In Minnesota and the Dakotas, the Farmer-Labor party put pressure upon the Republican and Democratic parties.

In the 1960 campaign, there will be a few splinter parties in various states. One of them is the Constitution party which will run General Merritt B. Curtis for president and Bryan M. Miller for vice president. Neither is a national figure; both are anti-Communists. The program of the Constitution party is almost definable from its name. But it adds a few touches which are selective, as, for instance, "'This is a Christian Nation,' U.S. Supreme Court 1892 (143US457)."

This party favors the repeal of the income tax but does not provide any substitute for it. This is one of the major problems of splinter parties. They favor particular reforms without indicating the consequences of such reforms. How are we to shoot missiles unless we pay for them? And as we have to pay for them, where is the money to come from? It would seem to me that any new or old political party must have something to say about that. Mere abolition of the cruel income tax will not help. Are the abolishers of the income tax in favor of a transaction tax or of a universal sales tax? For instance, this splinter party believes in the return of foreign trade to the control of Congress. But that precisely is where it is. What Congress delegates, Congress can retain. Each Congress is responsible only for its own decisions. Ours is not a continuous Congress in being but meets in plenary sessions. That precisely is what Khrushchev made such a fuss about at the abortive summit conference.

The Constitution party presents a conservative facade but like so many conservative groups, the program has not been worked out on a philosophic basis. It is a reaction to resented and denounceable immediate situations and even these do not fully reflect the necessities of the nation in this period of cold war. For instance, it would make membership in the Communist party a crime against the government of the United States. But what constitutes membership in this party and how it is proved?

49 Main Stocks

Startling Concentration In Few Corporations Revealed

The giant investment funds of America, which hold billions of dollars of your savings, have well over one-third of all their stock investments in only 49 stocks.

By any yardstick, this is a handful of stocks — reveals a startling concentration of money in a few corporations, an extraordinary unanimity of opinion among the professionals in Wall Street on what are the best stock investments now.

To indicate the extent of the concentration, the funds' stake in each of these stocks runs from at least $50 million to over $335 million. To indicate the degree of agreement on the superiority of the list, the 73 funds which qualify as giants because of the size of their assets have put $4.4 billion of the $12.4 billion they have in stocks in just these 49 issues.

Now even though I spend most of my working hours in Wall Street I freely confess that every time I come across a list of stocks favored by the pros I study it with intense interest. Maybe they don't have as much inside information as I think they have, but I figure they surely are better analysts than most of us. Thus, when I received the latest list of the preferred 49, compiled by the Capital Gains Research Bureau, I did my usual probing job and turned up some facts which I suspect will intrigue you as they did me.

Space prohibits a listing of the whole 49, but here are the top 15, ranked in order of the total dollars invested in them. Here too is how the 15 performed in the stock market decline of January-mid May — when the market, as measured by Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks, declined 9.13 per cent.

(1) International Business Machines. Held by a full 48 of the 73 funds, this stock actually went up during the stock market sell-off. The rise was 2.7 per cent.

(2) Texaco, Inc. Also held by 48 funds, this one went down more than the market average — 17.1 per cent, to be exact.

(3) U. S. Steel. Down more than the market — 23.8 per cent.

(4) DuPont. Down more than the market — 20.9 per cent.

(5) General Electric. Down more than the market — 10.8 per cent.

(6) Goodyear Tire & Rubber. Down more than the market average — 20.4 per cent.

(7) International Paper. Down substantially more — 26.3 per cent.

(8) Standard Oil, N.J. Down more than the market — 17.1 per cent.

(9) American Telephone. Happily, this one went up during the period of market decline. The rise was a comfortable 9.9 per cent.

(10) General Motors. Down more than the average — 21.1 per cent.

(11) Royal Dutch Petroleum. Down more — 14.2 per cent.

(12) Ford Motor. Obviously down more — 27.8 per cent.

(13) Minnesota Mining. This one went up — 10.2 per cent.

(14) Armco Steel. Back to the dreary side — down 22.6 per cent.

(15) Gulf Oil. Still dreary — down 19.7 per cent.

To sum up, of the top 15 favorites, 12 went down more than the market average, three rose during the decline. Of the full 49, over half went down more than the market average, eight went down less than the market average and 16 climbed against the trend.

Daily Devotional

He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well with him. — Jer. 22:16.

Jeremiah was probably the outstanding man of his age and lived in a period when the people were ruled by unworthy kings. In the verse above, he calls to mind the effective and just reign of Josiah, Jehoiakim's father. In contrast to the rule of this unworthy son Josiah showed an interest in the problems of the poor and needy. Jehoiakim exploited his people in selfishness and injustice, enlarging and beautifying his own palace when his subjects could not afford taxes to provide such luxuries.

Our Father and our God, may we be fair, honest and just in the realms of business and homes, where we reign. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON

Four Centuries Later Still Scribe's Town

By RELMAN MORIN

STRATFORD - ON - AVON, England (AP) — "I've always liked tonight's play," says the waitress in the hotel dining room. "But it isn't one of his best, you know."

"Prefer the histories, myself," says a taxi driver. "Saw the whole lot, beginning to end, last summer."

This is Stratford - on - Avon, Will Shakespeare's hometown.

Here, regardless of occupation, everyone seems to be a Shakespearean authority, major or minor.

The tobacconist has definite ideas about the disputed meanings in "Hamlet." The shopgirl thinks it's "a bit hard" that Shakespeare bequeathed only his second - best bed to his widow, Anne Hathaway. And arguments over whether Francis Bacon really wrote Shakespeare's plays grow on trees.

The Bard, in short, is Stratford's principal "industry."

But proportionately, he is far more important to the pretty little town than automobiles to Detroit, steel to Pittsburgh, or movies to Hollywood.

In the past few years, more than 200,000 visitors have gone through Shakespeare's birthplace on Henley Street.

Even in 1940 — when Britain stood alone in its darkest hours of World War II — just under 50,000 people saw the lovely old 16th Century house.

Today, Americans far outnumber the visitors from all other foreign countries. The register in the house shows an average of nearly 25,000 people from virtually every state.

Germans, Canadians, and Frenchmen, in that order, appear to be the next largest in numbers.

The book for one year also shows 91 Russians.

WELL PRESERVED

The house is so admirably preserved and maintained that if Shakespeare were to appear suddenly, he probably would find himself completely at home, except of course for the electric lighting.

On the walls are books he probably used, Plutarch's Lives, Wilson's "Art of Rhetorike," "Aschoin's Scholemaster, or Plaine and Perfite way of Teaching Children the Latin Tong," Cinthio's "Hecatommithi," from which, in all probability, Shakespeare took the plots for "Othello" and "Measure for Measure."

In another room there is a "baby runner, or minder," a wooden loop attached to a pole, which would permit a toddler to toddle, but only in a circumscribed orbit.

The registry book in Shakespeare's birthplace probably does not represent the total number of tourists who come to Stratford every year. Some, having seen the house once, do not return a second time. Many others come only to see his plays, presented almost the year round in the Memorial Theater.

The theater is now in its 101st season.

EMPHASIZED

The motif this year is Shakespeare's comedies — but more than that, how they developed, how he moved from the lighthearted lyricism of his youth to the most sombre notes in the plays he wrote when he was middle - aged.

Thus, the 1960 season began with an early romantic comedy, "The Two Gentlemen of Verna," "The one the waitress accurately described as "not one of his best, you know."

An official of the theater says: "It is hoped that presenting these plays in sequence will throw light on the contrasts in Shakespeare's comic tone, and that each day, while standing alone, will add to the appreciation of the others."

A similar plan presented Shakespeare last year as a chronicler of English history in his plays about the Kings, and traced his developing genius.

Nearly four centuries after he lived, Shakespeare draws perhaps 250,000 people a year to his hometown.

In effect, he sells guided tours and hotel rooms, theater tickets, programs, curios in the shops and pale ale in the pubs.

He is big business today, creating more wealth in a single year than he earned in his whole lifetime.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Summer Fare Of Books Ready

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New books of all types are arriving at the Ouachita Parish Library each week. Summer is an excellent time in which to catch up on your reading. The libraries are cool and comfortable and you will find a multitude of books and a staff willing and eager to serve you.

A new book of fiction which will interest many readers and repel others is "Set This House on Fire" by William Styron. It is a well - written character study and deals with the problem of good and evil. It presents devastating portraits of a certain kind of Americans in Europe and the peculiar characteristics of those in the entertainment industry. It is not a pleasant book and is certainly not for all readers, but there are many who will want to read it.

ANOTHER

Another new book of fiction which is certain to be popular is "The View from the 40th Floor" by Theodore H. White. This book is concerned with the world of big business and human values are strongly stressed. It is a book which is well worth reading. A very excellent historical novel with it's setting in the England of Henry VIII is "The Nunnery" by Dorothy Charques. It is concerned with a young ward of the Prioress of Cokehill Abbey and her struggles to lead her own life. Miss Charques paints an interesting picture of 16th century England and touches on many features of this period, which other writers have been inclined to overlook.

A new mystery story by Mignon Eberhart is always welcome. Her latest one is called "Jury of One" and everyone wants to read it. Especially for teen - agers is a novel called "Jean and Johnny" written by Beverly Cleary. It deals with many of the problems which teenagers face and will appeal to them.

The field of non - fiction has a wide variety of new works to offer. "Cybernetics and Management" by Stafford Beer covers a completely new field. "One Year's Reading for Fun" by Bernard Berenson is an excellent guide for a person who would like to read with a purpose. "A Treasury of Philosophy" by Dagobert D. Runes is an excellent volume of collections of modern philosophy. Certain to be in demand by the June brides is "Your Wedding, How to Plan and Enjoy It" by Marjorie Woods. "What a Boy Should Know About Sex" by Bernhardt Gottlieb is an excellent guide for young men.

FOR THINKERS

A book for thinking Americans is "Fallout; a Preview of Nuclear War." Written by John Fowler, it is a book to make people stop and think. "Man Against Aging" by Robert S. De Ropp contains a great deal of information about the many ways in which people have attempted to forstall old age. "Electronics for Everyone" by Monroe Upton is a clear presentation of the new and growing field of electronics. Those interested in the world of stereo will want to see "A Guide to Stereo Sound" by David Tardy. An interesting and unusual book is "Tin Lizzie; the story of the fabulous Model T. Ford" by Philip Van Doren Stern. Horse lovers will be interested in "Arabian Horses in America" by George H. Conn. New cookbooks are always popular. The latest one was compiled by Richard T. Houghen and is called "Cooking with Hougen." A thoughtful and provocative book is "Education of American Business Men" by Frank C. Pierson. Those interested in the paper industry will want to see a new book called "Cellulose Pulp and Allied Products" written by Julius Grant.

Books in the field of fine arts are always lovely additions to the library collection and there are a number of mos tatertavite are a number of most attractive ones this week. "Impact of Design" by Clive Carney is a lovely and informative work dealing with the whole field of design. "Current Values of Antique Glass" by Ruth Webb Lee is a most valuable book for the use of the collector in this field. Another book by this same author is "Sandwich Glass" Ronald Stennett - Wilson is the author of a beautiful book called "The Beauty of Modern Glass" which will thrill all collectors. A perfectly gorgeous book is called "The Best of Redoute's Roses" and contains beautiful plates of the roses of this wonderful painter. An interesting account of the life of Jan Vermeer Van Delft has been prepared by Bob De Vries. It will interest all artists. A very unusual new book is "Music Boxes, their Lore and Lire" prepared by Helen Hoke. An unusual fact is that a 33 1-3 rpm phonorecord came with the book.

Bridge players will be interested in "Bridge With a Master" by Victor Mollo, while football players will want to see "Spread Formation Football" by L. R. Merye. An interesting book of English humor is "The Law and the Profits" by Cyril N. Parkinson. "The Westminister Abbey Singers" by Edward Pine deals with the history of this most unusual group of people who have contributed so much through the years. There is also an interesting history of the Abbey itself, included in the book. Two new books dealing with the Civil War have been added this week. They are "The Battle of Atlanta and the Georgian Campaign" by William Key and "South of Appomattox" by Nash K. Burger. Burger visited our library several weeks ago and sent us this book as a gift.

Biographies are always popular. B. J. Oliver has written an account of the life of "Balzac the European" Jocelyn Baines is the author of "Joseph Conrad" and Charles Chaplin Jr. has written a very interesting account of the life of his father, which he calls "Charles Chaplin, My Father."

Interest Outside The Pages

THE FEAR MAKERS. By Wilfrid Schilling. Translated from German by Oliver Coburn. Doubleday. $3.95.

With war over more than a decade, Alfred Link gets along well enough in the new Germany supporting wife and family by working as a newsman. Then police summon him, accuse him of two robberies with violence and clap him in jail.

The so - called crimes, it develops, were committed as the Allies moved into defeated Germany; Link had helped the French run down some flagrant Nazis: a couple of them, and their secret network of cronies, have conspired to win power again, and set out to terrify old "democratic" foes and get even with them. Police, prosecutors, judges, court officials all gang up on Link, and this author stacks the case against him.

But the author says he is just telling the truth: Ardent and sincere democrats who offended the Nazis are being hounded like this in today's Germany. Everything about this novel is more interesting than the novel itself purely as novel. It is written pretty stiffly and the characters, instead of being men and women, are personifications: Nazi Brute, Hero Democrat, Dauntless Wife and so on. But you feel much differently about it when you learn that the author had to publish this originally anonymously, and has fled Germany for a Belgian sanctuary.

Beer, Pretzels At Boston Pops

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Back in 1885, conductor Wilhelm Geriche of the Boston Symphony Orchestra had a problem.

Summer was approaching, and with the concert season over, many of his best musicians were taking vacation jobs with dance bands at the leading resorts. Quite a few of them never returned.

To prevent this annual exodus, Geriche hit on the idea of "Music Hall Promenade Concerts," programs of light classics and pops pieces that would appeal to summer visitors to Boston and keep his men employed the year round.

CELEBRATING

Out of these concerts grew the Boston Pops Orchestra, now celebrating its 75th birthday, and still dispensing beer and pretzels along with Beethoven and Prokofiev. As soon as the regular season ends, Boston's Symphony

Hall is painted a bright green, the orchestra seats are replaced with tables and chairs, and Arthur Fiedler replaces Charles Munch on the podium.

The Pops, which is now as much a part of Boston as Faneuil Hall and the fish pier, has been under Fiedler's bouncy baton since 1930. A proper Bostonian with a prim silvery mustache, Fiedler can manage to look dignified putting the orchestra through its paces while waitresses dash across the floor with growlers of beer and big platters of sandwiches.

RCA Victor salutes this fine summer tradition in American music with "Everything But the Beer," a two-disc Boston Pops album that comes complete with two red beer mugs. In true Pops style, the selections run from Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" to "Mary Had a Little Lamb," from Saunte - Saens "Danse Macabre" to Hank Mancini's "Theme for Peter Gunn." It's all informal, superbly executed and eminently enjoyable.

With the Fourth of July just around the corner, the whole record industry seems in patriotic mood and bent on paying homage to American composers.

Columbia offers "Just For Listening," with Andre Kostelanetz and the New York Philharmonic breezing through a brilliant medley of the best of Jerome Kern, George Gershwin and Ferde Grote.

Carmen Dragon and the Capitol Symphony Orchestra give a breathtaking view of musical America in a distinguished album called "Americana" (Capitol Records). A top flight young conductor remembered for his fine recordings with the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra, Dragon provides stirring renditions of "Home on the Range," "Dixie," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Aaron Copeland's hoedown music from "Rodeo" and Morton Gould's lovely "Pavanne" from his "American Symphonette No. 2."

Michelangelo Life Is Given Master Touch

THE LIFE OF MICHELANGELO. By Charles H. Morgan. Reynal. $6.

The Sistine Chapel ceiling and the Last Judgment at the Vatican, the David in Florence, the Bruges Madonna and other Madonnas sculptured and painted, the Boboli slaves, the Campidoglio in Rome, St. Peter's and the Dome, the tomb of Julius II — is there no end to the immortal monuments in stone and canvas left by Michelangelo?

LONG ENOUGH

To be sure, he lived a life long enough to accomplish a great deal of work. Born near Florence in 1475, he died in Rome in 1564 and he never wasted a minute of all his years. If he wasn't painting, or constructing fortifications, or putting up churches to crown with domes, or writing poetry, he was sculpturing, his favorite among all his talents. Morgan allows him a friendship with Tomasso Cavalieri, a handsome youth but a purely platonic relationship. Morgan is sure, and he also notes his devotion to Victoria Colonna — to whom he wrote sonnets. He lived under a lot of popes, and worked for many of them — Julius II, Leo X, Clement VII, Paul III — and stood up to them dauntlessly, though as this author justly observes, he could turn tail and run as he did from physical danger in Florence and again in Rome.

A subject so richly documented as Michelangelo must surely be harder to write about than one relatively unknown. In the first place, what is left to say that's new? Secondly, a life covering almost a century in the incredibly jumbled setting of the Renaissance requires so much research that most biographers might never get around to the writing. But Morgan studied, and wrote, and though he's a college professor, at Amherst, he leaves no telltale pedagogical stiffnesses in his pages. This is not a new interpretation, but there are lively prose pictures of the pictures in oil, and some scenes of local life and character come through vividly.

Delightful, But Ghostly Goings On

A FINE AND PRIVATE PLACE. By Peter S. Beagle. Viking. $3.95.

Andrew Marvell called the grave "a fine and private place," and added that "none, I think, do there embrace."

Beagle, not a man to take anything at all on trust, writes this novel about the possibility that more goes on behind grim cemetery walls than Marvell ever suspected, or you, or I. A one-time druggist, Mr. Rebeck, has taken refuge there for so many years he doesn't know New York trolleys are replaced by buses, and has hardly heard of sulfa drugs. After the Biblical custom, he is fed by a raven. This talkative bird, as the story opens, warns him of an approaching funeral procession, and he flees to his usual hiding place. But if caretakers can't find him out, ghosts can, in particular Michael, newly dead, who thinks he remembers his wife poisoning him, and Laura, who has the notion a truck killed her. Campos the driver; Mrs. Klapper, the Bronx widow with her Morris in a huge mausoleum; the fleshless lovers and the fleshly ones all come to life, or convincingly play dead, in this entertaining fantasy.

Asked by Rebeck what it's like to be dead, Morris answers: "Like nothing at all. It is like nothing at all." It is the dead who teach Rebeck about living.

Pittsburgh should take a bow; this is the second novel from that city in two weeks. It couldn't be more different from Robert Musser Brown's "Brother, Which Drummer?" It would have had to be a very fine one to be any better. But it is in its way as good. This is a fresh, original conceit. You set out securely on good old terra firma, but hold tight! In half a page you soar off into the bright blue yonder and stay there delightedly for all the rest of the story.

OF AMERICA

Englishman Gives Report On Tour

THE INNOCENTS AT HOME. By Lord Kinross. Morrow. $3.50.

This Englishman with the inquiring eye and ear and the quizzical mind came over to see us with some prejudice. He regarded America dutifully as a place he ought to know, but got off the boat confessedly prepared for an "ordeal." Here he reports; though it's four years after the visit, no doubt he'd make the same observations today.

He began with New York. Of our biggest city he makes the smallest, most detailed comments: The vacuous millionaire, the motorama and burgerama, beauteria and donuteria, the advertising phrases, the bread like "wadding," the well designed apartments with no smell of good food in the streamlined kitchens and no room for the guest.

ALSO PAINTER

But he met a taxi driver who was also a painter, Harry Martin; though to judge by Martin's competent but uninspired sketches for this book he is no artistic master, he had the artistic spirit, the relaxed, un-New York attitudes which the author missed, and helped to salvage the visitor's trip. The author traveled across country by bus. He found a Texan who got rich on a salad grinder and wore a jeweled pin like a salad bowl; he thought New Orleans' Frenchiness adulterated by contemporary American; he was viewed with surly suspicion walking instead of riding in a car. He liked our museums, but is no booster for colonial Williamsburg, where a waitress' coy inquiry, "Would you like to have your napkins tied around your necks?" sounded false and toursity.

TREATMENT

Despite the fact that he moved by bus, he received full red-carpet treatment, and knew and appreciated some of our best literary lights. His comments will make you squirm -- we are more interested in things than in persons, in doing than in being. But at least he allows we provide him a new perspective on Europe, his first love. This is all witty and urbane, but I would not have been so quick to suspect a condescending air in this critic of a democratic land if he had signed his book, not with his title, but by the writing name by which he is even better known. Patrick Balfour. However, he can be democratically frank Exasperated by some one's complaints about Britain in the Near East, he asked, disgruntled, whether the fellow had ever even been out there; he had just retired, was his answer, as United States ambassador to Turkey.

Each recording is designed to display the range and depth of voices in unison - the true Sound Of A Chorus- and the enormous potentialities of your playback equipment. The many enticing rhythms of Latin America (Joropo. Habanera, Tango, Guapango, Paso Doblo, Bolero), are dramatically accentuated by a battery of traditional percussion instruments - Drums, Castanets, Bongos, Tambourines, Marimba - while further accompaniment is provided by Accordion, Piano, Bass and guitar.

I'M IN THE MOOD TO SWING." Ray Ellis and his orchestra. MGM Records E3829. LP. Every once in a while an album comes along that exudes a certain charm, a warm musical feeling created by clever and stylish fusion of material, arrangement, and performance. An album of this type is one that is not too "far out" for the sophisticated listener, yet not too square for the "hippie." Such an album is this new LP, featuring the Ray Ellis chorus and orchestra.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON

Four Centuries Later Still Scribe's Town

By RELMAN MORIN

STRATFORD - ON - AVON, England (AP) — "I've always liked tonight's play," says the waitress in the hotel dining room. "But it isn't one of his best, you know."

"Prefer the histories, myself," says a taxi driver. "Saw the whole lot, beginning to end, last summer."

This is Stratford - on - Avon, Will Shakespeare's hometown.

Here, regardless of occupation, everyone seems to be a Shakespearean authority, major or minor.

The tobacconist has definite ideas about the disputed meanings in "Hamlet." The shopgirl thinks it's "a bit hard" that Shakespeare bequeathed only his second - best bed to his widow, Anne Hathaway. And arguments over whether Francis Bacon really wrote Shakespeare's plays grow on trees.

The Bard, in short, is Stratford's principal "industry."

But proportionately, he is far more important to the pretty little town than automobiles to Detroit, steel to Pittsburgh, or movies to Hollywood.

In the past few years, more than 200,000 visitors have gone through Shakespeare's birthplace on Henley Street.

Even in 1940 — when Britain stood alone in its darkest hours of World War II — just under 50,000 people saw the lovely old 16th Century house.

Today, Americans far outnumber the visitors from all other foreign countries. The register in the house shows an average of nearly 25,000 people from virtually every state.

Germans, Canadians, and Frenchmen, in that order, appear to be the next largest in numbers.

The book for one year also shows 91 Russians.

WELL PRESERVED

The house is so admirably preserved and maintained that if Shakespeare were to appear suddenly, he probably would find himself completely at home, except of course for the electric lighting.

On the walls are books he probably used, Plutarch's Lives, Wilson's "Art of Rhetorike," "Aschoin's Scholemaster, or Plaine and Perfite way of Teaching Children the Latin Tong," Cinthio's "Hecatommithi," from which, in all probability, Shakespeare took the plots for "Othello" and "Measure for Measure."

In another room there is a "baby runner, or minder," a wooden loop attached to a pole, which would permit a toddler to toddle, but only in a circumscribed orbit.

The registry book in Shakespeare's birthplace probably does not represent the total number of tourists who come to Stratford every year. Some, having seen the house once, do not return a second time. Many others come only to see his plays, presented almost the year round in the Memorial Theater.

The theater is now in its 101st season.

EMPHASIZED

The motif this year is Shakespeare's comedies — but more than that, how they developed, how he moved from the light-hearted lyricism of his youth to the most sombre notes in the plays he wrote when he was middle - aged.

Thus, the 1960 season began with an early romantic comedy, "The Two Gentlemen of Verna." (The one the waitress accurately described as "not one of his best, you know.").

An official of the theater says: "It is hoped that presenting these plays in sequence will throw light on the contrasts in Shakespeare's comic tone, and that each day, while standing alone, will add to the appreciation of the others."

A similar plan presented Shakespeare last year as a chronicler of English history in his plays about the Kings, and traced his developing genius.

Nearly four centuries after he lived, Shakespeare draws perhaps 250,000 people a year to his hometown.

In effect, he sells guided tours and hotel rooms, theater tickets, programs, curios in the shops and pale ale in the pubs.

He is big business today, creating more wealth in a single year than he earned in his whole lifetime.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Summer Fare Of Books Ready

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New books of all types are arriving at the Ouachita Parish Library each week. Summer is an excellent time in which to catch up on your reading. The libraries are cool and comfortable and you will find a multitude of books and a staff willing and eager to serve you.

A new book of fiction which will interest many readers and repel others is "Set This House on Fire" by William Styron. It is a well - written character study and deals with the problem of good and evil. It presents devastating portraits of a certain kind of Americans In Europe and the peculiar characteristics of those in the entertainment industry. It is not a pleasant book and is certainly not for all readers, but there are many who will want to read it.

ANOTHER

Another new book of fiction which is certain to be popular is "The View from the 40th Floor" by Theodore H. White. This book is concerned with the world of big business and human values are strongly stressed. It is a book which is well worth reading. A very excellent historical novel with it's setting in the England of Henry VIII is "The Nunnery" by Dorothy Charques. It is concerned with a young ward of the Prioress of Cokehill Abbey and her struggles to lead her own life. Miss Charques paints an interesting picture of 16th century England and touches on many features of this period, which other writers have been inclined to overlook.

A new mystery story by Mignon Eberhart is always welcome. Her latest one is called "Jury of One" and everyone wants to read it. Especially for teen - agers is a novel called "Jean and Johnny" written by Beverly Cleary. It deals with many of the problems which teenagers face and will appeal to them.

The field of non - fiction has a wide variety of new works to offer. "Cybernetics and Management" by Stafford Beer covers a completely new field. "One Year's Reading for Fun" by Bernard Berenson is an excellent guide for a person who would like to read with a purpose. "A Treasury of Philosophy" by Dagobert D. Runes is an excellent volume of collections of modern philosophy. Certain to be in demand by the June brides is "Your Wedding, How to Plan and Enjoy It" by Marjorie Woods. "What a Boy Should Know About Sex" by Bernhardt Gottlieb is an excellent guide for young men.

FOR THINKERS

A book for thinking Americans is "Fallout; a Preview of Nuclear War." Written by John Fowler, it is a book to make people stop and think. "Man Against Aging" by Robert S. De Ropp contains a great deal of information about the many ways in which people have attempted to forstall old age. "Electronics for Everyone" by Monroe Upton is a clear presentation of the new and growing field of electronics. Those interested in the world of stereo will want to see "A Guide to Stereo Sound" by David Tardy. An interesting and unusual book is "Tin Lizzie; the story of the fabulous Model T. Ford" by Philip Van Doren Stern. Horse lovers will be interested in "Arabian Horses in America" by George H. Conn. New cookbooks are always popular. The latest one was compiled by Richard T. Houghen and is called "Cooking with Hougen." A thoughtful and provocative book is "Education of American Business Men" by Frank C. Pierson. Those interested in the paper industry will want to see a new book called "Cellulose Pulp and Allied Products" written by Julius Grant.

Books in the field of fine arts are always lovely additions to the library collection and there are a number of mos tatertavite are a number of most attractive ones this week. "Impact of Design" by Clive Carney is a lovely and informative work dealing with the whole field of design. "Current Values of Antique Glass" by Ruth Webb Lee is a most valuable book for the use of the collector in this field. Another book by this same author is "Sandwich Glass" Ronald Stennett - Wilson is the author of a beautiful book called "The Beauty of Modern Glass" which will thrill all collectors. A perfectly gorgeous book is called "The Best of Redoute's Roses" and contains beautiful plates of the roses of this wonderful painter. An interesting account of the life of Jan Vermeer Van Delft has been prepared by Bob De Vries. It will interest all artists. A very unusual new book is "Music Boxes, their Lore and Lire" prepared by Helen Hoke. An unusual fact is that a 33 1-3 rpm phonorecord came with the book.

Bridge players will be interested in "Bridge With a Master" by Victor Mollo, while football players will want to see "Spread Formation Football" by L. R. Merye. An interesting book of English humor is "The Law and the Profits" by Cyril N. Parkinson. "The Westminister Abbey Singers" by Edward Pine deals with the history of this most unusual group of people who have contributed so much through the years. There is also an interesting history of the Abbey itself, included in the book. Two new books dealing with the Civil War have been added this week. They are "The Battle of Atlanta and the Georgian Campaign" by William Key and "South of Appomattox" by Nash K. Burger. Burger visited our library several weeks ago and sent us this book as a gift.

Biographies are always popular. B. J. Oliver has written an account of the life of "Balzac the European" Jocelyn Baines is the author of "Joseph Conrad" and Charles Chaplin Jr. has written a very interesting account of the life of his father, which he calls "Charles Chaplin, My Father."

Interest Outside The Pages

THE FEAR MAKERS. By Wilfrid Schilling. Translated from German by Oliver Coburn. Doubleday. $3.95.

With war over more than a decade, Alfred Link gets along well enough in the new Germany supporting wife and family by working as a newsman. Then police summon him, accuse him of two robberies with violence and clap him in jail.

The so - called crimes, it develops, were committed as the Allies moved into defeated Germany; Link had helped the French run down some flagrant Nazis; a couple of them, and their secret network of cronies, have conspired to win power again, and set out to terrify old "democratic" foes and get even with them. Police, prosecutors, judges, court officials all gang up on Link, and this author stacks the case against him.

But the author says he is just telling the truth: Ardent and sincere democrats who offended the Nazis are being hounded like this in today's Germany. Everything about this novel is more interesting than the novel itself purely as novel. It is written pretty stiffly and the characters, instead of being men and women, are personifications: Nazi Brute, Hero Democrat, Dauntless Wife and so on. But you feel much differently about it when you learn that the author had to publish this originally anonymously, and has fled Germany for a Belgian sanctuary.

Michelangelo Life Is Given Master Touch

THE LIFE OF MICHELANGELO. By Charles H. Morgan. Reynal. $6.

The Sistine Chapel ceiling and the Last Judgment at the Vatican, the David in Florence, the Bruges Madonna and other Madonnas sculptured and painted, the Boboli slaves, the Campidoglio in Rome, St. Peter's and the Dome, the tomb of Julius II — is there no end to the immortal monuments in stone and canvas left by Michelangelo?

LONG ENOUGH

To be sure, he lived a life long enough to accomplish a great deal of work. Born near Florence in 1475, he died in Rome in 1564 and he never wasted a minute of all his years. If he wasn't painting, or constructing fortifications, or putting up churches to crown with domes, or writing poetry, he was sculpturing, his favorite among all his talents. Morgan allows him a friendship with Tomasso Cavalieri, a handsome youth but a purely platonic relationship, Morgan is sure, and he also notes his devotion to Victoria Colonna — to whom he wrote sonnets. He lived under a lot of popes, and worked for many of them — Julius II, Leo X, Clement VII, Paul III — and stood up to them dauntlessly, though as this author justly observes, he could turn tail and run as he did from physical danger in Florence and again in Rome.

A subject so richly documented as Michelangelo must surely be harder to write about than one relatively unknown. In the first place, what is left to say that's new? Secondly, a life covering almost a century in the incredibly jumbled setting of the Renaissance requires so much research that most biographers might never get around to the writing. But Morgan studied, and wrote, and though he's a college professor, at Amherst, he leaves no telltale pedagogical stiffnesses in his pages. This is not a new interpretation, but there are lively prose pictures of the pictures in oil, and some scenes of local life and character come through vividly.

Beer, Pretzels At Boston Pops

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

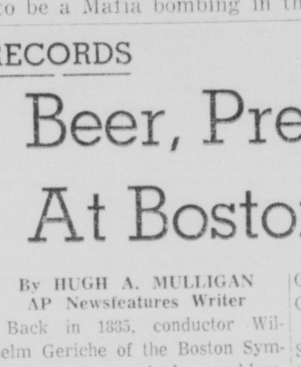

Back in 1885, conductor Wilhelm Geriche of the Boston Symphony Orchestra had a problem.

Summer was approaching, and with the concert season over, many of his best musicians were taking vacation jobs with dance bands at the leading resorts. Quite a few of them never returned.

To prevent this annual exodus, Geriche hit on the idea of "Music Hall Promenade Concerts," programs of light classics and pops pieces that would appeal to summer visitors to Boston and keep his men employed the year round.

CELEBRATING

Out of these concerts grew the Boston Pops Orchestra, now celebrating its 75th birthday, and still dispensing beer and pretzels along with Beethoven and Prokofiev. As soon as the regular season ends, Boston's Symphony

Hall is painted a bright green, the orchestra seats are replaced with tables and chairs, and Arthur Fiedler replaces Charles Munch on the podium.

The Pops, which is now as much a part of Boston as Faneuil Hall and the fish pier, has been under Fiedler's bouncy baton since 1930. A proper Bostonian with a prim silvery mustache, Fiedler can manage to look dignified putting the orchestra through its paces while waitresses dash across the floor with growlers of beer and big platters of sandwiches.

RCA Victor salutes this fine summer tradition in American music with "Everything But the Beer," a two-disc Boston Pops album that comes complete with two red beer mugs. In true Pops style, the selections run from Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" to "Mary Had a Little Lamb," from Saunte - Saens "Danse Macabre" to Hank Mancini's "Theme for Peter Gunn." It's all informal, superbly executed and eminently enjoyable.

With the Fourth of July just around the corner, the whole record industry seems in patriotic mood and bent on paying homage to American composers.

Columbia offers "Just For Listening," with Andre Kostelanetz and the New York Philharmonic breezing through a brilliant medley of the best of Jerome Kern, George Gershwin and Ferde Grofe.

Carmen Dragon and the Capitol Symphony Orchestra give a breathtaking view of musical America in a distinguished album called "Americana" (Capitol Records). A top flight young conductor remembered for his fine recordings with the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra, Dragon provides stirring renditions of "Home on the Range," "Dixie," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Aaron Copeland's hoedown music from "Rodeo" and Morton Gould's lovely "Pavanne" from his "American Symphonette No. 2."

RECOMMENDED AND OTHERWISE

"An Evening at Goldie's" (Mercury) — a musical visit to a chic East Side boite where pianist - restaurateur Louis Golson Hawkins teams with pianist Wayne Sanders to entertain customers like Fred Astaire, Zsa Zsa Gabor and Rosalind Russell.

"Iolanthe" (Angel) — Sir Malcolm Sargent, the Pro Atre Orchestra and Glyndebourne Festival Chorus aid and abet Gilbert and Sullivan in dissecting the British peerage and the majesty of the law.

Delightful, But Ghostly Goings On

A FINE AND PRIVATE PLACE. By Peter S. Beagle. Viking. $3.95.

Andrew Marvell called the grave "a fine and private place," and added that "none, I think, do there embrace."

Beagle, not a man to take anything at all on trust, writes this novel about the possibility that more goes on behind grim cemetery walls than Marvell ever suspected, or you, or I. A one-time druggist, Mr. Rebeck, has taken refuge there for so many years he doesn't know New York trolleys are replaced by buses, and has hardly heard of sulfa drugs. After the Biblical custom, he is fed by a raven. This talkative bird, as the story opens, warns him of an approaching funeral procession, and he flees to his usual hiding place. But if caretakers can't find him out, ghosts can, in particular Michael, newly dead, who thinks he remembers his wife poisoning him, and Laura, who has the notion a truck killed her. Campos the driver; Mrs. Klapper, the Bronx widow with her Morris in a huge mausoleum; the fleshless lovers and the fleshly ones all come to life, or convincingly play dead, in this entertaining fantasy.

Asked by Rebeck what it's like to be dead, Morris answers: "Like nothing at all. It is like nothing at all." It is the dead who teach Rebeck about living.

Pittsburgh should take a bow; this is the second novel from that city in two weeks. It couldn't be more different from Robert Musser Brown's "Brother, Which Drummer?" It would have had to be a very fine one to be any better. But it is in its way as good. This is a fresh, original conceit. You set out securely on good old terra firma, but hold tight! In half a page you soar off into the bright blue yonder and stay there delightedly for all the rest of the story.

OF AMERICA

Englishman Gives Report On Tour

THE INNOCENTS AT HOME. By Lord Kinross. Morrow. $3.50.

This Englishman with the inquiring eye and ear and the quizzical mind came over to see us with some prejudice. He regarded America dutifully as a place he ought to know, but got off the boat confessedly prepared for an "ordeal." Here he reports; though it's four years after the visit, no doubt he'd make the same observations today.

He began with New York. Of our biggest city he makes the smallest, most detailed comments: The vacuous millionaire, the motorama and burgerama, beauteria and donuteria, the advertising phrases, the bread like "wadding," the well designed apartments with no smell of good food in the streamlined kitchens and no room for the guest.

ALSO PAINTER

But he met a taxi driver who was also a painter, Harry Martin; though to judge by Martin's competent but uninspired sketches for this book he is no artistic master, he had the artistic spirit, the relaxed, un-New York attitudes which the author missed, and helped to salvage the visitor's trip. The author traveled across country by bus. He found a Texan who got rich on a salad grinder and wore a jeweled pin like a salad bowl; he thought New Orleans' Frenchiness adulterated by contemporary American; he was viewed with surly suspicion walking instead of riding in a car. He liked our museums, but is no booster for colonial Williamsburg, where a waitress' coy inquiry, "Would you like to have your napkins tied around your necks?" sounded false and toursity.

TREATMENT

Despite the fact that he moved by bus, he received full red-carpet treatment, and knew and appreciated some of our best literary lights. His comments will make you squirm — we are more interested in things than in persons, in doing than in being. But at least he allows we provide him a new perspective on Europe, his first love. This is all witty and urbane, but I would not have been so quick to suspect a condescending air in this critic of a democratic land if he had signed his book, not with his title, but by the writing name by which he is even better known, Patrick Balfour. However, he can be democratically frank Exasperated by some one's complaints about Britain in the Near East, he asked, disgruntled, whether the fellow had ever even been out there; he had just retired, was his answer, as United States ambassador to Turkey.

The monument is located in the Sierra de Guadarrama 30 miles northwest of Madrid.

AT JIM THEATRE

'Branded Women' Big Scale Drama

A realistic and dramatic story of the sins and the loves of women in war, with a background of guerrilla fighting against the occupying Nazi forces in Jugoslavia in World War II, is told in Paramounts' spectacular Dino De Laurentiis production "Five Branded Women," which comes Thursday to the Jim Theatre.

Filmed in Italy and southern Austria under the direction of Martin Ritt, "Five Branded Women" boasts a starring cast of international importance: Silvana Mangano, Vera Miles, Barbara Bel Geddes, Jeanne Moreau, Richard Basehart, Harry Guardino, Steve Forrest, Alex Nicol, Carla Gravina and Van Heflin as Velko, fighting leader of the Jugoslavian partisans.

BASED

Based on the novel by Ugo Pirro, the title concerns the experiences of five beautiful girls of an occupied Jugoslavian town, whose hair is shorn by the vengeful partisans when it is learned that they have all fraternized with the enemy. The Nazis, unwilling to have them around as a constant warning to other girls, drive them out of town to live as best they can off the land. The events that follow lead them to join the partisans who punished them, but in spite of their many brutalizing experiences they remain love-seeking, life - embracing women. Their moving, human, individual stories are played out against the kind of big-scale action fans have come to expect from the famed producer of such great hits as "War and Peace" and "Tempest."

TWO SPACEMEN fight off a strange monster on "The Angry Red Planet" filmed in Cinemagic and color and opening Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre.

ROCKET LAUNCHING

Hollywood Close In Space Contest

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — America's space program was so confused at one time, says a movie producer, that Hollywood almost launched a space satellite before the Russians.

Producer Andrew Stone tells the story, authenticated by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin and Dr. William H. Pickering, head of the Jet propulsion Lab at the California Institute of Technology. Stone kept quiet for three years until Gavin, retired Army chief of research and development, recently cited it as "an example of the free enterprise system almost beating the Russians into outer space."

STORY

Here's Stone's story: "In April 1957, MGM commissioned me to make a movie on guided missiles. I needed about six weeks research, so the studio arranged with the Defense Department to get me secret clearance to visit some of our missile installations. I hit them all— from Red Rock to White Sands. The research finally brought me to Dr. Pickering one of the world's foremost rocketry experts.

"We had lunch at Caltech one day. Dr. Pickering told me he feared that the Russians were going to beat us into space. He further said that the United States could put a satellite into space within 90 days.

"He couldn't stress enough the propaganda value of beating the Russians into space. I became excited myself at the prospect, and suggested, almost as a comic thought at first, that maybe MGM would finance the launching as part of a movie—a sort of third-act curtain.

"Dr. Pickering told me that, with the use of the Jupiter-C vehicle, a satellite could be launched for less than a million dollars. Suddenly my proposal was not comic. I said 'You've got your million.' I even proposed to add four million more and buy the Jupiter-C.

Dr. Pickering said he could give no authorization because, as he hinted, his hands were tied by the then bitter rivalry among the services. He suggested that I go to Washington and put the offer before the brass in the Pentagon.

"He kept urging me. And I didn't need much urging. My wife, Virginia, and I went to Washington, and there began a series of frustrations that almost drove me out of my mind. The chief frustration was that I, a layman, knew that a satellite could be launched within 90 days but that apparently no one at the Pentagon, including Defense Department officials and some generals, knew it.

"One Defense Department official told me that the job couldn't be done for less than 18 billions. I asked why. 'Because that's what the Navy has spent on it so far,' he answered. I told him that the Jupiter-C had already made reentry tests, and that a million dollars would beat the Russians into space.

Finally, in exasperation, I asked for a yes or no answer from him. He said no. So I left. On the way to the airport my wife suggested that we take it up with the White House. I told her that we'd never get near the place, that they'd think us a couple of screwballs from Hollywood."

This all happened in May 1957. On Oct. 4, 1957, the Soviet Union launched Sputnik — the first satellite — and all hell broke loose. The American public demanded that the U. S. space program recapture some of the prestige lost.

Dr. Pickering and his fellow scientists at the jet propulsion lab took over the Navy's Vanguard satellite, redesigned it into a baby moon.

On Jan. 31, 1958, a little more than 90 days he said it would take, Explorer I, using the Jupiter-C missile, took off from Cape Canaveral to become America's answer to Sputnik.

AT PARAMOUNT

'Sword And Cross' Opening Today

"The Sword and The Cross," a lavish spectacle in Cinetotalscope and Color now playing at the Paramount Theatre, presents with chilling accuracy the persecution of the early Christians by the Romans. In fact, one scene showing the mass crucifixion of the Christian martyrs has never before been shown in films. One sees the Christians, lead by Paul brought out to the hills of Tarsus and chained to massive crosses. While the hills erupt with flames, the pagan citizens are entertained by the suffering Christians.

ENSLAVED

A Valiant Films Release, "The Sword and The Cross" stars Marisa Allasio as the beautiful Carthaginian Christian enslaved by the Romans. Her gentleness, beauty and faith bring her the love and protection of the celebrated Roman warrior Marcus Valerius, played by Jorge Mistral. Gianna Maria Canale, the statuesque Italian beauty who starred in "Theodora, Slave Empress," appears as the proud and vengeful daughter of the Proconsul. Ruben Rojo and Luigi Pavese appear as the ambitious schemers who use the Christians as scapegoats to cover their crimes and corruption. Although "The Sword and The Cross" is a sweeping spectacle, it also takes a close and intimate look at the intrigue and violence of the officials ruling the conquered provinces far from Rome who prove that absolute power corrupts absolutely.

FABULOUS

In addition to a mighty cast, "The Sword and The Cross" has opulent settings, fabulous costumes and an abundance of horses and chariots. The amount of research that went into this production is apparent as scene after scene unfold with the look and sound of authenticity. Especially memorable are the exciting scenes in the slave market, the orgy in the Roman court, the battle in the Roman senate, the wild flight in the chariot and, of course, the unforgettable scenes of the mass crucifixion.

SHAMED WOMEN who fraternized with the enemy is the subject of the motion picture "Five Branded Women," which opens at the Jim Theatre Thursday. Shown are Silvana Mangano, Barbara Bel Geddis, Vera Miles, Carla Gravina and Jeanne Moreau.

AT JIM THEATRE

'Branded Women' Big Scale Drama

A realistic and dramatic story of the sins and the loves of women in war, with a background of guerrilla fighting against the occupying Nazi forces in Jugoslavia in World War II, is told in Paramounts' spectacular Dino De Laurentiis production "Five Branded Women," which comes Thursday to the Jim Theatre.

Filmed in Italy and southern Austria under the dircetion of Martin Ritt, "Five Branded Women" boasts a starring cast of international importance: Silvana Mangano, Vera Miles, Barbara Bel Geddes, Jeanne Moreau, Richard Basehart, Harry Guardino, Steve Forrest, Alex Nicol, Carla Gravina and Van Heflin as Velko, fighting leader of the Jugoslavian partisans.

BASED

Based on the novel by Ugo Pirro, the title concerns the experiences of five beautiful girls of an occupied Jugoslavian town, whose hair is shorn by the vengeful partisans when it is learned that they have all fraternized with the enemy. The Nazis, unwilling to have them around as a constant warning to other girls, drive them out of town to live as best they can off the land. The events that follow lead them to join the partisans who punished them, but in spite of their many brutalizing experiences they remain love-seeking, life - embracing women. Their moving, human, individual stories are played out against the kind of big-scale action fans have come to expect from the famed producer of such great hits as "War and Peace" and "Tempest."

ROCKET LAUNCHING

Hollywood Close In Space Contest

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — America's space program was so confused at one time, says a movie producer, that Hollywood almost launched a space satellite before the Russians.

Producer Andrew Stone tells the story, authenticated by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin and Dr. William H. Pickering, head of the Jet propulsion Lab at the California Institute of Technology. Stone kept quiet for three years until Gavin, retired Army chief of research and development, recently cited it as "an example of the free enterprise system almost beating the Russians into outer space."

Here's Stone's story: "In April 1957, MGM commissioned me to make a movie on guided missiles. I needed about six weeks research, so the studio arranged with the Defense Department to get me secret clearance to visit some of our missile installations. I hit them all— from Red Rock to White Sands. The research finally brought me to Dr. Pickering one of the world's foremost rocketry experts.

"We had lunch at Caltech one day. Dr. Pickering told me he feared that the Russians were going to beat us into space. He further said that the United States could put a satellite into space within 90 days.

"He couldn't stress enough the propaganda value of beating the Russians into space. I became excited myself at the prospect, and suggested, almost as a comic thought at first, that maybe MGM would finance the launching as part of a movie—a sort of third-act curtain.

"Dr. Pickering told me that, with the use of the Jupiter-C vehicle, a satellite could be launched for less than a million dollars. Suddenly my proposal was not comic. I said 'You've got your million.' I even proposed to add four million more and buy the Jupiter-C.

Dr. Pickering said he could give no authorization because, as he hinted, his hands were tied by the then bitter rivalry among the services. He suggested that I go to Washington and put the offer before the brass in the Pentagon.

"He kept urging me. And I didn't need much urging. My wife, Virginia, and I went to Washington, and there began a series of frustrations that almost drove me out of my mind. The chief frustration was that I, a layman, knew that a satellite could be launched within 90 days but that apparently no one at the Pentagon, including Defense Department officials and some generals, knew it.

"One Defense Department official told me that the job couldn't be done for less than 18 billions. I asked why. 'Because that's what the Navy has spent on it so far,' he answered. I told him that the Jupiter-C had already made reentry tests, and that a million dollars would beat the Russians into space.

Finally, in exasperation, I asked for a yes or no answer from him. He said no. So I left. On the way to the airport my wife suggested that we take it up with the White House. I told her that we'd never get near the place, that they'd think us a couple of screwballs from Hollywood."

This all happened in May 1957. On Oct. 4, 1957, the Soviet Union launched Sputnik — the first satellite — and all hell broke loose. The American public demanded that the U. S. space program recapture some of the prestige lost.

Dr. Pickering and his fellow scientists at the jet propulsion lab took over the Navy's Vanguard satellite, redesigned it into a baby moon.

On Jan. 31, 1958, a little more than 90 days he said it would take, Explorer I, using the Jupiter-C missile, took off from Cape Canaveral to become America's answer to Sputnik.

AT PARAMOUNT

'Sword And Cross' Opening Today

"The Sword and The Cross," a lavish spectacle in Cinetotalscope and Color now playing at the Paramount Theatre, presents with chilling accuracy the persecution of the early Christians by the Romans. In fact, one scene showing the mass crucifixion of the Christian martyrs has never before been shown in films. One sees the Christians, lead by Paul brought out to the hills of Tarsus and chained to massive crosses. While the hills erupt with flames, the pagan citizens are entertained by the suffering Christians.

ENSLAVED

A Valiant Films Release, "The Sword and The Cross" stars Marisa Allasio as the beautiful Carthaginian Christian enslaved by the Romans. Her gentleness, beauty and faith bring her the love and protection of the celebrated Roman warrior Marcus Valerius, played by Jorge Mistral. Gianna Maria Canale, the statuesque Italian beauty who starred in "Theodora, Slave Empress," appears as the proud and vengeful daughter of the Proconsul. Ruben Rojo and Luigi Pavese appear as the ambitious schemers who use the Christians as scapegoats to cover their crimes and corruption. Although "The Sword and The Cross" is a sweeping spectacle, it also takes a close and intimate look at the intrigue and violence of the officials ruling the conquered provinces far from Rome who prove that absolute power corrupts absolutely.

FABULOUS

In addition to a mighty cast, "The Sword and The Cross' has opulent settings, fabulous costumes and an abundance of horses and chariots. The amount of research that went into this production is apparent as scene after scene unfold with the look and sound of authenticity. Especially memorable are the exciting scenes in the slave market, the orgy in the Roman court, the battle in the Roman senate, the wild flight in the chariot and, of course, the unforgettable scenes of the mass crucifixion.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Pine Hills Gunners

The Pine Hills Gun Club is a week old today and owes its sudden existence and a complete shooting range to that premier Louisiana sportsman, T. O. "Toby" Bancroft Sr., who has consigned his privately owned range in the northwest area of Cheniere Lake to the shotgun enthusiasts.

A Pine Hills Range Scene

About forty area sportsmen met a week ago at Bancroft's Camp to hold their organizational meeting after being informed that Bancroft was giving to the club, for "as long as it actively functions," the use of his regulation handicap trap field and the shooting ground's facilities. The range is located on acreage ajoining Bancroft's Camp.

First officers of the organization were named as Derwood Cann, president; Bert Williams, first vice president; M. R. Howell, second vice president; Dr. R. W. Dickenhorst, secretary and treasurer; David Garrett Jr., legal counsel; R. F. Talton, field captain; and Fred Cotton, publicity chief.

The 16-man board of directors is made up of T. O. Bancroft Sr., T. O. Bancroft Jr., Cann, Dickenhorst, Howell, R. G. Hart, Gene Lutz, Cotton, Williams, Kent Anderson, Garrett, A. B. Myatt, Dr. Armand McHenry, J. C. Liner III, King Stubbs, and Harry E. Carpenter.

The private non-profit club, something of a country club for scatter guns, selected Pine Hills Gun Club for its name, picked "sand and green" as the club colors, moved to affiliate with the Amateur Trapshooting Association and the National Skeet Shooting Association, nominated Mrs. David Garrett Jr. and Mrs. Charles Garretson to encourage ladies participation in trap and skeet shooting, and tagged King Stubbs to promote the sport among junior shooters.

Gun clubs are not new for northeast Louisiana. They have waxed and waned with the shooters' interest. Although we don't know that Bancroft's interest has ever abated, he too is aware of how other clubs have faded out of existence and it is probably for this reason that he gave his grounds to the club "for as long at it actively functions." Bancroft built his trap range for himself and his friends. A skeet range was being set up during the week for the new club.

The club's mailing address is Box 307, West Monroe, La.

Wait 'Til '61

The Northeast Louisiana State news bureau, in its "Poop Sheet" on football prospects for this fall, advises:

"The Northeast Indians, hit hard by graduation, are going to field a young and inexperienced club. The Tribe expects to have a so-so season this fall, but is pointing to the season of '61. With good transfers and freshmen coming in the Indians will be primarily a sophomore and junior unit this season. Halfback, quarterback, fullback, and end are questionable positions with the line looking to be the strong point on the squad. The Tribe should be able to stack plenty of 'beef' in the line, making it tough to run against them this fall."

Twelve returning lettermen have been listed by Coach Jack Rowan as end Charlie Barnes, tackles Delmas Thorne, Ross Nolan, and Bob Tatum, guard Billy Foster, centers Gary Marchbank, Perry Beaver, and Bo Williams; quarterback John O'Connor halfbacks Terry Reeves, Levy Redden, and William Koerner. No fullback is returning.

Transfers giving help this year are due to include guards Terry Brunet (Tulane), Dan Keith (SMU), quarterback Don Wattigny (Tulane)) and halfbacks Fredyd Cruse (Alabama), and Al Ott (LSU). Junior college acquisitions moving in will be guard Gary Straughn, quarterback Peter Vincent, and halfback Don Blackwelder.

3 RECORDS BROKEN

Kansas Wins 5th CCC Track Title

By DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP)—University of Kansas track forces shrugged off the loss of speedster Charlie Tidwell and swept to their fifth straight Central Collegiate Conference championship Saturday night in a steady rain at Marquette Stadium.

The Jayhawks piled up a total of 71 points while capturing six events to easily outdistance representatives from 24 other schools in the 35th annual games.

Tidwell, who set CCC records in the 220-yard dash and 220-low hurdles a year ago, arrived only an hour before the afternoon trials and later complained of sore leg muscles.

He anchored Kansas to victory in the 440-yard relay, but then decided against taking any chances on the wet cinders and withdrew from his specialties. Tidwell is rated a top Olympic prospect.

The rain resulted in only three records being broken and one tied. Times generally were under the qualifying standards for the Olympic Games.

In addition to the quarter mile relay, Kansas captured the mile relay which wound up the program of 13 events. Jayhawks posting individual victories were Paul Williams with :09.7 in the 100, Bill Dotson with 4:10.7 in the mile and Bill Alley, who retained his javelin title with a heave of 242 feet 7½ inches.

Ron Gregory of Notre Dame set a meet record of 1:50.2 by nailing Bob Tague of Kansas at the wire in an 880-yard thriller. Gregory's impressive triumph, which lowered the mark of 1:50.9 by Lowell Janzen of Kansas in 1957, earned him the meet's outstanding performer award.

Other CCC records were set by Solomon Akpata of Michigan State with a mark of 47 feet 5 inches in the hop, step and jump and by Bob Hanneken of Missouri, who was clocked in 14:18.2 in outdistancing his rivals in the 3-mile run.

Jim Baker of Missouri equalled the meet standard of :47.5 in winnin the 440-yard run around two turns.

The meet's only double winner was Akpata, a native of Nigeria, who added the broad jump championship to his hop, step and jump crown.

TRACK, GRID STAR

Neville's Joe Cage Named TC Prep Athlete Of Year

Joe Cage of Neville — a name synonymous with local high school track and field for the past four years — has been named Twin Cities Prep Athlete of the Year in the fourth annual poll conducted by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A four - sport letterman for the Black and Gold, Cage was selected for his outstanding performances both on the gridiron and the track where he excelled with the javelin.

Ouachita's Ervin Bates, an all-state football end, and West Monroe's Roscoe Holcomb, who lettered in football and baseball, also received votes in the balloting by local high school coaches and sports writers.

Previous winners of the award were Dickie Crowe of Ouachita in 1957, Eddie McGowen of Ouachita in 1958 and Jerry Stovall of West Monroe in 1959.

Cage, a 6-foot, 175-pounder, earlier in the year was voted the most outstanding high school athlete of 1959 in the Ark-La-Tex area by the Sports Activities Committee of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

As a sophomore Cage gained national recognition in track and field when he threw the javelin 196 feet 11 inches to break the national high school javelin record for second-year athletes. Later the same year he threw the spear 206-3 and during the past season got off a mighty heave of 206-7½.

Competing in track meets virtually as a one-man team for his first two seasons, Cage was recently named to the all-state squad for the fourth straight time. Only two other prepsters have been selected four times — Bo Campbell of Byrd and Joe Harris of Baton Rouge.

Cage rolled up 131 points as a breakaway halfback during 1959 to lead the Neville football team to the state Class AA championship. He was an all-district 2-AA selection and second team all-stater in 1958 and 1959.

In addition to his track and football exploits, Cage played first base on the 1958 Neville state champion baseball team and was a starter on the 1959 basketball squad before giving up the sport to concentrate on track.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cage of West Monroe.

RUSTON AT BASTROP

Volunteers Meet 'Cats Here Today

Seeking to cement their hold on third place in the La-Ark League, West Monroe's Vols entertain cellar-dwelling Sterlington this afternoon at 2:30 at Memorial Stadium.

The only other game on the league's docket sends league - leading Ruston to Bastrop for a single contest. The Monroe - Dubach battle has been postponed until Tuesday night.

In yesterday's only action Dubach moved into a three - way tie for third place by handing Sterlington an 8-1 setback. The loss was Sterlington's fifth against a single win while Billy Bagwell's Hornets picked up victory No. 2 against three losses.

West Monroe, three games off the pace set by unbeaten Ruston, will be shooting for its second straight win over Sterlington. Earl Esters' Vols tripped the 'Cats, 5-3, in the second game of the campaign. Big righthander George Fruge, who spun a four - hitter in that one, is a likely choice to draw the mound asignment today.

If Fruge doesn't start the Vols can use either Jerry Rouse, Jackie Norman or manager Esters.

Sterlington will probably counter with either Bill Halley, Virgil Manning or Rabourn Noland.

Manager Billy Henderson's pacesetting Ramblers, who were saved by the rain Friday night after West Monroe had grabbed a quick 5-0 lead, has a fine mound corps to send against Bastrop. It'll probably be either Jim Penton, Ray Germany or J. W. Mercer, all righthanders. The Barons can call on Bobo Thompson, Delmar Thompson or Joe Roan.

Southern U. Opens Defense Of NAIA Title

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—Omaha and Sam Houston State are expected to challenge defending champion Southern University of Louisiana for the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball championship this week.

Southern University boasts the NAIA's top-rated pitcher in Charlie Gray, who has pitched 48 innings and allowed only 3 earned runs.

Royal Native Triumphs In Top Flight

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Royal Native, owned by William B. McDonald Jr. of Miami, Fla., overhauled the pace-setting Bug Brush an eighth of a mile from home Saturday and won the $56,000 Top Flight Handicap at Belmont Park.

Ridden by Bill Hartack, Royal Native went under the wire a length and a half in front of Reginald N. Webster's Quill.

Quill, who had been running in second place most of the way, only to drop back to fourth coming off the final turn, rallied and took the place spot in the final yards.

Bug Brush, owned by C.V. Whitney, tired in the final sixteenth and finished third, three-quarters of a length behind Quill, and two lengths in front of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Hope is Eternal.

It was ironic that Bug Brush couldn't quite make it stick in the 21st running of the mile and one sixteenth race. Whitney owned Top Flight, the famous race mare of the early 1930s after which the race is named.

Ten started after the early withdrawal of Big Effort, who won the race last year.

Willie Shoemaker shot Bug Brush in front at the break heading down the backside straightaway. Manuel Ycaza sent Quill right after the leader with about three quarters of a mile to travel, followed by Wedlock and Aesthetic. Royal Native was running seventh.

Bug Brush led into the turn, and as Quill dropped back, Royal Native began to move. At the head of the home stretch, with about a quarter mile remaining, Hartack took Royal Native up on the rail behind Bug Brush. An eighth of a mile out, Royal Native went into the lead for keeps.

The time of 1:43 flat on a fast track was well off Parlo's 1955 stakes record of 1:41 4-5.

The finish was just as the crowd of 39,239 had bet. Royal Native, a chestnut daughter of Royal Charger-Native Gal and carrying top weight of 126 pounds, paid $4.90, $2.80 and $2.40. Quill, toting 123 pounds, paid $3.90 and $3. Bug Brush, with 120 pounds, was $3 to show.

Royal Native, best 3-year-old filly of 1959, netted $36,365, running her 1960 earnings to $120,040.

Wightman Cup Hopeful Upset In English Meet

MANCHESTER, England (AP) —Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode—one of the U.S. hopes in next week's Wightman Cup matches against Britain—was upset by a little-known British girl in the semi-finals of the English Northern Tennis Tournament Friday.

Rita Bentley, ranked ninth in Britain, beat Mrs. Knode 6-3, 6-2.

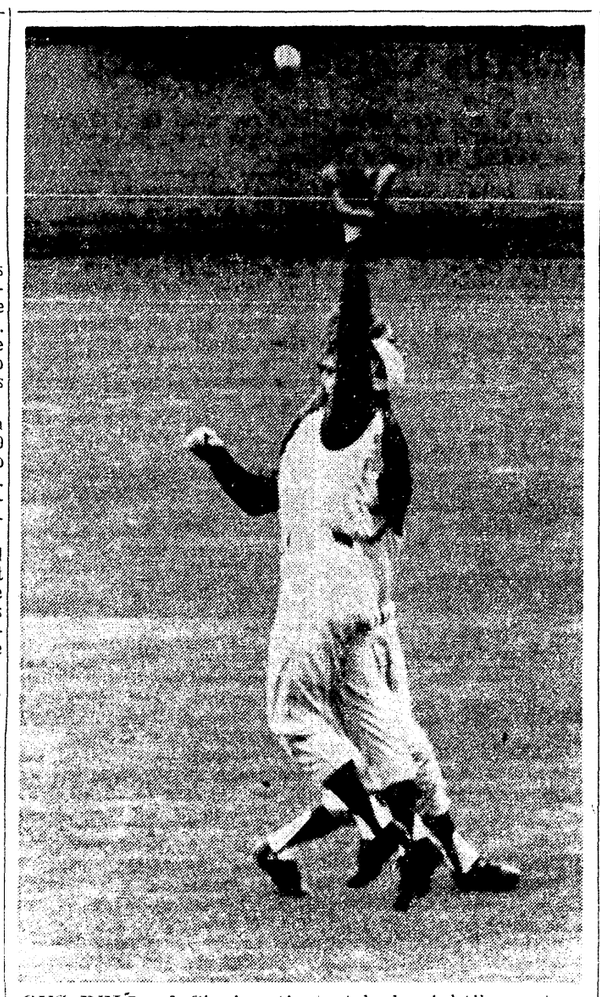

Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., reached the final by defeating Janet Lehane of Australia, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3 in the other semifinal. She will meet Miss Bentley Saturday.

In the semifinals of the men's singles, U.S. Junior champion Dennis Ralston lost to New Zealand's Mark Otway 6-4, 6-4.

WIN RECORD IS TOPS

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — The Middle Atlantic Conference, made up of colleges mostly from Pennsylvania, has the best won-lost record of any league in NCAA basketball tournament competition. MAC teams have won 17 games and lost eight. LaSalle is 9-1 and Temple 8-3.

Colavito's Homer Beats Tribe, 7-4

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Ex-Indian Rocky Colavito's second home run of the game broke a 10th-inning tie and carried the Detroit Tigers to a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Colavito connected against rookie Dick Stiman with two out and Red Wilson on first by way of an infield single. Chico Fernandez then tripled to right and stole home.

Hitting .162. Colavito homered with the bases empty in the fourth inning and singled in the sixth. His 10th inning homer was his sixth.

The Tigers scored four runs in the first five innings off Barry Latman, but Paul Foytack blew a 4-1 lead in the seventh. The Indians tied the score with a three-run rally.

Ken Aspromonte's walk with the bases loaded forced one run across and two more scored on former Tiger Harvey Kuenn's single with the bases loaded.

Kuenn came to bat with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth, but Dave Sisler made him bounce into a force at the plate and then retired Tito Francona on a fly.

The Tigers' 11 hits also included a homer by Charley Maxwell in the fifth, his seventh. The Indians collected 14 hits.

Oerter's Toss Shy Of World Discus Mark

PELHAM MANOR, N.Y. (AP) —Al Oerter, the Olympic discus throw champion, got off a toss of 190 feet 2½ inches for a meet record in the New York Athletic Club spring games Saturday.

But the 6-3, 240-pound Oerter wasn't satisfied.

"It was horrible," he complained.

The throw, however, was far better than his Olympic record flip of 184-10½ set in Melbourne in 1956.

Oerter was out to get the world record of 196-6½ set just a year ago by Ed Piatkowski of Poland.

"I was way off," muttered Oerter "But one of these weeks I'll get up to 197 feet. It's just a matter of time."

Oerter set the old meet record of 184-11½ last year. Last month, he got off a throw of 194-1½, his best of all time and less than 2½ feet off Piatkowski's mark.

In the absence of Ron Delany and Tom Murphy, scratched because of back ailments, IC4A Champion Tom Carroll of Yale won the special half mile in 1:52. Carroll took the lead at the start and never relinquished it, finishing 3 yards in front of Ed Moran of the New York A.C., an Olympic 1,500-meter hopeful.

Al Hall of the New York A.C. captured the hammer throw with a heave of 200 feet, 10 inches. He defeated John Lawlor of Boston University, something no collegian has been able to do in 26 straight meets. Lawlor, a former Irish cop, was second with a 198-1½ throw.

Erne Haisley of the New York Pioneer Club — former Big 10 champion by way of Jamaica—captured the high jump, going over 6-6, and Joe Marchiony of the New York A.C., took the shot put with a 55-foot effort.

Bill Legat of Yale, the scratch man, won the 880 handicap in 1:54.2; John Fernandez of Manhattan, scratch, got home first in the 100-yard dash handicap in 9.8; John Portee of the Central Jersey Track Club, off 25 yards, won the 1-mile handicap in 4:12.1, and Mike Herman of the New York Pioneer Club finished on top in the decathlon with 6,378 points.

Stengel Slated To Rejoin Club Next Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees will be released from Lnox Hill Hospital Sunday morning and will rejoin the club for Tuesday's game with the Chicago White Sox, it was announced Saturday.

Stengel entered the hospital last Saturday suffering from a virus Saturday suffering from a virus condition which settled in his kidneys.

Coach Ralph Houk has been running the team in Stengel's absence. The Yankees split eight games under Houk before Saturday's game with the Boston Red Sox.

Casey, who will be 70 next month, will rest at a midtown hotel for 48 hours following his release from the hospital.

Don Finishes 2nd In Highs To C. K. Yang

WHITTIER, Calif. (Special) — The Styron twins closed out a triumphant stay in California by picking up a first and second in the Whittier Pre - Olympic Meet here last night.

Dave Styron won the 100 meters with a 10.5 clocking while Don finished second to C. K. Yang in the 110 - meter high hurdles with a 14.4 time. There was no low hurdles event at the meet and Dave did not compete in the 200 - meter dash.

Winner of the 100 meters in the Compton Relays Friday night with a 10.3 time, Dave defeated George Peterson of Abilene Christian in the event here Saturday night.

Don's 14.4 time was the same as Yang's in the high hurdles and the UCLA star edged the Northeast Louisiana Track Club entry by a whisker.

The Styrons head back to Monroe, La., tomorrow. They're slated to arrive Sunday night or Monday morning. Next competition for the twins comes in the Meet of Champions in Houseton, Tex., Friday night. The brothers will be joined by Northeast teammates Jerry Dyes, Roger Beumer, Dick Hays, and Jim Mouser for the Houston meet.

Last night's meet was the third for the Styrons on their California tour. Last week in the California Relays in Modesto, Don tied the world record for the 220-yard low hurdles with a 22.1 clocking and was second in the highs with 13.9. Dave was sixth in a fast century field.

At the Compton meet last night, Dave won the 100 meters in 10.3 and finished second in the 200 meters with 21.0. Don won the lows in 22.2, the 400-meter hurdles in 51.5 and was third in the highs with a 14.0 clocking.

The twins compete d against a somewhat less impressive field here last night than in their previous California meets.

The top star at the Whittier meet, shot-putter Bill Nieder, beaten by Parry O'Brien at the Competon Relays Friday night, got quick revenge last night, throwing the weight 63 feet, 3 inches to beat O'Brien's 62-5½.

Summaries of events entered by the Styrons:

110-Meter High Hurdles — 1. C. K. Yang, UCLA Frosh (14.4). 2. Don Styron, Northeast La. Track Club (14.4). 2. Polkinghorne, Southern California (14.5).

100-Meter Dash — 1. Dave Styron, Northeast La. Track Club (10.5). 2. eorge Peterson, Abilene Christian (10.6). 3. Munn, Southern California (10.7).

Schmeling Picks Champ To Keep Title

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight boxing champion, Saturday picked Ingemar Johansson to retain his title against Floyd Patterson, June 20.

The 54-year-old Schmeling, now a gentleman farmer and soft drink manufacturer in Hamburg, said that Patterson made a mistake in not fighting a match in between last year's knockout by Johansson and this year's return bout.

"The thing that still sticks in his mind when he meets Johansson again in the ring is what happened to him last time," Schmeling maintained.

Joe Louis may be an excellent coach," the beetle-browned, former champ conceded, "but once in the ring and the bell rings for the first round, Patterson will be an awfully lonely man.

"There is a psychological influence, besides the deadly right-hand punches Johansson can let go," Schmeling added.

Louis, with whom Schmeling had two memorable fights during the 1930's, has been engaged by Patterson as an advisor.

Schmeling amazed the boxing world back in June of 1936 when he knocked out Louis in the 12th round. This was the famed Brown Bomber's first professional defeat. Neither held the heavyweight title at the time.

Louis was champion by the time their return bout was held and he avenged that defeat by knocking out Schmeling at 2:04 of the first round.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Pine Hills Gunners

The Pine Hills Gun Club is a week old today and owes its sudden existence and a complete shooting range to that premier Louisiana sportsman, T. O. "Toby" Bancroft Sr., who has consigned his privately owned range in the northwest area of Cheniere Lake to the shotgun enthusiasts.

A Pine Hills Range Scene

About forty area sportsmen met a week ago at Bancroft's Camp to hold their organizational meeting after being informed that Bancroft was giving to the club, for "as long as it actively functions," the use of his regulation handicap trap field and the shooting ground's facilities. The range is located on acreage ajoining Bancroft's Camp.

First officers of the organization were named as Derwood Cann, president; Bert Williams, first vice president; M. R. Howell, second vice president; Dr. R. W. Dickenhorst, secretary and treasurer; David Garrett Jr., legal counsel; R. F. Talton, field captain; and Fred Cotton, publicity chief.

The 16-man board of directors is made up of T. O. Bancroft Sr., T. O. Bancroft Jr., Cann, Dickenhorst, Howell, R. G. Hart, Gene Lutz, Cotton, Williams, Kent Anderson, Garrett, A. B. Myatt, Dr. Armand McHenry, J. C. Liner III, King Stubbs, and Harry E. Carpenter.

The private non-profit club, something of a country club for scatter guns, selected Pine Hills Gun Club for its name, picked "sand and green" as the club colors, moved to affiliate with the Amateur Trapshooting Association and the National Skeet Shooting Association, nominated Mrs. David Garrett Jr. and Mrs. Charles Garretson to encourage ladies participation in trap and skeet shooting, and tagged King Stubbs to promote the sport among junior shooters.

Gun clubs are not new for northeast Louisiana. They have waxed and waned with the shooters' interest. Although we don't know that Bancroft's interest has ever abated, he too is aware of how other clubs have faded out of existence and it is probably for this reason that he gave his grounds to the club "for as long at it actively functions." Bancroft built his trap range for himself and his friends. A skeet range was being set up during the week for the new club.

The club's mailing address is Box 307, West Monroe, La.

Wait 'Til '61

The Northeast Louisiana State news bureau, in its "Poop Sheet" on football prospects for this fall, advises:

"The Northeast Indians, hit hard by graduation, are going to field a young and inexperienced club. The Tribe expects to have a so-so season this fall, but is pointing to the season of '61. With good transfers and freshmen coming in the Indians will be primarily a sophomore and junior unit this season. Halfback, quarterback, fullback, and end are questionable positions with the line looking to be the strong point on the squad. The Tribe should be able to stack plenty of 'beef' in the line, making it tough to run against them this fall."

Twelve returning lettermen have been listed by Coach Jack Rowan as end Charlie Barnes, tackles Delmas Thorne, Ross Nolan, and Bob Tatum, guard Billy Foster, centers Gary Marchbank, Perry Beaver, and Bo Williams; quarterback John O'Connor halfbacks Terry Reeves, Levy Redden, and William Koerner. No fullback is returning.

Transfers giving help this year are due to include guards Terry Brunet (Tulane), Dan Keith (SMU), quarterback Don Wattigny (Tulane)) and halfbacks Fredyd Cruse (Alabama), and Al Ott (LSU). Junior college acquisitions moving in will be guard Gary Straughn, quarterback Peter Vincent, and halfback Don Blackwelder.

3 RECORDS BROKEN

Kansas Wins 5th CCC Track Title

By DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP)—University of Kansas track forces shrugged off the loss of speedster Charlie Tidwell and swept to their fifth straight Central Collegiate Conference championship Saturday night in a steady rain at Marquette Stadium.

The Jayhawks piled up a total of 71 points while capturing six events to easily outdistance representatives from 24 other schools in the 35th annual games.

Tidwell, who set CCC records in the 220-yard dash and 220-low hurdles a year ago, arrived only an hour before the afternoon trials and later complained of sore leg muscles.

He anchored Kansas to victory in the 440-yard relay, but then decided against taking any chances on the wet cinders and withdrew from his specialties. Tidwell is rated a top Olympic prospect.

The rain resulted in only three records being broken and one tied. Times generally were under the qualifying standards for the Olympic Games.

In addition to the quarter mile relay, Kansas captured the mile relay which wound up the program of 18 events. Jayhawks posting individual victories were Paul Williams with :09.7 in the 100, Bill Dotson with 4:10.7 in the mile and Bill Alley, who retained his javelin title with a heave of 242 feet 7½ inches.

Ron Gregory of Notre Dame set a meet record of 1:50.2 by nailing Bob Tague of Kansas at the wire in an 880-yard thriller. Gregory's impressive triumph, which lowered the mark of 1:50.9 by Lowell Janzen of Kansas in 1957, earned him the meet's outstanding performer award.

Other CCC records were set by Solomon Akpata of Michigan State with a mark of 47 feet 5 inches in the hop, step and jump and by Bob Hanneken of Missouri, who was clocked in 14:18.2 in outdistancing his rivals in the 3-mile run.

Jim Baker of Missouri equalled the meet standard of :47.5 in winnin the 440-yard run around two turns.

The meet's only double winner was Akpata, a native of Nigeria, who added the broad jump championship to his hop, step and jump crown.

Neville's Joe Cage Named TC Prep Athlete Of Year

Joe Cage of Neville — a name synonymous with local high school track and field for the past four years — has been named Twin Cities Prep Athlete of the Year in the fourth annual poll conducted by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A four - sport letterman for the Black and Gold, Cage was selected for his outstanding performances both on the gridiron and the track where he excelled with the javelin.

Ouachita's Ervin Bates, an all-state football end, and West Monroe's Roscoe Holcomb, who lettered in football and baseball, also received votes in the balloting by local high school coaches and sports writers.

Previous winners of the award were Dickie Crowe of Ouachita in 1957, Eddie McGowen of Ouachita in 1958 and Jerry Stovall of West Monroe in 1959.

Cage, a 6-foot, 175-pounder, earlier in the year was voted the most outstanding high school athlete of 1959 in the Ark-La-Tex area by the Sports Activities Committee of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

As a sophomore Cage gained national recognition in track and field when he threw the javelin 196 feet 11 inches to break the national high school javelin record for second-year athletes. Later the same year he threw the spear 206-3 and during the past season got off a mighty heave of 206-7½.

Competing in track meets virtually as a one-man team for his first two seasons, Cage was recently named to the all-state squad for the fourth straight time. Only two other prepsters have been selected four times — Bo Campbell of Byrd and Joe Harris of Baton Rouge.

Cage rolled up 131 points as a breakaway halfback during 1959 to lead the Neville football team to the state Class AA championship. He was an all-district 2-AA selection and second team all-stater in 1958 and 1959.

In addition to his track and football exploits, Cage played first base on the 1958 Neville state champion baseball team and was a starter on the 1959 basketball squad before giving up the sport to concentrate on track.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cage of West Monroe.

Don Finishes 2nd In Highs To C. K. Yang

WHITTIER, Calif. (Special) — The Styron twins closed out a triumphant stay in California by picking up a first and second in the Whittier Pre - Olympic Meet here last night.

Dave Styron won the 100 meters with a 10.5 clocking while Don finished second to C. K. Yang in the 110 - meter high hurdles with a 14.4 time. There was no low hurdles event at the meet and Dave did not compete in the 200 - meter dash.

Winner of the 100 meters in the Compton Relays Friday night with a 10.3 time, Dave defeated George Peterson of Abilene Christian in the event here Saturday night.

Don's 14.4 time was the same as Yang's in the high hurdles and the UCLA star edged the Northeast Louisiana Track Club entry by a whisker.

The Styrons head back to Monroe, La., tomorrow. They're slated to arrive Sunday night or Monday morning. Next competition for the twins comes in the Meet of Champions in Houseton, Tex., Friday night. The brothers will be joined by Northeast teammates Jerry Dyes, Roger Beumer, Dick Hays, and Jim Mouser for the Houston meet.

Last night's meet was the third for the Styrons on their California tour. Last week in the California Relays in Modesto, Don tied the world record for the 220-yard low hurdles with a 22.1 clocking and was second in the highs with 13.9. Dave was sixth in a fast century field.

At the Compton meet last night, Dave won the 100 meters in 10.3 and finished second in the 200 meters with 21.0. Don won the lows in 22.2, the 400-meter hurdles in 51.5 and was third in the highs with a 14.0 clocking.

The twins compete d against a somewhat less impressive field here last night than in their previous California meets.

The top star at the Whittier meet, shot-putter Bill Nieder, beaten by Parry O'Brien at the Competon Relays Friday night, got quick revenge last night, throwing the weight 63 feet, 3 inches to beat O'Brien's 62-5½.

Summaries of events entered by the Styrons:

110-Meter High Hurdles — 1. C. K. Yang, UCLA Frosh (14.4). 2. Don Styron, Northeast La. Track Club (14.4). 2. Polkinghorne, Southern California (14.5).

100-Meter Dash — 1. Dave Styron, Northeast La. Track Club (10.5). 2. eorge Peterson, Abilene Christian (10.6). 3. Munn, Southern California (10.7).

RUSTON AT BASTROP

Volunteers Meet 'Cats Here Today

Seeking to cement their hold on third place in the La-Ark League, West Monroe's Vols entertain cellar-dwelling Sterlington this afternoon at 2:30 at Memorial Stadium.

The only other game on the league's docket sends league - leading Ruston to Bastrop for a single contest. The Monroe - Dubach battle has been postponed until Tuesday night.

In yesterday's only action Dubach moved into a three - way tie for third place by handing Sterlington an 8-1 setback. The loss was Sterlington's fifth against a single win while Billy Bagwell's Hornets picked up victory No. 2 against three losses.

West Monroe, three games off the pace set by unbeaten Ruston, will be shooting for its second straight win over Sterlington. Earl Esters' Vols tripped the 'Cats, 5-3, in the second game of the campaign. Big righthander George Fruge, who spun a four - hitter in that one, is a likely choice to draw the mound asignment today.

If Fruge doesn't start the Vols can use either Jerry Rouse, Jackie Norman or manager Esters.

Sterlington will probably counter with either Bill Halley, Virgil Manning or Rabourn Noland.

Manager Billy Henderson's pace-setting Ramblers, who were saved by the rain Friday night after West Monroe had grabbed a quick 5-0 lead, has a fine mound corps to send against Bastrop. It'll probably be either Jim Penton, Ray Germany or J. W. Mercer, all righthanders. The Barons can call on Bobo Thompson, Delmar Thompson or Joe Roan.

Royal Native Triumphs In Top Flight

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Royal Native, owned by William B. McDonald Jr. of Miami, Fla., overhauled the pace-setting Bug Brush an eighth of a mile from home Saturday and won the $56,000 Top Flight Handicap at Belmont Park.

Ridden by Bill Hartack, Royal Native went under the wire a length and a half in front of Reginald N. Webster's Quill.

Quill, who had been running in second place most of the way, only to drop back to fourth coming off the final turn, rallied and took the place spot in the final yards.

Bug Brush, owned by C.V. Whitney, tired in the final sixteenth and finished third, three-quarters of a length behind Quill, and two lengths in front of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Hope is Eternal.

It was ironic that Bug Brush couldn't quite make it stick in the 21st running of the mile and one sixteenth race. Whitney owned Top Flight, the famous race mare of the early 1930s after which the race is named.

Ten started after the early withdrawal of Big Effort, who won the race last year.

Willie Shoemaker shot Bug Brush in front at the break heading down the backside straightaway. Manuel Ycaza sent Quill right after the leader with about three quarters of a mile to travel, followed by Wedlock and Aesthetic. Royal Native was running seventh.

Bug Brush led into the turn, and as Quill dropped back, Royal Native began to move. At the head of the home stretch, with about a quarter mile remaining, Hartack took Royal Native up on the rail behind Bug Brush. An eighth of a mile out, Royal Native went into the lead for keeps.

The time of 1:43 flat on a fast track was well off Parlo's 1955 stakes record of 1:41 4-5.

The finish was just as the crowd of 39,239 had bet. Royal Native, a chestnut daughter of Royal Charger-Native Gal and carrying top weight of 126 pounds, paid $4.90, $2.80 and $2.40. Quill, toting 123 pounds, paid $3.90 and $3. Bug Brush, with 120 pounds, was $3 to show.

Royal Native, best 3-year-old filly of 1959, netted $36,385, running her 1960 earnings to $120,040.

Wightman Cup Hopeful Upset In English Meet

MANCHESTER, England (AP) —Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode—one of the U.S. hopes in next week's Wightman Cup matches against Britain—was upset by a little-known British girl in the semi-finals of the English Northern Tennis Tournament Friday.

Rita Bentley, ranked ninth in Britain, beat Mrs. Knode 6-3, 6-2.

Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., reached the final by defeating Janet Lehane of Australia, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3 in the other semifinal. She will meet Miss Bentley Saturday.

In the semifinals of the men's singles, U.S. Junior champion Dennis Ralston lost to New Zealand's Mark Otway 6-4, 6-4.

WIN RECORD IS TOPS

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — The Middle Atlantic Conference, made up of colleges mostly from Pennsylvania, has the best won-lost record of any league in NCAA basketball tournament competition. MAC teams have won 17 games and lost eight. LaSalle is 9-1 and Temple 8-3.

Colavito's Homer Beats Tribe, 7-4

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Ex-Indian Rocky Colavito's second home run of the game broke a 10th-inning tie and carried the Detroit Tigers to a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Colavito connected against rookie Dick Stiman with two out and Red Wilson on first by way of an infield single. Chico Fernandez then tripled to right and stole home.

Hitting .162, Colavito homered with the bases empty in the fourth inning and singled in the sixth. His 10th inning homer was his sixth.

The Tigers scored four runs in the first five innings off Barry Latman, but Paul Foytack blew a 4-1 lead in the seventh. The Indians tied the score with a three-run rally.

Ken Aspromonte's walk with the bases loaded forced one run across and two more scored on former Tiger Harvey Kuenn's single with the bases loaded.

Kuenn came to bat with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth, but Dave Sisler made him bounce into a force at the plate and then retired Tito Francona on a fly.

The Tigers' 11 hits also included a homer by Charley Maxwell in the fifth, his seventh. The Indians collected 14 hits.

Oerter's Toss Shy Of World Discus Mark

PELHAM MANOR, N.Y. (AP) —Al Oerter, the Olympic discus throw champion, got off a toss of 190 feet 2½ inches for a meet record in the New York Athletic Club spring games Saturday.

But the 6-3, 240-pound Oerter wasn't satisfied.

"It was horrible," he complained.

The throw, however, was far better than his Olympic record flip of 184-10½ set in Melbourne in 1956.

Oerter was out to get the world record of 196-6½ set just a year ago by Ed Piatkowski of Poland. "I was way off," muttered Oerter "But one of these weeks I'll get up to 197 feet. It's just a matter of time."

Oerter set the old meet record of 184-1½ last year. Last month, he got off a throw of 194-1½, his best of all time and less than 2½ feet off Piatkowski's mark.

In the absence of Ron Delany and Tom Murphy, scratched because of back ailments, IC4A Champion Tom Carroll of Yale won the special half mile in 1:52. Carroll took the lead at the start and never relinquished it, finishing 3 yards in front of Ed Moran of the New York A.C., an Olympic 1,500-meter hopeful.

Al Hall of the New York A.C. captured the hammer throw with a heave of 200 feet, 10 inches. He defeated John Lawlor of Boston University, something no collegian has been able to do in 26 straight meets. Lawlor, a former Irish cop, was second with a 198-1½ throw.

Erne Haisley of the New York Pioneer Club — former Big 10 champion by way of Jamaica—captured the high jump, going over 6-6, and Joe Marchiony of the New York A.C., took the shot put with a 55-foot effort.

Bill Legat of Yale, the scratch man, won the 880 handicap in 1:54.2; John Fernandez of Manhattan, scratch, got home first in the 100-yard dash handicap in 9.8; John Portee of the Central Jersey Track Club, off 25 yards, won the 1-mile handicap in 4:12.1, and Mike Herman of the New York Pioneer Club finished on top in the decathlon with 6,378 points.

Stengel Slated To Rejoin Club Next Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees will be releasd from Lnox Hill Hospital Sunday morning and will rejoin the club for Tuesday's game with the Chicago White Sox, it was announced Saturday.

Stengel entered the hospital last Saturday suffering from a virus Saturday suffering from a virus condition which settled in his kidneys.

Coach Ralph Houk has been running the team in Stengel's absence. The Yankees split eight games under Houk before Saturday's game with the Boston Red Sox.

Casey, who will be 70 next month, will rest at a midtown hotel for 48 hours following his release from the hospital.

Schmeling Picks Champ To Keep Title

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight boxing champion, Saturday picked Ingemar Johansson to retain his title against Floyd Patterson, June 20.

The 54-year-old Schmeling, now a gentleman farmer and soft drink manufacturer in Hamburg, said that Patterson made a mistake in not fighting a match in between last year's knockout by Johansson and this year's return bout.

"The thing that still sticks in his mind when he meets Johansson again in the ring is what happened to him last time," Schmeling maintained.

Joe Louis may be an excellent coach," the beetle-browned, former champ conceded, "but once in the ring and the bell rings for the first round, Patterson will be an awfully lonely man.

"There is a psychological influence, besides the deadly right-hand punches Johansson can let go," Schmeling added.

Louis, with whom Schmeling had two memorable fights during the 1930's, has been engaged by Patterson as an advisor.

Schmeling amazed the boxing world back in June of 1936 when he knocked out Louis in the 12th round. This was the famed Brown Bomber's first professional defeat. Neither held the heavyweight title at the time.

Louis was champion by the time their return bout was held and he avenged that defeat by knocking out Schmeling at 2:04 of the first round.

Patterson Spars

Collins Fires 68 To Tie For Memphis Open Lead

By BILL CRIDER

MEMPHIS (AP) — Baltimore's big Bill Collins fired a 2-under-par 68 Saturday to tie front-running J. C. Goosie in the $30,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Collins picked up three strokes with his 34-34 over the 6,500-yard, 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course, making his 54-hole total 203.

Goosie, a happy-go-lucky pro from Knoxville, Tenn., scrambled in with a ragged 1-over-par 36-35. He three-putted the 17th green, missing a 3-footer that lipped the cup.

Goosie finished weary and sweaty and unusually subdued. "When that putting goes, all you can do is suffer," he said. He had company in his misery.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., and Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., suffered through 3-over-par 73s. They both stood 4-over but each chopped off a stroke with a clutch birdie on the back nine.

At the start of the third round, Hogan, Rosburg and Goosie were locked for the lead with 135, with Collins three strokes back.

Rookie Bob Shave of Willoughby, Ohio, shrugged off the pressure to move back into contention with a 36-32—68 that put him a stroke behind the leaders at 204.

Hometowner Cary Middlecoff moved up too, adding a 34-32—66 to his earlier 70-69, for a 205 that bracketed him with Hogan and Rosburg.

At 206 were Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla., and Bob Goalby, another Crystal River representative. Bolt carded a pretty 33-32—65 in his third-round surge. Goalby was 35-35—70.

There were 18 others on the board with sub-par totals and six at par 210. The cutoff was 216, which sliced the field of 72 pros to 61. Jack Fleck of Los Angeles and Al Besselink of Grossinger, N. Y., withdrew with throat ailments.

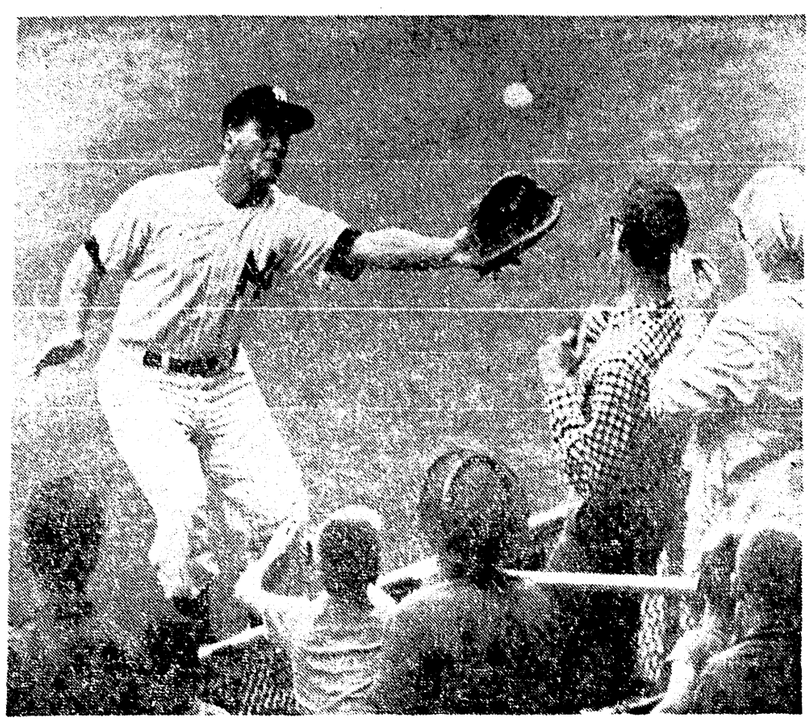

San Francisco's Ken Venturi, tied with Collins at 135 at the start of play, slipped to a 37-35—72 that shoved him back to 207.

The hot sun and tricky greens raised tempers to the boiling point. Three players were fined for various infractions.

It cost Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., $100 for the pleasure of breaking a contrary club. Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., was docked $50 for "misconduct" on the ninth hole, and Roland Stafford of Umatilla, Fla., $25 for damaging a green.

IN COMPTON RELAYS

Styrons Dominate Sprints, Hurdles

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — The smallest and the tallest — Jim Beatty and John Thomas — shared honors in the Compton Invitational Relays.

Little Jim Beatty, a sturdily built, 5-foot-6 former North Carolina Tar Heel, broke the American record for 5,000 meters with a time of 13:51.7.

Long John Thomas, a 6-foot-5 Boston University sophomore considered the world's greatest high jumper, again surpassed 7 feet with a lead of 7-1¼.

Beatty, who smashed the old American record of 14:04.2 set by Max Truex of Southern California in 1957, gave all the credit to running mate Laslo Tabori. Both represent the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village.

"How do you like that Lazlo?" Beatty exulted. "He did everything possible to help me. And he does it knowing he can't make the Olympic team."

Tabori, a Hungarian refugee, isn't eligible for U.S. citizenship for another two years.

Beatty and Tabori alternated setting the pace throughout the race, taking considerable pressure off Beatty. After they had passed the 3-mile mark, Tabori shouted to Beatty: "Go ahead, it's your race."

Thomas, who has a pending world record mark of 7-1¾, said: "My timing was a little off. We've had bad weather all along back home and I'm short on work."

He said he was a little overweight at 197, his best weight being between 19 and 193 during the indoor season.

Others who shared the glory:

Australian Herb Elliott, who easily won the mile in 3:59.2 despite an ailing right knee that almost forced him to cancel his American tour.

Twins Don and Dave Styron from Northeast Louisiana Track Club of Monroe, La., who clamped a near stranglehold on the hurdles and sprints. Practice Run Fatal To Top Auto Racer

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—Sammy Weiss, a top California sports car racer, was killed Saturday when his Cooper Monaco spun out of control and overturned in a practice run at the Laguna Seca track.

The 36-year-old Sacramento auto dealer, a racing driver for nine years, was warming up for Sunday's feature in his over 1100 CC racer.

Weiss won most of his races on the Northern California sports car circuit in a Porsche RSK and only recently purchased the Cooper from Jack Brabham of Australia.

Weiss was thrown out of the car after it collided with the rear of an Elva on the 1.9-mile track.

The driver of the Elva, R. G. Gillespi, 49, of San Rafael, Calif., escaped with a bruised leg.

Weiss' wife witnessed the accident.

The fatality was the first on the nine-turn asphalt track.

Weiss, who had been known for his lead foot and ability to take turns with minimum loss of speed, had won several major races in the past year.

He was first in class and fourth over-all at Sebring, Fla., in 1957, first in class and second over-all at the Riverside, Calif., Grand Prix in 1959 and second over-all at Pomona in 1959.

Other strong contenders will include Clifford Ann Creed, 21, of Opelousas who held the title four straight years; Mrs. Sam Israel Jr., of New Orleans, six-time winner of the event, and Mrs. J. Harry Henderson of Alexandria.

Veeck's Pride And Joy Lays Flaming Egg

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck's pyrotechnical scoreboard laid a flaming egg Saturday after Gene Freese's seventh-inning home run in the Chicago White Sox' 4-2 victory over Kansas City.

The banshee board roared and whizzed rockets as usual, but a piece of flaming "shrapnel" landed near second base.

It blazed merrily until attendants scooped it up.

Explained Veeck:

"Complete combustion just didn't occur. These fireworks are supposed to be disintegrated with each blast."

O'CONNOR MOST VALUABLE

Petras Elected Indian Captain

Phil Petras, a sophomore shortstop who makes his home in Monroe, has been voted captain of the 1960 baseball team at Northeast Louisiana State College.

A sophomore catcher from Rayville, John O'Connor, has been awarded the Bendel Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player.

Both selections were by vote of the team members and were announced by Baseball Coach George Luffey. Petras and O'Connor also were recently named to the All-Gulf States Conference baseball team.

Petras' selection as captain of the past year's squad is his third honor this season. During the annual Easter Baseball Tournament at Northeast he was named to the all-tourney team. Then came his selection to the all-GSC squad.

The 5-10 175-pounder finished the season with a .356 batting average. He clouted one home run, nine doubles and one triple. Petras picked up 15 batted in and 27 base hits.

O'Connor is a 19-year-old catcher who also made the All-GSC team during his freshman year last season. He wound up this season with a .436 batting average in conference play, belting five home runs, one triple and eight doubles. The 5-9 180-pounder batted 14 runs and collected 17 base hits.

BOSOX TRIUMPH

Fizzling Yankees Drop Another, 8-2

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Monbouquette hurled an 8-hitter and American League batting leader Pete Runnels cracked two doubles and a single to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 triumph over the New York Yankees Saturday.

The Red Sox collected only six hits off four New York pitchers but took advantage of bases on balls and two Yankee errors to score seven runs. Don Buddin drove in the other with his first home run of the season.

Monbouquette walked only one and struck out 7 as he raised his record to 5-4. New York's runs came on home runs by Roger Maris and Tony Kubek.

The loss was charged to starter Billy Short, who pitched to only three batters. It was his fourth defeat against two victories.

The rookie left-hander, making his first start since an arm injury forced him out of action last May 24, walked leadoff hitter Pumpsie Green, gave up a double to Runnels and issued a pass to Lu Clinton filling the bases. He gave way to Duke Maas after issuing two balls to Rip Repulski.

Green scored on Repulski's sacrifice fly. After Maas walked Bobby Thomson to reload the bases, Frank Malzone scored two with a single and Buddin's long sacrifice fly brought in the fourth run.

After Buddin's homer in the top of the fourth made it 5-0, Maris got his 13th of the year with a drive that hit the screen on the right field foul pole.

Boston added three runs off Maas in the fifth on a pair of hits and two Yankee errors. Runnels and Clinton singled and Repulski was awarded first when catcher Elston Howard tipped his bat. Runnels scored when Clete Boyer fumbled Thomson's grounder. Clinton came home on a force play and Repulski crossed the plate on Buddin's second sacrifice fly.

Kubek's homer, his third hit of the afternoon, came in the seventh.

A paid attendance of 18,412 saw Mickey Mantle go hitless in four times at bat. He tanned three times as his average dipped to .320.

Runnels, with three hits in four times at bat, boosted his league leading average to .367.

JONES BEATS GILBERT

East Texas 2nd In NAIA Track

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Three National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics track records were established in the final round of the NAIA championships here Saturday night, making a total of six for the two-day meet.

Defending champion Winston Salem got a record performance in the hop, skip and jump from Godfrey Moore and retained its team title with 53 points.

East Texas State finished second with 45 and Tennessee A&I, which had the meet's outstanding performer in Ralph Boston, finished third with 43 4-9.

Boston set one of the six records with a broad jump leap of 25 feet 7½ inches in the prelims Friday night. He also finished first in the 110-meter highs and second in the 200-meter lows.

Moore bounded 47 feet 5 inches in the hop, skip and jump. The old NAIA mark was 46-11½ by Bob Gutowski of Occidental in 1957.

Don Tretheway of Western Washington loped the 3,000-meter steeplechase event in 9:53.2 to erase the old mark of 9:46.8 by Kent Osborne of East Tennessee State in 1957.

Dick Watson of Texas A&I clipped another two-tenths of a second off the record :51.9 running he produced in the 400-meter hurdles in the prelims Friday.

Besides Moore, other top Winston Salem scorers were Fran Washington, who won the 200-meter low hurdles and finished behind Watson in the 400; Joseph Middleton, who was second to Moore in the hop, step and jump and took sixth in the 110-meter hurdles, and Carl Brown, second in the 110-meter hurdles.

In a special running of the 110-meter hurdles, Eastern Michigan's Hayes Jones bested Elias Gilbert, the world record-holder in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Jones led Gilbert by an arm's span until Gilbert upset the final hurdle and fell 5 yards behind. Jones' time was 14 flat, considerably behind the :13.2 world record by Martin Lauer of Germany.

Hayes and Gilbert—who won an unprecedented three events for Winston Salem here last year—both figure prominently as Olympic prospects.

Besides Boston's broad jump leap, record performances in the 5,000-meter run and the 400-meter dash Friday stood up through the final round. Lamar Tech's Ian Stewart ran the 5,000 in 14:51.3 and Walter Johnson of North Caroline College won the 400-meter dash in :46.9.

Bossier Hands Oak Grove 4-1 Exhibition Loss

OAK GROVE, La. (Special) — Bossier City bunched three runs in the third inning to defeat Oak Grove's Pelican League nine, 4-1, in an exhibition game here yesterday.

Oman Rutherford yielded only five hits in going the route for Oak Grove but hit four batters to boost the Bossier scoring. Pierce of Bossier gave up only three hits.

Oak Grove whipped Rayville, 9-3, Friday in another practice tilt. Billy Allsbrook provided the big fireworks with a bases-loaded home run. Marcus Ashley picked up the win while Ed Quimby took the loss.

Oak Grove takes on Newellton here this afternoon in a regular Pelican League doubleheader beginning at 2 p.m. Michael Vining is scheduled to hurl the opener for the hosts.

Mulkey Takes Three Events

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Phil Mulkey of Memphis, decathlon champ at the Kansas Relays, won three events and placed in four others for 25 points Saturday in the St. Louis open track and field meet.

Mulkey set a meet record of 14 feet ½ inch in the pole vault. He won the high hurdles in 15 seconds 6¼ inches flat and took the discus with a throw of 134 feet 4½ inches. In addition, he was second in the shot put and javelin and third in the broad jump and low hurdles.

Morris Patterson of Missouri won the mile at 4:24. Henry Wiebe, also of Missouri, took the 440 in a meet record tying 49 seconds flat. Bob Nordmann, better known as a St. Louis U. basketball star, won the shotput at 51 feet 7¾ inches last year.

Gutowski, Al Cantello Keep Marine Titles

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — World record-holders Bob Gutowski and Al Cantello survived stiff opposition and retained their Marine Corps championships in the pole vault and javelin Saturday as the All-Marine meet came to an end.

Gutowski, whose world mark in the pole vault is 15 feet, 8¾ inches, did no better than 15 feet Saturday and only the use of a tie-breaking procedure saved him from a tie with a former Quantico teammate, Mel Schwarz.

Schwarz also cleared 15 feet, but lost out because he had failed to clear 14-6 on his first try. Both he and Gutowski, who now competes for Camp Pendleton, Calif., missed at 15-3.

Cantello, who owns the world record of 282 feet, 3½ inches in Marine barely fended off 20-year-old Jan Sikorsky of Camp Pendleton, Whose best pitch was 248-1.

Gutoeki's 15-foot vault, though somewhat disappointing, still was good enough to set an All-Marine record. He had set the previous record with a vault of 14 feet, 7¾ inches last year.

Two other All-Marine records were set in Saturday's 11-event program—both by Quantico contestants as the host team completed a sweep of 16 out of 19 events on the two-day show. Mike Fleming, former Nebraska star who had won the 300 meters Friday, won the 1,500-meter run in 3:43.5 to clip five-tenths of a second off the old record set by Wes Santee in 1956. And Jim Allen, Friday's winner in the discus, put the shot 54 feet, 3 inches to add 4½ inches to the previous record established last year.

Collins Fires 68 To Tie For Memphis Open Lead

By BILL CRIDER

MEMPHIS (AP) — Baltimore's big Bill Collins fired a 2-under-par 68 Saturday to tie front-running J. C. Goosie in the $30,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Collins picked up three strokes with his 34-34 over the 6,500-yard, 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course, making his 54-hole total 203.

Goosie, a happy-go-lucky pro from Knoxville, Tenn., scrambled in with a ragged 1-over-par 36-35. He three-putted the 17th green, missing a 3-footer that lipped the cup.

Goosie finished weary and sweaty and unusually subdued. "When that putting goes, all you can do is suffer," he said. He had company in his misery.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., and Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., suffered through 3-over-par 73s. They both stood 4-over but each chopped off a stroke with a clutch birdie on the back nine.

At the start of the third round, Hogan, Rosburg and Goosie were locked for the lead with 135, with Collins three strokes back.

Rookie Bob Shave of Willoughby Ohio, shrugged off the pressure to move back into contention with a 36-32—68 that put him a stroke behind the leaders at 204.

Hometowner Cary Middlecoff moved up too, adding a 34-32—66 to his earlier 70-69, for a 205 that bracketed him with Hogan and Rosburg.

At 206 were Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla., and Bob Goalby, another Crystal River representative. Bolt carded a pretty 33-32—65 in his third-round surge. Goalby was 35-35—70.

There were 18 others on the board with sub-par totals and six at par 210. The cutoff was 216, which sliced the field of 72 pros to 61. Jack Fleck of Los Angeles and Al Besselink of Grossinger, N. Y., withdrew with throat ailments.

San Francisco's Ken Venturi, tied with Collins at 135 at the start of play, slipped to a 37-35—72 that shoved him back to 207.

The hot sun and tricky greens raised tempers to the boiling point. Three players were fined for various infractions.

It cost Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., $100 for the pleasure of breaking a contrary club. Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., was docked $50 for "misconduct" on the ninth hole, and Roland Stafford of Umatilla, Fla., $25 for damaging a green.

O'CONNOR MOST VALUABLE

Petras Elected Indian Captain

Phil Petras, a sophomore shortstop who makes his home in Monroe, has been voted captain of the 1960 baseball team at Northeast Louisiana State College.

A sophomore catcher from Rayville, John O'Connor, has been awarded the Bendel Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player.

Both selections were by vote of the team members and were announced by Baseball Coach George Luffey. Petras and O'Connor also were recently named to the All-Gulf States Conference baseball team.

Petras' selection as captain of the past year's squad is his third honor this season. During the annual Easter Baseball Tournament at Northeast he was named to the all-tourney team. Then came his selection to the all-GSC squad.

The 5-10 175-pounder finished the season with a .356 batting average. He clouted one home run, nine doubles and one triple. Petras picked up 15 batted in and 27 base hits.

O'Connor is a 19-year-old catcher who also made the All-GSC team during his freshman year last season. He wound up this season with a .436 batting average in conference play, belting five home runs, one triple and light doubles. The 5-9 180-pounder batted 14 runs and collected 17 base hits.

APPLYING THE BRAKES near the stands, New York Yankee first baseman Bill Skowron makes a futile try to grab a foul ball off the bat of Boston Red Sox center fielder Bobby Thomson at Yankee Stadium yesterday. This action came in the first inning of the contest won by Boston, 8-2. (AP Wirephoto)

BOSOX TRIUMPH

Fizzling Yankees Drop Another, 8-2

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Monbouquette hurled an 8-hitter and American League batting leader Pete Runnels cracked two doubles and a single to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 triumph over the New York Yankees Saturday.

The Red Sox collected only six hits off four New York pitchers but took advantage of bases on balls and two Yankee errors to score seven runs. Don Buddin drove in the other with his first home run of the season.

Monbouquette walked only one and struck out 7 as he raised his record to 5-4. New York's runs came on home runs by Roger Maris and Tony Kubek.

The loss was charged to starter Billy Short, who pitched to only three batters. It was his fourth defeat against two victories.

The rookie left-hander, making his first start since an arm injury forced him out of action last May 24, walked leadoff hitter Pumpsie Green, gave up a double to Runnels and issued a pass to Lu Clinton filling the bases. He gave way to Duke Maas after issuing two balls to Rip Repulski.

Green scored on Repulski's sacrifice fly. After Maas walked Bobby Thomson to re-load the bases, Frank Malzone scored two with a single and Buddin's long sacrifice fly brought in the fourth run.

After Buddin's homer in the top of the fourth made it 5-0, Maris got his 12th of the year with a drive that hit the screen on the right field foul pole.

Boston added three runs off Maas in the fifth on a pair of hits and two Yankee errors. Runnels and Clinton singled and Repulski was awarded first when catcher Elston Howard tipped his bat. Runnels scored when Cletis Boyer fumbled Thomson's grounder. Clinton came home on a force play and Repulski crossed the plate on Buddin's second sacrifice fly.

Kubek's homer, his third hit of the afternoon, came in the seventh.

A paid attendance of 18,412 saw Mickey Mantle go hitless in four times at bat. He fanned three times as his average dipped to .223.

Runnels, with three hits in four times at bat, boosted his league leading average to .367.

JONES BEATS GILBERT

East Texas 2nd In NAIA Track

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Three National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics track records were established in the final round of the NAIA championships here Saturday night, making a total of six for the two-day meet.

Defending champion Winston Salem got a record performance in the hop, skip and jump from Godfrey Moore and retained its team title with 58 points.

East Texas State finished second with 45 and Tennessee A&I, which had the meet's outstanding performer in Ralph Boston, finished third with 43 4-9.

Boston set one of the six records with a broad jump leap of 25 feet 7¼ inches in the prelims Friday night. He also finished first in the 110-meter highs and second in the 200-meter lows.

Moore bounded 47 feet 5 inches in the hop, skip and jump. The old NAIA mark was 46-11½ by Bob Gutowski of Occidental in 1957.

Don Tretheway of Western Washington loped the 3,000-meter steeplechase event in 9:53.2 to erase the old mark of 9:46.8 by Kent Osborne of East Tennessee State in 1957.

Dick Watson of Texas A&I clipped another two-tenths of a second off the record :51.0 running he produced in the 400-meter hurdles in the prelims Friday.

Besides Moore, other top Winston Salem scorers were Fran Washington, who won the 200-meter low hurdles and finished behind Watson in the 400; Joseph Middleton, who was second to Moore in the hop, step and jump and took sixth in the 110-meter hurdles, and Carl Brown, second in the 110-meter hurdles.

In a special running of the 110-meter hurdles, Eastern Michigan's Hayes Jones bested Elias Gilbert, the world record-holder in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Jones led Gilbert by an arm's span until Gilbert upset the final hurdle and fell 5 yards behind. Jones' time was 14 flat, considerably behind the :13.2 world record by Martin Lauer of Germany.

Hayes and Gilbert—who won an unprecedented three events for Winston Salem here last year—both figure prominently as Olympic prospects.

Besides Boston's broad jump leap, record performances in the 5,000-meter run and the 400-meter dash Friday stood up through the final round. Lamar Tech's Ian Stewart ran the 5,000 in 14:51.3 and Walter Johnson of North Caroline College won the 400-meter dash in :46.9.

Mulkey Takes Three Events

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Phil Mulkey of Memphis, decathlon champ at the Kansas Relays, won three events and placed in four others for 25 points Saturday in the St. Louis open track and field meet.

Mulkey set a meet record of 14 feet ½ inch in the pole vault. He won the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat and took the discus with a throw of 134 feet 4½ inches. In addition, he was second in the shot put and javelin and third in the broad jump and low hurdles.

Morris Patterson of Missouri won the mile at 4:24. Henry Wiebe, also of Missouri, took the 440 in a meet record tying 49 seconds flat. Bob Nordmann, better known as a St. Louis U. basketball star, won the shotput at 51 feet 6¼ inches.

Bossier Hands Oak Grove 4-1 Exhibition Loss

OAK GROVE, La. (Special) — Bossier City bunched three runs in the third inning to defeat Oak Grove's Pelican League nine, 4-1, in an exhibition game here yesterday.

Oman Rutherford yielded only five hits in going the route for Oak Grove but hit four batters to boost the Bossier scoring. Pierce of Bossier gave up only three hits.

Oak Grove whipped Rayville, 9-3, Friday in another practice tilt. Billy Alsbrook provided the big fireworks with a bases-loaded home run. Marcus Ashley picked up the win while Ed Quimby took the loss.

Oak Grove takes on Newellton here this afternoon in a regular Pelican League doubleheader beginning at 2 p.m. Michael Vining is scheduled to hurl the opener for the hosts.

Gutowski, Al Cantello Keep Marine Titles

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — World record-holders Bob Gutowski and Al Cantello survived stiff opposition and retained their Marine Corps championships in the pole vault and javelin Saturday as the All-Marine meet came to an end.

Gutowski, whose world mark in the pole vault is 15 feet, 8¼ inches, did no better than 15 feet Saturday and only the use of a tie-breaking procedure saved him from a tie with a former Quantico teammate, Mel Schwarz.

Schwarz also cleared 15 feet, but lost out because he had failed to clear 14-6 on his first try. Both he and Gutowski, who now competes for Camp Pendleton, Calif., missed at 15-3.

Cantello, who owns the world record of 282 feet, 3½ inches in Marine barely fended off 20-year-old Jan Sikorsky of Camp Pendleton, Whose best pitch was 248-1.

Gutoeki's 15-foot vault, though somewhat disappointing, still was good enough to set an All-Marine record. He had set the previous record with a vault of 14 feet, 7¾ inches last year.

Two other All-Marine records were set in Saturday's 11-event program—both by Quantico contestants as the host team completed a sweep of 16 out of 19 events on the two-day show. Mike Fleming, former Nebraska star who had won the 800 meters Friday, won the 1,500-meter run in 3:43.5 to clip five-tenths of a second off the old record set by Wes Santee in 1956. And Jim Allen, Friday's winner in the discus, put the shot 54 feet, 3 inches to add 4½ inches to the previous record established last year.

IN COMPTON RELAYS

Styrons Dominate Sprints, Hurdles

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — The smallest and the tallest — Jim Beatty and John Thomas — shared honors in the Compton Invitational Relays.

Little Jim Beatty, a sturdily built, 5-foot-6 former North Carolina Tar Heel, broke the American record for 5,000 meters with a time of 13:51.7.

Long John Thomas, a 6-foot-5 Boston University sophomore considered the world's greatest high jumper, again surpassed 7 feet with a lead of 7-1¼.

Beatty, who smashed the old American record of 14:04.2 set by Max Truex of Southern California in 1957, gave all the credit to running mate Laslo Tabori. Both represent the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village.

"How do you like that Lazlo?" Beatty exulted. "He did everything possible to help me. And he does it knowing he can't make the Olympic team."

Tabori, a Hungarian refugee, isn't eligible for U.S. citizenship for another two years.

Beatty and Tabori alternated setting the pace throughout the race, taking considerable pressure off Beatty. After they had passed the 3-mile mark, Tabori shouted to Beatty: "Go ahead, it's your race."

Thomas, who has a pending world record mark of 7-1¾, said: "My timing was a little off. We've had bad weather all along back home and I'm short on work."

He said he was a little overweight at 197, his best weight being between 19 and 193 during the indoor season.

Others who shared the glory:

Australian Herb Elliott, who easily won the mile in 3:59.2 despite an ailing right knee that almost forced him to cancel his American tour.

Twins Don and Dave Styron from Northeast Louisiana Track Club of Monroe, La., who clamped a near stranglehold on the hurdles and sprints. Don won the 220-yard low hurdles in :22.2 and the 400-meter hurdles in :51.3, finishing third to Lee Calhoun in the high hurdles. Dave upset the 100-meter field in :10.3 and finished second in the 200 meters, won by freshman Adolph Plummer of New Mexico in :20.9.

Ken Floerke of the Army hopped stepped and jumped 51 feet 11½ inches and fellow soldier Deacon Jones won the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:49.7.

Parry O'Brien won a lackluster shot put duel with Bill Nieder and Dave Davis with a heave of 62 feet 8½ inches. Nieder, hampered by a bad right leg, had 62-5½ and Davis' best was 59-11.

Practice Run Fatal To Top Auto Racer

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—Sammy Weiss, a top California sports car racer, was killed Saturday when his Cooper Monaco spun out of control and overturned in a practice run at the Laguna Seca track.

The 36-year-old Sacramento auto dealer, a racing driver for nine years, was warming up for Sunday's feature in his over 1100 CC racer.

Weiss won most of his races on the Northern California sports car circuit in a Porsche RSK and only recently purchased the Cooper from Jack Brabham of Australia.

Weiss was thrown out of the car after it collided with the rear of an Elva on the 1.9-mile track.

The driver of the Elva, R. G. Gillespi, 49, of San Rafael, Calif., escaped with a bruised leg.

Weiss' wife witnessed the accident.

The fatality was the first on the nine-turn asphalt track.

Weiss, who had been known for his lead foot and ability to take turns with minimum loss of speed, had won several major races in the past few years.

He was first in class and fourth over-all at Sebring, Fla., in 1957, first in class and second over-all at the Riverside, Calif., Grand Prix in 1959 and second over-all at Pomona in 1959.

Marjo Simmons Opens Defense Of State Crown

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Marjo Simmons of Bogalusa opens defense of her title Monday when qualifying starts in the 32nd annual Louisiana women's state golf tournament.

Match play will begin Tuesday over the 6,017-yard par 37-37—74 Alexandria Country Club course. The 36-hole championship round will be played Friday.

Barbara Faye White, 19-year-old college student, will be one of the strongest threats in the field of more than 100. Miss White, daughter of Shreveport pro Ned White, was runner-up in the 1959 tourney.

Other strong contenders will include Clifford Ann Creed, 21, of Opelousas who held the title four straight years; Mrs. Sam Israel Jr., of New Orleans, six-time winner of the event, and Mrs. J. Harry Henderson of Alexandria.

Veeck's Pride And Joy Lays Flaming Egg

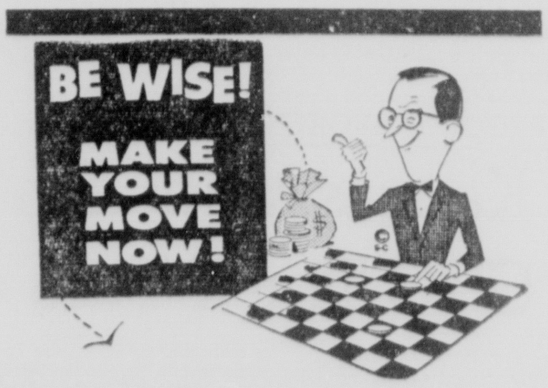

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck's pyrotechnical scoreboard laid a flaming egg Saturday after Gene Freese's seventh-inning home run in the Chicago White Sox' 4-2 victory over Kansas City.

The banshee board roared and whizzed rockets as usual, but a piece of flaming "shrapnel" landed near second base.

It blazed merrily until attendants scooped it up.

Explained Veeck:

"Complete combustion just didn't occur. These fireworks are supposed to be disintegrated with each blast."

4TH STRAIGHT WIN

Braves Trounce Reds, 5-1, On Burdette's Eight-Hitter

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Lew Burdette registered his fourth victory, an eight-hitter, as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds 5-1 Saturday.

The fidgety right-hander, aided by homers by Eddie Mathews and Henry Aaron, just missed a shutout as he got the decision over big Don Newcombe, now 3-3. A crowd of 16,396 saw the Braves win their fourth straight.

An unearned run in the fifth, the result of an error by Red Schoendienst deprived Burdette of a shutout. Burdette has lost twice.

The Braves opened the scoring with two runs in the second. With one out, Wes Covington singled to center and moved to second when Johnny Logan beat out a bunt down the third base line. Del Crandall drove in Covington with a single to center, and Logan scored from third on Burdette's sacrifice fly.

Mathews clouted his 11th homer over the right field wall in the third to give the Braves a 3-0 lead. And in the fourth Logan walked, moved to third on Crandall's single to left center and came home on Billy Bruton's sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati broke into the scoring column in the fifth on Billy Martin's single, an error by Schoendienst on Newcombe's grounder, and Eddie Kasko's single.

That made it 4-1, but Aaron got the run back for the braves as he crashed his 12th homer into the left field bleachers in the bottom half of the fifth, starting Newcombe on his way to the showers.

Bob Grim and Cal McLish held the Braves hitless the rest of the way.

SOUTHPAW MASTERY CONTINUES

Solons Scuttle Baltimore, 7 To 1, For Fourth In Row

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Washington Senators continued to scuttle the shuttle series with the Baltimore Orioles Saturday night, whipping the league-leaders 7-1 for their fourth straight victory.

Despite the loss, Baltimore maintained its 11½ game lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians, who lost to Detroit in a 10-inning day game, 7-4.

The Orioles, who have a losing 9-10 record against southpaw pitching, managed only six hits off Washington lefty Chuck Stobbs who hurled the first seven innings.

Stobbs, making a comeback after an 1-8 record last season, won his third in four decisions. He struck out eight, walked one, and didn't allow a runner past second base until Ron Hansen hit his fifth homer leading off the seventh.

Stobbs gave up two singles after the homer, and was removed at the start of the eighth in favor of Truman Clevenger.

Another lefty, Hal Woodeshick, defeated the Orioles in Washington Friday night. The series shuttles back to Washington Sunday, then back here again Monday night.

Jim Lemon and Earl Battey homered in the first two innings off Oriole starter Steve Barber, who had allowed only one homer and 11 earned runs in 64 previous innings. The 21-year-old lefty lost his second game against five victories.

Lemon's two-run blast in the first was his 12th, putting him one behind league-leader Roger Maris of the New York Yankees. Lemon also doubled home a run in the sixth, giving him 32 RBI. Maris and Hansen lead with 33.

With the score 4-0 in the third, Jack Fisher relieved Barber with two on and two out. Battey was walked intentionally, but Fisher lost his control and walked two more Senators to force in two runs.

Bob Allison, who wrecked the Orioles with a homer and triple Friday night, walked four times and hit a double. Baltimore pitchers gave up 12 bases on balls.

GIANTS CLOSE GAP

Sanford Blanks Cardinals, 2 To 0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack Sanford stifled St. Louis with three measly singles as San Francisco whupped the Cardinals 2-0 Saturday and moved within a game and a half of league-leading Pittsburgh.

The shutout was Sanford's third and gave him a 6-1 record. The shutout was the tenth for Giant pitchers.

The Giants got only three hits, all in the third inning when they scored the runs. In the other seven innings the Giants went down 1-2-3.

Loser Ron Kline (2-5) went the first five innings. Bob Miller and Ernie Broglio finished up.

In the Giants' third, Hobie Landrith and Ed Bressoud singled. Sanford sacrificed them along and Don Blasingame's sacrifice fly scored Hobie.

Joe Amalfitano, who won Friday night's game with a two-run homer, doubled home Bressoud, but was out trying to stretch his hit to third. He was the last Giant base runner.

Sanford struck out six and walked only one. The only Cardinal to reach second was Daryl Spencer in the second inning. He singled to left and moved up on a force out.

Spencer's single was a solid hit. Bill White beat out a bunt in the fourth and Julian Javier beat out another roller in the sixth.

White was erased on a double play after Willie Kirkland caught Ken Boyer's fly in the right field corner. Javier was forced at second.

Kirkland went hitless for the first time in 15 games.

A crowd of 22,523 watched the third game of the four-game series.

Shaw Hurls Chisox Past Athletics, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's Bob Shaw, aided by Jim Landis' and Gene Freese's home runs, again spun his pitching magic over the Kansas City A's in a 4-2 White Sox victory Saturday.

This was Shaw's ninth victory over Kansas City without defeat as a White Sox pitcher.

Freese's leadoff homer off A's starter Ken Johnson in the seventh was the deciding blow, breaking a 2-2 deadlock.

Johnson, who struck out 10, was also raked for leadoff homer by Landis in the third.

The Sox picked up an insurance run in the eighth as Earl Torgeson's double and Sherm Lollar's single chased Johnson and brought on Marty Kutyna.

Shaw's seven-hit job was his third complete game and gave him a 5-4 record.

The Sox took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Landis' walk, Nellie Fox' single, a throwing error on an attempted pickoff of Landis at second and Minnie Minoso's single to deep short.

Kansas City moved ahead 2-1 in the third on three hits and an error. Johnson led off with a single, moved to third on Bill Tuttle's two-bagger and scored on Luis Aparicio's high throw to the plate. Tuttle crossed on a fielder's choice.

In the bottom of the third, Landis' second homer of the season tied it at 2-2.

Johnson walked the next batter then struck out the side. The crafty A's right-hander rang up five successive strikeouts by whiffing the first two batters in the Chicago fourth.

Freese led off the seventh with his No. 4 homer for a 3-2 Sox lead.

Injury-Ridden Phils Happy With Washout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pittsburgh-Phillies game was rained out Saturday and injury wracked Philadelphia was thankful for the day of rest.

Shortstop Joe Koppe and outfielder Tony Curry were the latest to suffer in the series of injuries that have beset the club in the past week. Koppe and Curry collided Friday night chasing a fly ball in short left field.

Koppe will be sidelined at least six weeks with a dislocation of a bone in his right wrist. He also suffered a slight fracture of the forearm. Curry was shaken up and bruised his chest, but probably will be back in action in a day or so. Both players spent the night in Temple University Hospital.

The Phillies recently lost pitcher Jack Meyer with a herniated disc, relief pitcher Dick Farrell with a stiff arm, pitcher John Buzhardt with a blister on his throwing hand, catcher Jim Coker with bruised hand, and outfielder John Callison who banged a knee and will be out at least 30 days.

Curry who was hitting .352, second only to Milwaukee's Joe Adcock in the National League, and Callison, also a .300 plus hitter, formed two-thirds of the Phillies promising young outfield. Ken Walters, a .319 slugger, is the third man.

The Phillies announced that Saturday's postponed game will be played as part of a July 10 doubleheader.

4TH STRAIGHT WIN

Braves Trounce Reds, 5-1, On Burdette's Eight-Hitter

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Lew Burdette registered his fourth victory, an eight-hitter, as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds 5-1 Saturday.

The fidgety right-hander, aided by homers by Eddie Mathews and Henry Aaron, just missed a shutout as he got the decision over big Don Newcombe, now 3-3. A crowd of 16,896 saw the Braves win their fourth straight.

An unearned run in the fifth, the result of an error by Red Schoendienst deprived Burdette of a shutout. Burdette has lost twice.

The Braves opened the scoring with two runs in the second. With one out, Wes Covington singled to center and moved to second when Johnny Logan beat out a bunt down the third base line. Del Crandall drove in Covington with a single to center, and Logan scored from third on Burdette's sacrifice fly.

Mathews clouted his 11th homer over the right field wall in the third to give the Braves a 3-0 lead. And in the fourth Logan walked, moved to third on Crandall's single to left center and came home on Billy Bruton's sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati broke into the scoring column in the fifth on Billy Martin's single, an error by Schoendienst on Newcombe's grounder, and Eddie Kasko's single.

That made it 4-1, but Aaron got the run back for the braves as he crashed his 12th homer into the left field bleachers in the bottom half of the fifth, starting Newcombe on his way to the showers.

Bob Grim and Cal McLish held the Braves hitless the rest of the way.

GIANTS CLOSE GAP

Sanford Blanks Cardinals, 2 To 0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack Sanford stifled St. Louis with three measly singles as San Francisco whipped the Cardinals 2-0 Saturday and moved within a game and a half of league-leading Pittsburgh.

The shutout was Sanford's third and gave him a 6-1 record. The shutout was the tenth for Giant pitchers

The Giants got only three hits, all in the third inning when they scored the runs. In the other seven innings the Giants went down 1-2-3.

Loser Ron Kline (2-5) went the first five innings. Bob Miller and Ernie Broglio finished up.

In the Giants' third, Hobie Landrith and Ed Bressoud singled. Sanford sacrificed them along and Don Blasingame's sacrifice fly scored Hobie.

Joe Amalfitano, who won Friday night's game with a two-run homer, doubled home Bressoud, but was out trying to stretch his hit to third. He was the last Giant base runner.

Sanford struck out six and walked only one. The only Cardinal to reach second was Daryl Spencer in the second inning. He singled to left and moved up on a force out.

Spencer's single was a solid hit. Bill White beat out a bunt in the fourth and Julian Javier beat out another roller in the sixth.

White was erased on a double play after Willie Kirkland caught Ken Boyer's fly in the right field corner. Javier was forced at second.

Kirkland went hitless for the first time in 15 games.

A crowd of 22,523 watched the third game of the four-game series.

Shaw Hurls Chisox Past Athletics, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's Bob Shaw, aided by Jim Landis' and Gene Freese's home runs, again spun his pitching magic over the Kansas City A's in a 4-2 White Sox victory Saturday.

This was Shaw's ninth victory over Kansas City without defeat as a White Sox pitcher.

Freese's leadoff homer off A's starter Ken Johnson in the seventh was the deciding blow, breaking a 2-2 deadlock.

Johnson, who struck out 10, was also raked for leadoff homer by Landis in the third.

The Sox picked up an insurance run in the eighth as Earl Torgeson's double and Sherm Lollar's single chased Johnson and brought on Marty Kutyna.

Shaw's seven-hit job was his third complete game and gave him a 5-4 record.

The Sox took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Landis' walk, Nellie Fox' single, a throwing error on an attempted pickoff of Landis at second and Minnie Minoso's single to deep short.

Kansas City moved ahead 2-1 in the third on three hits and an error. Johnson led off with a single, moved to third on Bill Tuttle's two-bagger and scored on Luis Aparicio's high throw to the plate. Tuttle crossed on a fielder's choice.

In the bottom of the third, Landis's second homer of the season tied it at 2-2.

Johnson walked the next batter then struck out the side. The rangy A's right-hander rang up five successive strikeouts by whiffing the first two batters in the Chicago fourth.

Freese led off the seventh with his No. 4 homer for a 3-2 Sox lead.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Betsy Rawls and Joyce Ziske struggled through 36 grueling holes of golf Saturday, and finished just as they started—tied for first place in the Wolverine Women's Open at the end of 54 holes.

Tied with a 2-under par 73 as play began, the two veterans exchanged first place throughout the afternoon before finishing at 224, setting the stage for an exciting stretch drive in Sunday's final round.

The field had to play 36 holes because rain washed out Thursday's first round over the 37-38—75 par course.

SOUTHPAW MASTERY CONTINUES

Solons Scuttle Baltimore, 7 To 1, For Fourth In Row

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Washington Senators continued to scuttle the shuttle series with the Baltimore Orioles Saturday night, whipping the league-leaders 7-1 for their fourth straight victory.

Despite the loss, Baltimore maintained its 1½ game lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians, who lost to Detroit in a 10-inning day game, 7-4.

The Orioles, who have a losing 9-10 record against southpaw pitching, managed only six hits off Washington lefty Chuck Stobbs who hurled the first seven innings.

Stobbs, making a comeback after an 1-8 record last season, won his third in four decisions. He struck out eight, walked one, and didn't allow a runner past second base until Ron Hansen hit his fifth homer leading off the seventh.

Stobbs gave up two singles after the homer, and was removed at the start of the eighth in favor of Truman Clevenger.

Another lefty, Hal Woodeshick, defeated the Orioles in Washington Friday night. The series shuttles back to Washington Sunday, then back here again Monday night.

Jim Lemon and Earl Battey homered in the first two innings off Oriole starter Steve Barber, who had allowed only one homer and 11 earned runs in 64 previous innings. The 21-year-old lefty lost his second game against five victories.

EXCELLENT PITCHING

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Five University of Connecticut pitchers posted a spectacular 0.69 earned run average in winning the season's first four games for the Huskies. They walked only seven batters in 39 innings, as Connecticut's New England and Yankee Conference champions defeated Rhode Island, American International, Yale and Wesleyan.

Lemon's two-run blast in the first was his 12th, putting him one behind league-leader Roger Maris of the New York Yankees. Lemon also doubled home a run in the sixth, giving him 32 RBI. Maris and Hansen lead with 33.

With the score 4-0 in the third, Jack Fisher relieved Barber with two on and two out. Battey was walked intentionally, but Fisher lost his control and walked two more Senators to force in two runs.

Bob Allison, who wrecked the Orioles with a homer and triple Friday night, walked four times and hit a double. Baltimore pitchers gave up 12 bases on balls.

The same Corvair that rolled up a whopping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run turned around to scale snow-glazed Pikes Peak earlier in the season than any other car has ever dared to try. Several boxes of cookies and a large spring bouquet of flowers accented with gold lilies and a gold bow were taken to the home by Alice and Elaine Butler, representing the society.

The card accompanying the flowers was a cheerful kitty cat with bows of red, white, and blue — idea by Elaine Butler. The message on the card — by Alice Butler:

CAR Observes Memorial Day

The Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, paid Memorial Day homage to the war dead by remembering the fathers and mothers of veterans at the St. Joseph Home on Sterlington Rd., Monday, May 30, 1960.

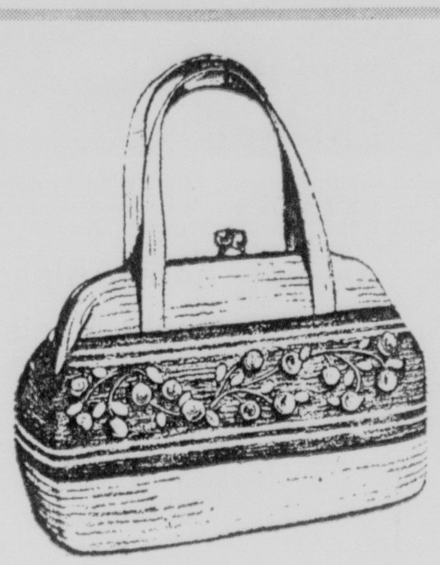

Several boxes of cookies and a large spring bouquet of flowers accented with gold lilies and a gold bow were taken to the home by Alice and Elaine Butler, representing the society.

The card accompanying the flowers was a cheerful kitty cat with bows of red, white, and blue — idea by Elaine Butler. The message on the card — by Alice Butler:

The C. A. R. is here to say
You are thought of on Memorial Day
Your loved One(s) who helped make America free
Will always be remembered by you and me.

On Dit'

by Denise

Ah, June! Our most glorious month for the outdoor party: for the boatride, the barbecue, the swimming party. Chances of rain are slight, and it's not as hot as it's going to be. . . And there's always a reason for gaiety—a visitor, a birthday, someone coming or going.

Tuesday night the HARRELL WEBSTERS were honored at a farewell party by SARA and MAC M'SHERRY and JEAN and SAUL MINTZ. The Websters are moving out of the neighborhood . . . Luau lights were used in the Mintz yard, where individual tables were set up. Candles in bottles centered the red-checked tablecloths . . . The menu served to eighteen neighbors included old fashioned barbecue specialties: beef, chicken, asparagus casserole, corn on the cob.

Saul and Jean, incidentally, left on Friday for ten days in New Orleans. They were accompanied by the children, MORRIS and CAROLYN.

Last week end some of our favorite visitors were here from Orange, Texas: former residents, the JOE POWELLS, and the WARD STEPHENSONS . . . They arrived in time for the Big Timers' Dance Club dance Friday night at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. . . . On Saturday afternoon at four, the JOHN SHERROUSES, JR., entertained with a boating party for the guests.

Sunday morning the EVANS ETHRIDGES were hosts for brunch . . . White stock and roses in an arrangement on the coffee table were the focal point in the family room. The thirty guests were served fresh fruit served from a copper tub filled with shaved ice.

Charlotte used a straw epergne filled with eggs and ivy as centerpiece on the buffet table. Guests helped themselves to Canadian bacon, scrambled eggs, baked grits, and hot biscuits before being seated at individual tables . . . The Stephensons returned to Orange Sunday afternoon, and the Powells, Monday.

The NAT GASTON home on the Old Sterlington road was the scene Thursday afternoon of a sherry party given by ADRIENNE DUCHKAR, EVELYN COLE, and MARNE MOUK. As the hostesses said, this party was for no reason except that it is June and they felt like having a party. What better reason can there be? . . . Guests were greeted at the door by MARY ALICE HUSTED and SUE M'KENZIE, while the hostesses received in the living room. Daylilies and magnolias were used as decoration.

In the dining room, BETTY MOORE, MARY LEE MILAM, JANE EARNEST, and ADRIENNE GASTON poured. Trays of dainty bell pepper sandwiches, and black olive sandwiches, tiny cakes, and cheese straws were passed by ARDEN M'DOWELL, WAVA FRAZER, JIBBY FOX, JEAN GIFFEN, and ALICE SMITH.

About two hundred guests called between the appointed hours of three and five.

Also on Thursday, MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS was hostess for a conversational hour from four-thirty until six-thirty. Guests of honor were her daughter-in-law, AINSLIE SNELLINGS, who is here with GEORGE III between semesters at LSU; and HELEN THEUS, who is leaving for Europe next week. Some forty members of the college crowd and VERY young married set were invited to visit with the honorees and to sip Sangria (a Spanish summer punch) and to nibble little sandwiches and dainty cakes.

One of the best reasons for having a swimming pool in the yard is that one many entertain there. LIL and FRED MARX invited a few couples for swimming and supper Saturday night. Lil used day lilies and other garden flowers on the buffet table, which was set up at the poolside. Guests enjoyed a swim before the barbecue supper.

The R. W. GOCHENOURS and the J. F. JONESES have returned from a trip to Florida, where they visited their children, the JOHN P. JONESES (she is the former Betty Gochenour), in Indialantic . . . They made a tour of the state, and the Gochenours took a cruise to Nassau . . . The J. F. Jones are leaving this week to spend the month of June with the M. L. MAURERS in Fort Worth.

"Hats on Parade" is the title of the luncheon planned for Highland Park Country Club members and guests on Wednesday. Prizes will be awarded for most beautiful, most unusual, and most original hats.

On Thursday morning CYNTHIA TERZIA and DOTTIE KIPER entertained with a coke party honoring JOLAINE CRUMP, who leaves next week with her family to make her home in Lafayette. Fourteen little girls from Jolaine's class in school gathered at the Terzia home for a morning of play on the bayou bank. Going away present for the honoree was a pony tail doll wearing a skirt designed to be autographed by all the guests. Refreshments for the party were picnic lunches of sandwiches, cookies, and potato chips served in straw baskets.

The swimming party is wonderful for birthdays. SUE BURKHALTER, who was six recently, "saved up" her party for swimming season and invited eleven little friends for Thursday afternoon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Ice cream cones and cake were served after the swim.

The club pool was also the scene of WAKE WAKEFIELD's sixth birthday party Thursday. Fifteen little friends were invited to swim and have a hamburger - and - birthday - cake lunch . . . Wake had another birthday treat: his grandmother, MRS. WILL WALTON of Jackson, Miss., was here for the occasion. She returned home Friday.

For the first Sunday in June, what more suitable than these lines on June from "The Vision of Sir Launfal" by James Russell Lowell:

Earth gets its price for what
Earth gives us:
The beggar is taxed for a corner to die in,
The priest hath his fee who comes and shrives us,
We bargain for the graves we lie in;
At the devil's booth are all things sold,
Each ounce of dross costs its ounce of gold;
For a cap and bells our lives
we pay,
Bubbles we buy with a whole
soul's tasking;
'Tis Heaven alone that is given away,
'Tis only God may be had for the asking:
No price is set on the lavish summer;
June may be had by the poorest
comer.
And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays:
Whether we look, or whether we listen,
We hear life murmur or see it glisten.

Now is the high-tide of the year,
And whatever of life hath ebbed
away
Comes flooding back with a ripply cheer.
Into every bare inlet and creek and bay:
Now the heart is so full that a drop overfills it,
We are happy now because God
wills it.

On Dit'

by Denise

Ah, June! Our most glorious month for the outdoor party: for the boatride, the barbecue, the swimming party. Chances of rain are slight, and it's not as hot as it's going to be. . . And there's always a reason for gaiety—a visitor, a birthday, someone coming or going.

Tuesday night the HARRELL WEBSTERS were honored at a farewell party by SARA and MAC M'SHERRY and JEAN and SAUL MINTZ. The Websters are moving out of the neighborhood . . . Luau lights were used in the Mintz yard, where individual tables were set up. Candles in bottles centered the red-checked tablecloths . . . The menu served to eighteen neighbors included old fashioned barbecue specialties: beef, chicken, asparagus casserole, corn on the cob.

Saul and Jean, incidentally, left on Friday for ten days in New Orleans. They were accompanied by the children, MORRIS and CAROLYN.

Last week end some of our favorite visitors were here from Orange, Texas: former residents, the JOE POWELLS, and the WARD STEPHENSONS . . . They arrived in time for the Big Timers' Dance Club dance Friday night at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. . . . On Saturday afternoon at four, the JOHN SHERROUSES, JR., entertained with a boating party for the guests.

Sunday morning the EVANS ETHRIDGES were hosts for brunch . . . White stock and roses in an arrangement on the coffee table were the focal point in the family room. The thirty guests were served fresh fruit served from a copper tub filled with shaved ice.

Charlotte used a straw epergne filled with eggs and ivy as centerpiece on the buffet table. Guests helped themselves to Canadian bacon, scrambled eggs, baked grits, and hot biscuits before being seated at individual tables . . . The Stephensons returned to Orange Sunday afternoon, and the Powells, Monday.

The NAT GASTON home on the Old Sterlington road was the scene Thursday afternoon of a sherry party given by ADRIENNE DUCHKAR, EVELYN COLE, and MARNE MOUK. As the hostesses said, this party was for no reason except that it is June and they felt like having a party. What better reason can there be? . . . Guests were greeted at the door by MARY ALICE HUSTED and SUE M'KENZIE, while the hostesses received in the living room. Daylilies and magnolias were used as decoration.

In the dining room, BETTY MOORE, MARY LEE MILAM, JANE EARNEST, and ADRIENNE GASTON poured. Trays of dainty bell pepper sandwiches, and black olive sandwiches, tiny cakes, and cheese straws were passed by ARDEN M'DOWELL, WAVA FRAZER, JIBBY FOX, JEAN GIFFEN, and ALICE SMITH.

About two hundred guests called between the appointed hours of three and five.

Also on Thursday, MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS was hostess for a conversational hour from four-thirty until six-thirty. Guests of honor were her daughter-in-law, AINSLIE SNELLINGS, who is here with GEORGE III between semesters at LSU; and HELEN THEUS, who is leaving for Europe next week. Some forty members of the college crowd and VERY young married set were invited to visit with the honorees and to sip Sangria (a Spanish summer punch) and to nibble little sandwiches and dainty cakes.

One of the best reasons for having a swimming pool in the yard is that one many entertain there. LIL and FRED MARX invited a few couples for swimming and supper Saturday night. Lil used day lilies and other garden flowers on the buffet table, which was set up at the poolside. Guests enjoyed a swim before the barbecue supper.

The R. W. GOCHENOURS and the J. F. JONESES have returned from a trip to Florida, where they visited their children, the JOHN P. JONESES (she is the former Betty Gochenour), in Indialantic . . . They made a tour of the state, and the Gochenours took a cruise to Nassau . . . The J. F. Jones are leaving this week to spend the month of June with the M. L. MAURERS in Fort Worth.

"Hats on Parade" is the title of the luncheon planned for Highland Park Country Club members and guests on Wednesday. Prizes will be awarded for most beautiful, most unusual, and most original hats.

On Thursday morning CYNTHIA TERZIA and DOTTIE KIPER entertained with a coke party honoring JOLAINE CRUMP, who leaves next week with her family to make her home in Lafayette. Fourteen little girls from Jolaine's class in school gathered at the Terzia home for a morning of play on the bayou bank. Going away present for the honoree was a pony tail doll wearing a skirt designed to be autographed by all the guests. Refreshments for the party were picnic lunches of sandwiches, cookies, and potato chips served in straw baskets.

The swimming party is wonderful for birthdays. SUE BURKHALTER, who was six recently, "saved up" her party for swimming season and invited eleven little friends for Thursday afternoon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Ice cream cones and cake were served after the swim.

The club pool was also the scene of WAKE WAKEFIELD's sixth birthday party Thursday. Fifteen little friends were invited to swim and have a hamburger - and - birthday - cake lunch . . . Wake had another birthday treat: his grandmother, MRS. WILL WALTON of Jackson, Miss., was here for the occasion. She returned home Friday.

BRENDA MADDEN celebrated her sixth birthday with a party in Forsythe Park. Neighborhood friends joined her for an afternoon of play on the swings and see-saws. Ice cream and birthday cake were refreshments, and bubble blowing equipment was given as favors.

Miss Lois Head J. F. Naylor III Wed In Ruston

Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Scheerer in Ruston, Miss Lois Geraldine Head became the wife of James Francis Naylor III. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Yancey Head of Newellton, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs James Francis Naylor Jr of Baton Rouge.

The Reverend D. L. O'Neal of Ruston officiated at the double ring ceremony. The pianist was Miss Camille Duchesne, also of Ruston.

The home ceremony was marked by simplicity and beauty. The altar was adorned with clusters of magnolia and gardenia with cherry laurel greenery. Baskets of white gladiolas bordered the altar. Beautiful arrangements of daisies and ivy entwined candelabra completed the floral atmosphere.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white bridal satin and silk organza. The princess style gown featured a sweetheart neckline and the full skirt swept into a chapel train which was trimmed with embroidered silk organza. The finger-tip veil fell gently from a crown of sequins and seed pearls. The bride carried a white testament adorned with white orchids and lilies of the valley. She wore a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Billy Martin Hughes, matron of honor, wore a dress of pink taffeta and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The groom was attended by his father as best man.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scheerer honored the couple with a reception in their garden. The tea table carried out a pink and white motif, being covered with a pink organdy cloth. The center piece was an arrangement of white gladiolas, roses, and pink carnations with silver candelabra entwined with pink Scotch heather for happiness.

The beautiful double heart wedding cake decorated with sugar frosted pink roses and topped with wedding bells was served by Mrs. S. H. Bonnett, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Paul Davis, aunt of the groom, presided at the crystal punch bowl. Mrs. F. O. Adam also assisted with courtesies.

Miss Nancy Naylor, sister of the groom, attended at the bride's table which was decorated with flower arrangement and bride doll.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Ruston until they graduate from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in August, at which time they will go to Durham, North Carolina where Mr. Naylor will pursue a Ph.F. in chemistry at Duke University.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE W. DURHAM, JR.

Mr. & Mrs. Pohlman Have 25th Anniversary Party

On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Edward Joseph Pohlman, Jr., entertained with an open house on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The party was given in the hosts' new home at 2704 Plantation Drive, which was decorated throughout with white flowers.

In the entrance hall was a large white basket filled with Easter lilies. Mrs. Lester High greeted arriving guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Pohlman and their three children, Edward Joseph III, Mrs. James Edmiston, and James M. Pohlman, formed the receiving line in the living room. Mrs. Pohlman was wearing a dress of white lace over blue with a blue cummerbund. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. Edmiston wore a white eyelet organza over blue with a corsage of white carnations. The gentlemen were in summer dinner jackets with blue boutonnieres.

On the coffee table in the living room was an arrangement of white chrysanthemums in a silver vase. White stock was used in a white bowl on a side table.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth and held the punch bowl and the tiered silver wedding cake at either end. Focal point of the room was the horizontal arrangement of stock and silver sprays in a footed silver bowl which was placed on the buffet behind the table.

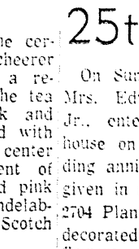

Mrs. C. B. McMahann and Mrs. Joe Haddad alternated at the punch bowl, and Mrs. T. J. Canibaro and Mrs. L. J. Carter served the wedding cake.

The refreshment table in the den was covered with a white cloth and centered with white stock in a crystal bowl. Mrs. Allen Ritter and Mrs. A. G. Johnston served coffee.

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Jr., registered the guests. Tea girls were Miss Pat Williams and Miss Marylin Goldman. All members of the houseparty wore corsages of white carnations.

About two hundred and fifty guests called during the appointed hours of two until five.

Miss Annie Kalil, George Durham Wed In Rayville

Miss Annie Kalil and George W. Durham Jr., both of Rayville, plighted their troth Sunday afternoon at the Rayville Methodist church with the Rev. W. D. Boddie officiating.

A tall arrangement of white snapdragons flanked by white candles formed the background for the double ring ceremony. Miss Mary Jo Ellington gave a pre-nuptial concert at the organ, and accompanied Mrs. W. D. Boddie, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her brother, Joe Kalil, who gave her in marriage. She wore a sheath dress of white Alencon lace fashioned with a deep V neckline and shirred chiffon cummerbund. A hat of stiff nylon straw framed the face. She wore elbow length gloves of white sheer and carried a cascade bouquet of white tea roses and lily of the valley.

Attending her sister was Miss Mary Kalil, attired in pink chiffon over taffeta. Pink satin shoes, pink gloves, and a cloche hat of pink nylon straw were her accessories. She carried deep pink tea roses with rosy ribbon streamers.

Mr. Durham was attended by J. O. Pinkston of Lake Providence. Ushers were John C. Morris, Jr., and Lamar Lane.

RECEPTION

Arrangements of white gladioli and asters decorated the hall. The bride's table, overlaid with white damask, was centered with white snapdragons and stock. Mrs. Frank Schooler presided at the crystal punch bowl which was at the opposite end of the table from the tiered wedding cake, iced in white and lime green.

Mrs. Sarah Upton of Shreveport registered the wedding guests. Tea girls were Misses Billie Jo Hanchey, Sue Waites, Sandra Mitchell, Nancy Beasley, and Charlotte McCarty.

For travelling, the bride changed into a pale blue linen model with matching accessories and pink carnation corsage. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Durham will be at home in Rayville, where both are members of the faculty of the Rayville Junior High school.

Man's Castle Must Suit Him

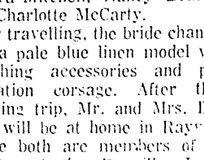

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Plan a home with your man in mind, Joan Graham, University of Illinois home economist, advises the bride.

She urges the bride to confine her favorite feminine colors to the kitchen and dressing room and consult with her husband on styles, colors and textures for the rest of the house.

For the dining room, select chairs big enough for a man's comfort, Miss Graham said.

Living room furniture should be comfortable for either six or include chairs that say "his" and "hers" by thier sizes. Miss Graham urges engaged couples to decide on the style or furniture thy prefer and make a long-term plan for buying it.

Invisible lingerie straps made of fabric woven from glass fibers will probably be one of the innovations of the 1960's. A lingerie executive predicted this interesting development at a recent press show.

MRS. JAMES FRANCIS NAYLOR III

Miss Lois Head J. F. Naylor III Wed In Ruston

Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Scheerer in Ruston, Miss Lois Geraldine Head became the wife of James Francis Naylor III. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Yancey Head of Newellton, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs James Francis Naylor Jr of Baton Rouge.

The Reverend D. L. O'Neal of Ruston officiated at the double ring ceremony. The pianist was Miss Camille Duchesne, also of Ruston.

The home ceremony was marked by simplicity and beauty. The altar was adorned with clusters of magnolia and gardenia with cherry laurel greenery. Baskets of white gladiolas bordered the altar. Beautiful arrangements of daisies and ivy-entwined candelabra completed the floral atmosphere.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white bridal satin and silk organza. The princess style gown featured a sweetheart neckline and the full skirt swept into a chapel train which was trimmed with embroidered silk organza. The finger-tip veil fell gently from a crown of sequins and seed pearls. The bride carried a white testament adorned with white orchids and lilies of the valley. She wore a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Billy Martin Hughes, matron of honor, wore a dress of pink taffeta and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scheerer honored the couple with a reception in their garden. The tea table carried out a pink and white motif, being covered with a pink organdy cloth. The center piece was an arrangement of white gladiolas, roses, and pink carnations with silver candelabra entwined with pink Scotch heather for happiness.

The beautiful double heart wedding cake decorated with sugar frosted pink roses and topped with wedding bells was served by Mrs. S. H. Bonnett, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Paul Davis, aunt of the groom, presided at the crystal punch bowl. Mrs. F. O. Adam also assisted with courtesies.

Miss Nancy Naylor, sister of the groom, attended at the bride's table which was decorated with flower arrangement and bride doll.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Ruston until they graduate from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in August, at which time they will go to Durham, North Carolina where Mr. Naylor will pursue a Ph.F. in chemistry at Duke University.

Miss Annie Kalil, George Durham Wed In Rayville

Miss Annie Kalil and George W. Durham Jr., both of Rayville, plighted their troth Sunday afternoon at the Rayville Methodist church with the Rev. W. D. Boddie officiating.

A tall arrangement of white snapdragons flanked by white candles formed the background for the double ring ceremony. Miss Mary Jo Ellington gave a pre-nuptial concert at the organ, and accompanied Mrs. W. D. Boddie, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her brother, Joe Kalil, who gave her in marriage. She wore a sheath dress of white Alencon lace fashioned with a deep V neckline and shirred chiffon cummerbund. A hat of stiff nylon straw framed the face. She wore elbow length gloves of white sheer and carried a cascade bouquet of white tea roses and lily of the valley.

Attending her sister was Miss Mary Kalil, attired in pink chiffon over taffeta. Pink satin shoes, pink gloves, and a cloche hat of pink nylon straw were her accessories. She carried deep pink tea roses with rosy ribbon streamers.

Arrangements of white gladioli and asters decorated the hall. The bride's table, overlaid with white damask, was centered with white snapdragons and stock. Brushes Aid To Make-Up Effect

Brushes can make an important difference in the results of your make-up application. So if you want to achieve the best effects possible, consider using the variety of make - up brushes that are available to you.

Smooth, flattering lip patterns may be yours with a good sable lip brush. Eyebrows can be made to look more high -fashioned and glamorous when groomed with an eyebrow brush before and after pencilling. Eyelashes look thicker and softer when brushed apart with an eyelash brush or a spiral wand.

Gentle stroking off surplus face powder with a face powder brush has proved to be one of the best techniques of make - up applications, for it creates a new velvet finish to the complexion which is fine - textured and youthful - looking. Many women who find it difficult to master the art of using dry rouge are able to create a warm, natural glow on their cheeks by applying the color with a face powder brush.

DEAR ABBY

Together Or Apart— You'll Not Be Happy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to Red for eleven years. We have moved 89 times. He gets himself a job and pretty soon he is restless and wants to move again. I had a daughter by a previous marriage and when she was 16 she married just to get out of all this moving around. It didn't work out so now she is back with me and I am going to be a grandma.

I divorced Red last year and remarried him five days after the divorce became final. Now I am suing him for divorce again. My lawyer said I had so many grounds he didn't know which one to use. Abby, maybe I am crazy, but with all Red's faults I think I just love the skunk. Maybe it isn't love, but I am so used to him. I am miserable without him. Should I try to live without him or take him back? —LOVE THE SKUNK

DEAR LOVE: I think you two miserable people need each other. You know you want me to tell you to take him back. So take him back—if you think it's nice to have a skunk around the house.

DEAR ABBY: I have been engaged for nearly a year and plan to be married in the fall. I have reason to believe that my fiance is using narcotics. I am afraid if this is so, our marriage has failed before it has started. Please tell me where I can go for help? —NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: First, ask your fiance whether your suspicions are correct. If they are, it is "He" who needs help. Addiction to narcotics "Can" be cured. There are two Federal Hospitals for drug addicts; one in Lexington, Ky., and the other in Fort Worth, Texas. Patients who want to enter voluntarily are welcome.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a 44-year-old man who always holds his wife's 17-year-old niece on his lap? I am sending you his picture. Please send it back. Thank you. —WOLFE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I am returning your husband's picture. Now if you send me one of the 17-year-old niece. I could probably give you a better answer.

"CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS TO KNOW": You have been misinformed. There is no law which compels unmarried mothers to give up their babies for adoption See your Family Service Association.

MILLIONS ABROAD

NEW YORK (UPI) — An estimated 1,475,000 Americans traveled abroad last year — an increase of more than 98 per cent over 1950, latest travel figures show.

Some 1,600,000 are expected to go abroad this year, a gain of almost 10 per cent over 1959.

MRS. SAMUEL EVANS WYLY

Dallas Wedding Unites Couple

Samuel Evans Wyly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Wyly of Houston, Texas, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Evans of Lake Providence, was married on Saturday, May 21, to Miss Rosemary Louise Acton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Acton of Dallas.

The wedding was solemnized at 8:00 in the evening, at the Highland Park Presbyterian Church, in Wynne Chapel. Officiating at the ceremony was Dr. Boand, of Dallas.

Nuptial music was played by Sam Parker, who accompanied Paul Swadek, the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her fahter, wore a traditional wedding gown and veil. Her attendants were Mrs. Joan Polk of Center, Texas, the matron of honor, and Miss Judy Tobias, Dallas, as bridesmaid.

The bridegroom had his brother, Charles J. Wyly Jr., of Houston as his best man, and the groomsman was Rem Johnson. Ushers were Allen Spindler and Dave Edgar, of Dallas, James Cross of Arkansas, and Larry Russell, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

A reception was held following the church ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Wyly will make their home in Dallas, after the wedding trip.

The bride was graduated from Principia College, Elsah, Illinois, and the bridegroom was graduated from Louisiana Tech, Ruston, and received his Mastr's degree from the University of Michigan.

SPENDING TO RISE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Travel spending by Americans will climb to $36 billion annually during this decade, according to the American Express Co. The prediction reflects estimates that the U. S. population will increase by 25 per cent in the '60's, that consumer incomes will rise 50 per cent and that discretionary spending will rise 100 per cent.

RING REGISTERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three-quarters of all baby clothes will be bought as gifts this year, accounting for $375 million of the $500 million which will be sold, reports Varity Store Merchandiser.

Potatoes and cabbage are both nutritious foods to use — especially when the budget has to be watched. Creamed potatoes with a small amount of diced leftover cooked ham will make an economical main dish. Shredded crisp green cabbage will stretch tuna for sandwiches.

Health muffins: You can use 1 cup whole wheat flour and 1 cup white flour in a standard muffin recipe calling for 2 cups of flour.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to Red for eleven years. We have moved 89 times. He gets himself a job and pretty soon he is restless and wants to move again. I had a daughter by a previous marriage and when she was 16 she married just to get out of all this moving around. It didn't work out so now she is back with me and I am going to be a grandma.

I divorced Red last year and remarried him five days after the divorce became final. Now I am suing him for divorce again. My lawyer said I had so many grounds he didn't know which one to use. Abby, maybe I am crazy, but with all Red's faults I think I just love the skunk. Maybe it isn't love, but I am so used to him. I am miserable without him. Should I try to live without him or take him back? —LOVE THE SKUNK

DEAR LOVE: I think you two miserable people need each other. You know you want me to tell you to take him back. So take him back—if you think it's nice to have a skunk around the house.

DEAR ABBY: I have been engaged for nearly a year and plan to be married in the fall. I have reason to believe that my fiance is using narcotics. I am afraid if this is so, our marriage has failed before it has started. Please tell me where I can go for help? —NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: First, ask your fiance whether your suspicions are correct. If they are, it is "He" who needs help. Addiction to narcotics "Can" be cured. There are two Federal Hospitals for drug addicts; one in Lexington, Ky., and the other in Fort Worth, Texas. Patients who want to enter voluntarily are welcome.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a 44-year-old man who always holds his wife's 17-year-old niece on his lap? I am sending you his picture. Please send it back. Thank you. —WOLFE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I am returning your husband's picture. Now if you send me one of the 17-year-old niece, I could probably give you a better answer.

"CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS TO KNOW": You have been misinformed. There is no law which compels unmarried mothers to give up their babies for adoption See your Family Service Association.

MILLIONS ABROAD

NEW YORK (UPI) — An estimated 1,475,000 Americans traveled abroad last year — an increase of more than 98 per cent over 1950, latest travel figures show.

Some 1,600,000 are expected to go abroad this year, a gain of almost 10 per cent over 1959.

MRS. SAMUEL EVANS WYLY

Dallas Wedding Unites Couple

Samuel Evans Wyly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Wyly of Houston, Texas, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Evans of Lake Providence, was married on Saturday, May 21, to Miss Rosemary Louise Acton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Acton of Dallas.

The wedding was solemnized at 8:00 in the evening, at the Highland Park Presbyterian Church, in Wynne Chapel. Officiating at the ceremony was Dr. Boand, of Dallas.

Nuptial music was played by Sam Parker, who accompanied Paul Swadek, the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her fahter, wore a traditional wedding gown and veil. Her attendants were Mrs. Joan Polk of Center, Texas, the matron of honor, and Miss Judy Tobias, Dallas, as bridesmaid.

The bridegroom had his brother, Charles J. Wyly Jr., of Houston as his best man, and the groomsman was Rem Johnson. Ushers were Allen Spindler and Dave Edgar, of Dallas, James Cross of Arkansas, and Larry Russell, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

A reception was held following the church ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Wyly will make their home in Dallas, after the wedding trip.

The bride was graduated from Principia College, Elsah, Illinois, and the bridegroom was graduated from Louisiana Tech, Ruston, and received his Mastr's degree from the University of Michigan.

SPENDING TO RISE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Travel spending by Americans will climb to $36 billion annually during this decade, according to the American Express Co. The prediction reflects estimates that the U. S. population will increase by 25 per cent in the '60's, that consumer incomes will rise 50 per cent and that discretionary spending will rise 100 per cent.

Health muffins: You can use 1 cup whole wheat flour and 1 cup white flour in a standard muffin recipe calling for 2 cups of flour.

RING REGISTERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three-quarters of all baby clothes will be bought as gifts this year, accounting for $375 million of the $500 million which will be sold, reports Varity Store Merchandiser.

Potatoes and cabbage are both nutritious foods to use — especially when the budget has to be watched. Creamed potatoes with a small amount of diced leftover cooked ham will make an economical main dish. Shredded crisp green cabbage will stretch tuna for sandwiches.

MR. AND MRS. WAMUL ROBERTS OWENS cut their wedding cake at the reception following their marriage in the Oak Grove Baptist church.

Miss Clampit, Mr. Owens Wed In Oak Grove Church

The Oak Grove Baptist Church was the setting for the ceremony uniting Miss Leona Christine Clampit and Wamul Robert Owens in marriage, with Rev. Carl Owens officiating. Vows were spoken before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladiola and candelabra entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Ina Faye Haddox presented a program of pre-nuptial music and accompanied Charles Wilder, who sang, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length princess styled gown of peau de soie and Chantilly lace. Her veil was held in place by a small crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Barbara Netherland who wore a street dress of cotton dacron with pink cumberbund and matching shoes. Her headpiece was of matching material. Her bouquet was of blue asters. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Arlene Clampit and Mrs. Betty Glennon who wore dresses and accessories identical to that of the matron of honor.

Flower girl was Miss Betty Jean Glennon whose dress and headband matched the other attendents. Kenneth Foster and Ray Owens, nephews of the groom served as ringbearers.

Serving as best man was Mack Owens, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Milton Clampit, brother of the bride, and Jimmy Haddox. Jimmy Haddox and David Johnston served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Clampit wore a dress of blue lace with matching accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a mauve lace over pink with matching accessories.

Mrs. Dewana Owens registered the guests in the bride's book.

Serving the cake and punch at the reception were Mrs. Glenda Johnston, Mrs. Imogene Owens, Mrs. Mildred Dickerson, and Mrs. Gretchen Lewis.

For a wedding trip the bride changed to an aqua linen dress with linen trim, white accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride graduated from Northeast Louisiana State college and Mississippi college. The groom, a graduate of Northeast Louisiana state college, is attending Louisiana State Univeristy graduate school. Both the bride and groom are teachers in the Ouachita Parish School System.

Martin-Hider Vows Heard Saturday

White gladiola, stock and mums in gold altar vases and white baskets of white gladiola stood at the entrance to the chancel of Grace Episcopal Church, Lake Providence, for the wedding of Miss Virginia Hider and Clarence Jean Martin.

Vows were exchange in the presence of Rev. Paul Alvin Vonecy, at four o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, May 28.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Turner Hider, of Lake Providence. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence James Martin of New Orleans.

Mr. David Tschabold, Jr., was organist for the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of taffeta fashioned on priness lines. The empire style bodice was etched with re-embroidered Alencon lace dusted with seed pearls and featured long fitted sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The soft folds of the skirt fell into a graceful chapel train. Her floor length veil of silk illusion was held by crown of pearl blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis with ivy leaves and white shower ribbons.

Clarence James Martin served his son as best man.

Ushers were King Belser Trieschmann, Lake Providence; John Branch, Bogalusa; D. Grove Stafford, Jr., Alexandria; Joseph W. Buchannan III, New Orleans.

MRS. CLARENCE JEAN MARTIN

Mrs. Martin wore a soft rose chiffon gown with lace insertion down the front, and matching shoes. Her hat was an off the face model of variegated pink petals. Her corsage was white roses.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hider were hosts at a reception at the Legion Home of Bayou Tensas.

The bride's table was beautifully decorated with white gladiola, stock, and mums. Silver punch bowls and candelabra with white tapers graced the table.

At the bride's book were Miss Keith Bush, of Vicksburg, Miss., and Miss Carol Hester, Lake Providence.

Mrs. John Allen Bernard, Lafayette; Mrs. Philip Watson, Jr., St. Joseph; Mrs. Luther Leonidas Hill, New Orleans; and Miss Catherine Barfield; Lake Charles, alternated at the punch service.

Miss Amanda Brown, Lake Providence, and Mrs. Peter Gibbons Burke, New Orleans, cut and served the wedding cake. Miss Anne Knobles, Lake Providence, and Miss Virginia Branch, Bogalusa, assisted.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride chose a blue silk suit with navy kid accessories. Her flower hat was blue, and she wore a corsage of stephanotis removed from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin will make their home at 129 Metairie Court, Metairie, Louisiana, after June 12.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. D. Grove Stafford, Jr., Alexandria; Mrs. Emilie Pomes Perely, New Orleans; Miss Jeanne Pomes of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. John Branch and daughter Virginia, Bogalusa; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phister, New Orleans; Mrs. Gladys Allen, Bogalusa; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Moore and daughter Deborah of Epps Plantation; Mrs. Marchall E. Bush, Vicksburg; Miss Keith Bush, Vicksburg; Miss Kate Berry Shepherd, Jackson, Miss.; Joseph W. Buchannan III, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gibbons Burke, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. Keep Gypsy In Your Sole This Vacation

The Germans and English have a word for it — "wanderjahr" or "wanderyear" — a time for traveling and sightseeing before setting down to a permanent occupation. In the United States our well-known love of travel is a permanent preoccupation — vacation time means travel time, and the summer ahead promises to be the biggest travel year yet.

Every journey starts with a single step, whether it be to Hawaii, or to a nearby summer resort. So be sure that step is on the right foot — in shoes that spell fashion and comfort.

Choosing a travel wardrobe of handsome, easy - care, comfortable leather shoes is a wise investment for after - vacation wear as well. Here are a few pointers to guide you:

Every vacationer should include at least one pair of leather flats in a travel wardrobe. Ideal for hiking, country walks, or cycling, casual flats are particularly restful for long auto trips. Smart new two - tone white and tan smooth leather moccasin-oxfords or soft crushed -leather flats in any of summer's new bright greens, oranges or blues are good travel mates.

Since conscientious sightseeing involves a lot of walking, "tenderfeet" particularly shouldn't risk fatigue and discomfort on day - long jaunts. Cool, lightweight all - leather walking shoes give feet firm, gentle support, and let you tramp through the day, and, if the spirit is willing, dance the night away later. Smart spectator - styling in light beige, bone - white, creme- cafe, or oatmeal smooth and grained leather walkers are easy on the eye.

There's classic British influence in many of the new walkers lightened for American tastes with slim pointed toes, comfortable stacked heels and thin, pliant leather soles. Lightweight leather uppers and leather soles that cushion the foot and give it comfortable support, eliminate foot fatigue that takes the joy out of "gypsying."

Fashion conscious gadabouts who set out early in the day and don't return until sundown find comfortable washable white leather pumps in good taste for every occasion. If they become dusty or soiled, the traveler can dip a paper towel in sudsy water and wipe them clean in a minute.

For evening and dressy wear, new closed - toe pumps in lustered leathers with cool cut - outs present an open and shut case for smartness. Deep D'Orsay - cut pumps, with a slim stiletto heel, are especially appropriate for dancing. Other closed-toe leather pumps, with vamp cut-outs in bright high - key pastel colors add fashion spice and "stretch" a limited travel wardrobe — and keep expenses light.

Film star Joan Crawford was born Lucille LeSueur in San Antonio, Tex., on March 23, 1903.

Martin-Hider Vows Heard Saturday

White gladiola, stock and mums in gold altar vases and white baskets of white gladiola stood at the entrance to the chancel of Grace Episcopal Church, Lake Providence, for the wedding of Miss Virginia Hider and Clarence Jean Martin.

Vows were exchange in the presence of Rev. Paul Alvin Vonley, at four o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, May 28.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Turner Hider, of Lake Providence. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence James Martin of New Orleans.

Mr. David Tschabold, Jr., was organist for the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of taffeta fashioned on priness lines. The empire style bodice was etched with re-embroidered Alencon lace dusted with seed pearls and featured long fitted sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The soft folds of the skirt fell into a graceful chapel train. Her floor length veil of silk illusion was held by crown of pearl blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis with ivy leaves and white shower ribbons.

Clarence James Martin served his son as best man.

MRS. CLARENCE JEAN MARTIN

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hider chose an Alice blue lace over taffeta sheath with a rounded neckline and a hat of blue hyacinths and veiling. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Martin wore a soft rose chiffon gown with lace insertion down the front, and matching shoes. Her hat was an off the face model of variegated pink petals. Her corsage was white roses.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hider were hosts at a reception at the Legion Home of Bayou Tensas.

The bride's table was beautifully decorated with white gladiola, stock, and mums. Silver punch bowls and candelabra with white tapers graced the table.

At the bride's book were Miss Keith Bush, of Vicksburg, Miss., and Miss Carol Hester, Lake Providence.

Mrs. John Allen Bernard, Lafayette; Mrs. Philip Watson, Jr., St. Joseph; Mrs. Luther Leonidas Hill, New Orleans; and Miss Catherine Barfield: Lake Charles, alternated at the punch service.

Miss Amanda Brown, Lake Providence, and Mrs. Peter Gibbons Burke, New Orleans, cut and served the wedding cake. Miss Anne Knobles, Lake Providence, and Miss Virginia Branch, Bogalusa, assisted.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride chose a blue silk suit with navy kid accessories. Her flower hat was blue, and she wore a corsage of stephanotis removed from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin will make their home at 129 Metairie Court, Metairie, Louisiana, after June 12.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. D. Grove Stafford, Jr., Alexandria; Mrs. Emilie Pomes Perely, New Orleans; Miss Jeanne Pomes of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. John Branch and daughter Virginia, Bogalusa; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phister, New Orleans; Mrs. Gladys Allen, Bogalusa; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Moore and daughter Deborah of Epps Plantation; Mrs. Marchall E. Bush, Vicksburg; Miss Keith Bush, Vicksburg; Miss Kate Berry Shepherd, Jackson, Miss.; Joseph W. Buchannan III, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gibbons Burke, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Hailey, New Orleans; Stuart Wooddy, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. William Bryce Thompson IV, Princeton, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Jr., St. Joseph; Mrs. Luther Leonidas Hill, New Orleans; Mrs. John Allen Bernard, Lafayette; Miss Catherine Barfield, Lake Charles; William Cummings, Monroe; Miss Ann Mirandona, New Orleans; and Crawford Allen Rose, Jr., New Orleans.

Keep Gypsy In Your Sole This Vacation

The Germans and English have a word for it — "wanderjahr" or "wanderyear" — a time for traveling and sightseeing before setting down to a permanent occupation. In the United States our well-known love of travel is a permanent preoccupation — vacation time means travel time, and the summer ahead promises to be the biggest travel year yet.

Every journey starts with a single step, whether it be to Hawaii, or to a nearby summer resort. So be sure that step is on the right foot — in shoes that spell fashion and comfort.

Choosing a travel wardrobe of handsome, easy - care, comfortable leather shoes is a wise investment for after - vacation wear as well. Here are a few pointers to guide you:

Every vacationer should include at least one pair of leather flats in a travel wardrobe. Ideal for hiking, country walks, or cycling, casual flats are particularly restful for long auto trips. Smart new two - tone white and tan smooth leather moccasin-oxfords or soft crushed -leather flats in any of summer's new bright greens, oranges or blues are good travel mates.

Since conscientious sightseeing involves a lot of walking, "tenderfeet" particularly shouldn't risk fatigue and discomfort on day - long jaunts. Cool, lightweight all - leather walking shoes give feet firm, gentle support, and let you tramp through the day, and, if the spirit is willing, dance the night away later. Smart spectator - styling in light beige, bone - white, creme- cafe, or oatmeal smooth and grained leather walkers are easy on the eye.

There's classic British influence in many of the new walkers lightened for American tastes with slim pointed toes, comfortable stacked heels and thin, pliant leather soles. Lightweight leather uppers and leather soles that cushion the foot and give it comfortable support, eliminate foot fatigue that takes the joy out of "gypsying."

Fashion conscious gadabouts who set out early in the day and don't return until sundown find comfortable washable white leather pumps in good taste for every occasion. If they become dusty or soiled, the traveler can dip a paper towel in sudsy water and wipe them clean in a minute.

For evening and dressy wear, new closed - toe pumps in lustered leathers with cool cut - outs present an open and shut case for smartness. Deep D'Orsay - cut pumps, with a slim stiletto heel, are especially appropriate for dancing. Other closed-toe leather pumps, with vamp cut-outs in bright high - key pastel colors add fashion spice and "stretch" a limited travel wardrobe — and keep expenses light.

FOR VACATIONERS

National Parks To Provide Open Air Sites Of Worship

NEW YORK (Special) — More than 15 million vacationers in America's national parks this summer will be able to worship God in natural cathedrals under the open sky.

Representing 40 colleges and 35 theological seminaries, 142 young men and women will spend the summer in the national parks as desk clerks, waitresses, bellhops, filling station attendants and the like. In their off-duty hours, these students who come from 40 states will assist in organizing services of worship and will serve as chaplain-counsellors for both vacationers and for thousands of their fellow college students working in the parks.

SPONSORED

Their mission is sponsored by the Christian Ministry in the National Parks, a unit of the Central Department of Evangelism of the National Council of Churches.

As the ministry opens its ninth year of cooperation with the National Park Service, its director, the Rev. Warren Ost of New York, announced that the program this year will be the largest in its history. Students will serve in 30 national park areas this year, ranging from the snowy slopes of Mount McKinley in Alaska to the steaming Everglades in Florida.

This year Rev. Ost estimates that his "parish", which covers about one million acres, will be serving more than a million men and women. It is probably the world's largest, and he travels more than 50,000 miles a year by horseback, jeep and plane to cover it. This travel is necessary to enable Rev. Ost to contact local committees and park employees, recruit the student pastors, train them and supervise their work.

Rev. Ost himself was a college bell-hop at Old Faithful

FOR VACATIONERS

National Parks To Provide Open Air Sites Of Worship

NEW YORK (Special) — More than 15 million vacationers in America's national parks this summer will be able to worship God in natural cathedrals under the open sky.

Representing 40 colleges and 35 theological seminaries, 142 young men and women will spend the summer in the national parks as desk clerks, waitresses, bellhops, filling station attendants and the like. In their off-duty hours, these students who come from 40 states will assist in organizing services of worship and will serve as chaplain-counsellors for both vacationers and for thousands of their fellow college students working in the parks.

SPONSORED

Their mission is sponsored by the Christian Ministry in the National Parks, a unit of the Central Department of Evangelism of the National Council of Churches.

As the ministry opens its ninth year of cooperation with the National Park Service, its director, the Rev. Warren Ost of New York, announced that the program this year will be the largest in its history. Students will serve in 30 national park areas this year, ranging from the snowy slopes of Mount McKinley in Alaska to the steaming Everglades in Florida.

This year Rev. Ost estimates that his "parish", which covers about one million acres, will be serving more than a million men and women. It is probably the world's largest, and he travels more than 50,000 miles a year by horseback, jeep and plane to cover it. This travel is necessary to enable Rev. Ost to contact local committees and park employees, recruit the student pastors, train them and supervise their work.

Rev. Ost himself was a college bell-hop at Old Faithful Inn in Yellowstone. In 1949 he organized a 120-member chorus among his fellow workers there. Later Princeton Theological Seminary and interested residents in Yellowstone developed the student ministry and invited him to direct the program. At that time four national parks already had organized ministries and in other places clergy of all faiths were allowed to provide religious guidance.

AGREED

In 1952 the National Council Churches agreed to bring the ministries together in a cooperative program in its central department of evangelism. Today, the program is directed by Rev. Ost on behalf of the National Council's 33 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox communions.

Scheduled services will be held this year in 31 National Parks. Year - round Christian ministry programs are underway in Grand Canyon National Park, South Rim, Arizona; Sequoia National Park, Calif; Yellowstone Park, Wyoming; Yosemite Park, Calif; Zion Park, Utah.

Varied Bloom Is Attraction

By MILDRED SWIFT

When the hydrangeas are in bloom, we wonder why everybody doesn't want the gorgeous flower. However, gardens just can't give space to everything. As beautiful as they are, hydrangeas are certainly nothing but dead looking sticks in the winter.

Seen most around here is the familiar Hortensia variety. This you can make pink by working sulphur in the soil, or blue by using aluminum sulphate. This should be done between October and January, so write yourself a note to do that job in one of those months. Usually the process must be repeated two years in succession to get the desired change.

The flowers of the Oak leaf hydrangea are beautiful but lesser known. It is so named because its large lobed medium green leaves resemble an oak leaf in shape. This plant grows as high as six feet or more and bears long panicles of creamy white flowers which are slightly fragrant. The blooming period lasts three to four weeks, beginning in May. As the flowers age, they change color. Thus the reason for many arguments about the color of the blooms of the oak leaf hydrangea.

SCARCE

The oak leaf hydrangea grows wild in Louisiana, but is among the 20 scarce plants on the conservation list. This forbids such plants to be used at flower shows except in educational exhibits. There are several gardens growing this type and nurserymen carry them for sale. There is a climbing hydrangea, too, but I've never seen one growing.

Most varieties of hydrangeas are propagated by cuttings. Some gardeners prefer to make these when they prune the shrubs, right after they finish blooming. Some wait until August to take advantage of the summer rains. Others prefer to wait until October, when the wood is more mature.

The limbs of our common Hortensia take root where they touch the ground. Bend a branch down, put a brick on it and by next January you'll have a plant ready to move.

Hydrangeas like a rich, moist soil and partial shade. Sun fades the blooms. If you plan to use the hydrangea blossoms as cut flowers, take a bucket of hot water to the garden with you. As you cut a stem, plunge it immediately in this hot water. Confederate jasmine should be treated the same way or else they will wilt as soon as cut.

GARDEN TIPS

The nurseries still have imperial candle trees. They're in buckets and this is a good time to plant. These tropical trees are not going to do any growing until the weather gets warmer anyhow.

If you can find plants of Joseph's Coat of all colors, these will give you summer color in your garden. Anybody who had these plants in their gardens last year should have lots of seedlings. I doubt the nurseries carrying these as they are so common.

It's still not too late to plant caladiums or hibiscus.

Gazania is a gray foliage plant whose blooms are yellow-orange and look like daisies. They grow about six inches tall. The blooms shoot up about twelve inches in height. It's a perennial and I believe there are plants in the nurseries.

If you want some blue in the garden, get stokesia plants. This is a perennial, the blooms resembling carnations.

If you need a vine for screen planting, don't forget the morning glory in all its lovely colors of red, white, blue, bi-colors, also fringed and double. You can buy seed. To hasten germination of morning glory seed, soak in water over night.

Cyprus vine is a dainty foliaged plant. The blossoms are tubular, red or white. Once planted this vine comes up year after year.

Now is a good time to root such plants as boxwood, susanqua, camellia, azalea, ligustrum and other evergreens. You'll get better results by using one of the root inducing substances, following instructions on the package. This can be bought in the feed and seed stores.

Many of the annuals you can still plant to give color around your garden. If you transplant seedlings, protect them from the hot sun during the heat of the day. Small boxes or newspapers will serve the purpose.

LOVELY

The mimosas are lovely now. Notice the different shades of pink, some deep, some with a yellowish cast. Nurserymen say they're all the same variety so it must be the soil.

Mimosas drop dead limbs all year. If these appear and don't fall, prune and seal the cut area with tree seal. This we are told, will prolong the life of the tree, whose life span is from 10 to 18 years. Average life, 12 years. Feeding in January, or February also, helps give the tree a longer life. The lovely limbs and the shape of the mimosa are almost as beautiful in winter as the blossoms in summer.

STYLE HINTS

In fashion, nothing makes you look lovelier than color. It can enhance your skin, hair, eyes and figure. And — it can express your individuality and style.

White, so bright and so right this season — is found in every type costume, from coats to dresses. There generally is a touch of deeper color in trimmings or buttons, to suggest a dark accessory tie-in.

Bright stocking shades are on the wane. In their place are white washed tints and near neutrals that blend well with the current crop of spring clothes. Some hosiery manufacturers are concentrating on a pale beige and a cloudlike gray, both of which will harmonize with the many neutrals used in the new suits and dresses. The pale beige is prettiest worn with bone, biege shoes and the entire family of beige wool dresses, coats and suits. The gray hosiery rates high because of the popularity of black and white combinations and because of black patent leather shoes.

A reminder from the world of fashion — make-up or nail polish colors that "clash" with your costume will ruin the whole effect. Choose rouge, lipstick and polish colors that look well with your skin, and which also harmonize with the colors of your clothes.

I should say this in a whisper. I got a look at my own elbows and that reminded me that with short sleeves coming up, I'd better start the night cream on that bend of the arm.

Photography As Fine Art Gaining Headway

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography's advance toward recognition as a fine art has reached another important milestone, but not without a few bruises in the process.

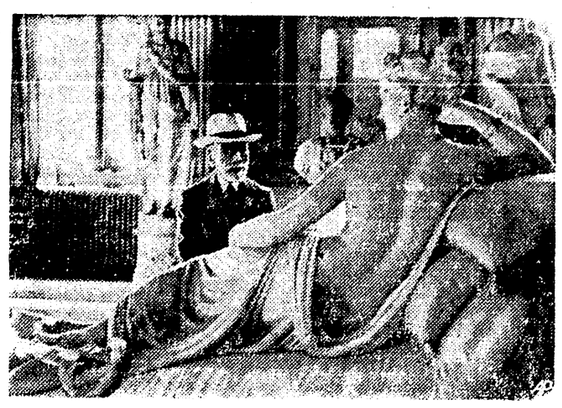

The milestone is the second annual exhibition of "Photography in the Fine Arts" which opened at New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art for a 3½ month stay. The bruises came in the form of criticisms by various photographic personalities at the museum's method of gathering and judging entries.

DISPLAYS

The current show displays 176 contemporary photographs, including 49 color prints, and represents the work of 129 photographers.

Ivan Dmitri, director of the project, invited nominations from major photographic sources such as newspapers, pictorial magazines, photographic and advertising agencies and, this year, from national groups as the Professional Photographers of America, the American Society of Magazine Photographers and the Photographic Society of America.

From the thousands of entries, screening panels selected 800 for final judging by a jury of 12 men and women distinguished in the fine arts, led by James J. Rorimer, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The jury chose the 176 photographs they considered the best examples of fine art — basing their selections purely on esthetic principles.

FINE ART? Classical statuary under a critic's keen eye made a fine study for photographer David Seymour. This photograph, too, was adjudged as fine art and is in the current Metropolitan Museum of Art exhibition.

Critics, among other things, have maintained the final jury was too large and unwieldy, and members are art critics rather than photographers.

"Compared to the usual photographic jury, this is large, but purposely so," Dmitri acknowledges. "We wished to avoid the hazard of the limited taste which inevitably occurs with a smaller board of judges. We hoped to represent many schools of photographic achievements from the most abstract to the conservative."

The second point was answered by recalling that preliminary photographic judges had screened thousands of entries and selected the 800 which they considered the very best for final judging. Each one, therefore, had been pre-judged and passed by a photographic authority.

Furthermore it was argued, if photography is intended to appeal to people at large and if it makes any claim to lasting value as art, then it should be judged by sensitive and objective specialists in the field of art. Fellow photographers are not likely to be as impartial or as knowledgeable in the esthetics of art.

Stirred by the controversy, an overflow crowd attended the press preview and liked what they saw. Many familiar names are represented: Henri Cartier-Bresson, Yousuf Karsh, Irving Penn, Philippe Halsman, Ernst Haas, Margaret Bourke - White and the Capa brothers, Cornell and Robert.

STAMP NEWS

A POSTAGE STAMP commemorating the 100th anniversary of the first treaty to promote mutual understanding and goodwill between Japan and the United States will be issued on Sept. 26.

The stamp will be placed on first day sale in Washington, D.C., when Crown Prince Akihito is expected for his good will tour of the United States.

The new 4-cent stamp will feature a view of the Washington Monument with sprays of Japanese cherry blossoms around its base. The lettering "United States - Japan" is prominently displayed on the left border above the dates "1860-1960."

The centennial is being celebrated on both sides of the Pacific as a notable event in history of U.S.-Japanese relations. One hundred years ago the U.S. and Japan exchanged ratifications of the Treaty of Amity and Commerce which they had concluded two years previously.

The stamp was designed by Miss Gyo Fujikawa, an American artist of Japanese parentage now living in New York City.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes together with money order remittances covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C.

Austria has issued a new 1 schilling dark carmine stamp to honor hiking and youth hostels, reports Edwin Mueller. The stamp depicts two young travelers against the background of a youth hostel set in a typical Austrian landscape. It was designed by Adalbert Pilch and engraved by Rudolf Toth.

Bulb Moving Time Arrives

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

With the advent of June, we have come to the beginning of bulb moving time. The leaves of all the fall blooming spider-lilies have now turned brown. So has the foliage of sternbergias, miniature amaryllis, colchicums and the true fall crocuses. In most gardens, the big wide leaves of Hall's amaryllis (really a pink spider - lily) have dried up, too. From now until August and September, we can dig and divide all these kinds of bulbs and the daffodils. It is easier to find the old dead leaves now, however. Later on, you may have forgotten where your bulbs were.

STRETCH

You can stretch out the season of all the fall bulbs a bit by holding out some of them until August or early September before replanting them. These late planted ones will, of course, bloom a few days to a week or so later than those replanted in July or August. I always like to hold out some sternbergias until they end out their first bud in September. These will flower in a week or 10 days of planting if they are watered well. Spider-lilies will not flower if held out much after mid-August because the buds will dry up in the bulbs.

Hall's amaryllis (Lycoris aquamigera) is such a dazzlingly beautiful lilac pink flower that it is worth the trouble to plant two or three bulbs at intervals of about one week from the first of July on. This will give you a clump at a time of these magic flowers from July 15th into late August. If you are interested in the true summer flowering kinds of spider-lilies, order a few Lycoris albiflora carnea, the flesh colored August blooming species. These are really odd flowers of a shade that is unbelievable in flower arrangements. The bulbs behave the same way as the common red species.

Now is the time to feed your crinums. Water them heavily and keep feeding them every two weeks with a handful of complete fertilizer in a bucketful of water. They can never get enough to eat. Old clumps that have failed to bloom for years can be set to blooming with fertilizer. Of course, if you are lucky enough to have some cow manure, make liquid manure for them every two weeks. You will be amazed at the increase in the number of flower heads, for crinums are able to respond amazingly to food and heavy watering.

GARDEN LIGHTS

Decorative tinted lighting effects for the garden and house are now possible with the new 100-watt PAR bulbs now available. They come in red, blue, green, yellow, pink and blue white.

GARDEN WATER FALLS

Portable water falls or fountains are manufactured by several companies. The murmur of cascading water adds a feeling of coolness on your patio or garden. These portable re-circulating water falls are made of fiber glass, plastic, or metal, and are designed for either indoor or outdoor use.

DAIRY MONTH

June is Dairy Month. Why you need milk — milk is one of the best foods you can get. It contains many vitamins and minerals, also, fats, sugars and high-quality proteins. Milk is especially important for three nutrients: The mineral, calcium, which is needed all life long for healthy bones, and the B vitamin, riboflavin, which is one of the nutrients essential for healthy bones, and the B vitamin, riboflavin, which is one of the nutrients essential for healthy skin and nerves and which helps the body cells to use other nutrients carried to them by the blood; protein, which is the main building and repair material of all tissues in the body.

GOOD HOUSE DESIGN

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are planning to remodel or build a new house; plan, build, equip, and furnish it to reduce time and energy for you. A good house design provides: well-planned storage in every room; no unnecessary changes in floor level; no sharp corners, such as on kitchen counters; halls at least 3 feet, 4 inches wide and all interior doors with a free opening of 2 feet 6 inches. Folding doors and hinged doors need wider openings. Allow 4 to 6 additional inches for folding doors and 2 additional inches for hinged doors.

DISHWASHER

A three-year study was made by the Department of Microbiology in the University of Louisville's School of Medicine comparing dishes washed by hand (according to rules prescribed by the American Public Health Association) with dishes done in an automatic washer. The hand - washed dishes and utensils often had more germs and viruses on them than the ones washed automatically. Some 74 per cent of the dishes and utensils washed automatically gave a bacteria count of zero, while the remaining 26 per cent were cleaner than public health standards. Dishes, glasses, knives, and forks which appear to be sparkling clean may still contain bacteria and viruses which can spoil food or cause diseases. As a result of the finding, the study points out that there is adequate scientific data to recommend the use of electric dishwashers in the home to help insure against potential health hazards due to improperly washed dishes.

KEEPING COOL

An extra tip on keeping cool this summer comes from the U. S. army climate experts. They found mercerized cotton more absorbent and therefore cooler to wear in hot weather.

EAST CARROLL PROGRAM

Eunyce Howard, Home Demonstration Agent from East Carroll Parish, called yours truly and invited the homemakers, Home Economist and 4-H Club girls in this section of the state to a demonstration on recipes using rice and value of rice in the diet. Mrs. Irene Turner, Nutrition Specialist of LSU, will give the value of rice in the diet. The demonstration will be held Tuesday, June 7th at 2:30 p.m. at the American Legion Home in Lake Providence. Mrs. Dorothy Hutcheson from Houston, Texas, who is the Home Economist of the Rice Institute, will demonstrate new recipes using rice.

A THOUGHT

Success is getting what you like and happiness is liking what you get.

Rose Disease Control Easy, Expert Reports

Black spot, the nation's most destructive rose disease, can be controlled easily these days, thanks to the development of effective chemical fungicides. Black spot occurs widely in both city and farm home gardens across the state. The fungus produces unsightly circular black spots on leaves, causing them to turn yellow and fall.

When the attack is severe, a plant may lose almost all its leaves by mid-summer. The right chemical applied properly during the growing season will control this fungus. Call or write your county or home demonstration agent for information about the chemicals to use in your rose garden.

Flower Show Is Conducted

By MARY JARDINE

By GLADYS M. KLUCKE
Guest Writer

The Dixieland Daylily Society of the Twin Cities staged a daylily flower show last week in the Center.

Mrs. W. R. Gates exhibited three of her hybrid daylilies. A large ruffled golden yellow named, Meadowbrook Gold, a large ruffled orange named Pappy Gates, and a numbered hybrid, yellow with brown markings.

Mrs. Pattie Carr exhibited two arrangements of daylilies. In a round white bowl on an inverted white plate she made a right triangle design using asasnqua foliage for the background material. The line was filled in with bronze daylilies and buds used for transition. This arrangement would be suitable for a white marble top table.

Mrs. Carr used a black, footed, ceramic bean pot which she made herself, for the second arrangement. The pot was placed on a round black plaque. Mrs. Carr used a mass vertical design. Very dark greenish - brown canna foliage formed the background for the yellow daylilies and buds. A very pleasing arrangement for the kitchen bar.

CONTAINER

Mrs. Fred Hayton chose a round, black, footed ceramic container, which she placed on a round black base. Her triangle from composition consisted of Cathedral Tower daylilies, Texas bluebonnet, calla and risi leaves with a background of greenish - brown dock. This composition is suitable for a panelled room.

As daylily arrangements last only one day, Mrs. Hayton made the fourth arrangement using gardenias. She massed the gardenias in a white ceramic vase with stalks of nandian blossoms in the background. The vase was placed on a tiered black oblong base. A very pleasing combination of material to be used in the entrance hall.

HEMEROCALLIS

Although its popularity as a garden flower and the wide enthusiasm with which the Hemerocallis is now acclaimed dates back for only a few years, it actually has a long history. Hemerocallis, commonly called "daylily" dates back to the first century A.D. Long before the first pioneers ventured across the Atlantic to settle at Jamestown, it was featured in many European gardens.

The early records mention only two forms of daylilies. The early or lemon - flower, known as the "Lemon Lily"; the other one was a darker or redish - yellow, called the "tawny lily".

Daylilies are among our most dependable perennial plants. They are the most tolerant of all garden flowers and will thrive in almost any type of soil. Any poor soil, and especially a clay one, is improved by adding organic matter. The organic matter makes the soil more porous, more workable, improves aeration and aids in holding moisture, all of which aid root growth.

If one wishes they may have daylilies blooming from early spring until frost. The hybridists have given us early bloomers, midseason bloomers, late bloomers and repeaters.

A reminder from the world of fashion — make-up or nail polish colors that "clash" with your costume will ruin the whole effect. Choose rouge, lipstick and polish colors that look well with your skin, and which also harmonize with the colors of your clothes.

I should say this in a whisper. I got a look at my own elbows and that reminded me that with short sleeves coming up, I'd better start the night cream on that bend of the arm.

Photography As Fine Art Gaining Headway

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography's advance toward recognition as a fine art has reached another important milestone, but not without a few bruises in the process.

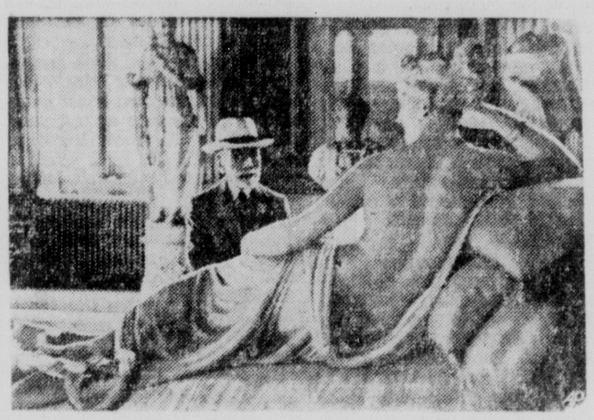

The milestone is the second annual exhibition of "Photography in the Fine Arts" which opened at New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art for a 3½ month stay. The bruises came in the form of criticisms by various photographic personalities at the museum's method of gathering and judging entries.

DISPLAYS

The current show displays 176 contemporary photographs, including 49 color prints, and represents the work of 129 photographers.

Ivan Dmitri, director of the project, invited nominations from major photographic sources such as newspapers, pictorial magazines, photographic and advertising agencies and, this year, from national groups as the Professional Photographers of America, the American Society of Magazine Photographers and the Photographic Society of America.

From the thousands of entries, screening panels selected 800 for final judging by a jury of 12 men and women distinguished in the fine arts, led by James J. Rorimer, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The jury chose the 176 photographs they considered the best examples of fine art — basing their selections purely on esthetic principles.

FINE ART? Classical statuary under a critic's keen eye made a fine study for photographer David Seymour. This photograph, too, was adjudged as fine art and is in the current Metropolitan Museum of Art exhibition.

Critics, among other things, have maintained the final jury was too large and unwieldy, and members are art critics rather than photographers.

"Compared to the usual photographic jury, this is large, but purposely so," Dmitri acknowledges. "We wished to avoid the hazard of the limited taste which inevitably occurs with a smaller board of judges. We hoped to represent many schools of photographic achievements from the most abstract to the conservative."

The second point was answered by recalling that preliminary photographic judges had screened thousands of entries and selected the 800 which they considered the very best for final judging. Each one, therefore, had been prejudged and passed by a photographic authority.

Furthermore it was argued, if photography is intended to appeal to people at large and if it makes any claim to lasting value as art, then it should be judged by sensitive and objective specialists in the field of art. Fellow photographers are not likely to be as impartial or as knowledgeable in the esthetics of art.

Stirred by the controversy, an overflow crowd attended the press preview and liked what they saw. Many familiar names are represented: Henri Cartier-Bresson, Yousuf Karsh, Irving Penn, Philippe Halsman, Ernst Haas, Margaret Bourke - White and the Capa brothers, Cornell and Robert.

STAMP NEWS

A POSTAGE STAMP commemorating the 100th anniversary of the first treaty to promote mutual understanding and goodwill between Japan and the United States will be issued on Sept. 26.

The stamp will be placed on first day sale in Washington, D.C., when Crown Prince Akihito is expected for his good will tour of the United States.

The new 4-cent stamp will feature a view of the Washington Monument with sprays of Japanese cherry blossoms around its base. The lettering "United States - Japan" is prominently displayed on the left border above the dates "1860-1960."

The centennial is being celebrated on both sides of the Pacific as a notable event in history of U.S.-Japanese relations. One hundred years ago the U.S. and Japan exchanged ratifications of the Treaty of Amity and Commerce which they had concluded two years previously.

The stamp was designed by Miss Gyo Fujikawa, an American artist of Japanese parentage now living in New York City.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes together with money order remittances covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C.

Austria has issued a new 1 schilling dark carmine stamp to honor hiking and youth hostels, reports Edwin Mueller. The stamp depicts two young travelers against the background of a youth hostel set in a typical Austrian landscape. It was designed by Adalbert Pilch and engraved by Rudolf Toth.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Bulb Moving Time Arrives

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

With the advent of June, we have come to the beginning of bulb moving time. The leaves of all the fall blooming spider-lilies have now turned brown. So has the foliage of sternbergias, miniature amaryllis, colchicums and the true fall crocuses. In most gardens, the big wide leaves of Hall's amaryllis (really a pink spider - lily) have dried up, too. From now until August and September, we can dig and divide all these kinds of bulbs and the daffodils. It is easier to find the old dead leaves now, however. Later on, you may have forgotten where your bulbs were.

STRETCH

You can stretch out the season of all the fall bulbs a bit by holding out some of them until August or early September before replanting them. These late planted ones will, of course, bloom a few days to a week or so later than those replanted in July or August. I always like to hold out some sternbergias until they end out their first bud in September. These will flower in a week or 10 days of planting if they are watered well. Spiderlilies will not flower if held out much after mid-August because the buds will dry up in the bulbs.

Hall's amaryllis (Lycoris aquamigera) is such a dazzlingly beautiful lilac pink flower that it is worth the trouble to plant two or three bulbs at intervals of about one week from the first of July on. This will give you a clump at a time of these magic flowers from July 15th into late August. If you are interested in the true summer flowering kinds of spider-lilies, order a few Lycoris albiflora carnea, the flesh colored August blooming species. These are really odd flowers of a shade that is unbelievable in flower arrangements. The bulbs behave the same way as the common red species.

Now is the time to feed your crinums. Water them heavily and keep feeding them every two weeks with a handful of complete fertilizer in a bucketful of water. They can never get enough to eat. Old clumps that have failed to bloom for years can be set to blooming with fertilizer. Of course, if you are lucky enough to have some cow manure, make liquid manure for them every two weeks. You will be amazed at the increase in the number of flower heads, for crinums are able to respond amazingly to food and heavy watering.

GARDEN LIGHTS

Decorative tinted lighting effects for the garden and house are now possible with the new 100-watt PAR bulbs now available. They come in red, blue, green, yellow, pink and blue white.

GARDEN WATER FALLS

Portable water falls or fountains are manufactured by several companies. The murmur of cascading water adds a feeling of coolness on your patio or garden. These portable re-circulating water falls are made of fiber glass, plastic, or metal, and are designed for either indoor or outdoor use.

DAIRY MONTH

June is Dairy Month. Why you need milk — milk is one of the best foods you can get. It contains many vitamins and minerals, also, fats, sugars and high-quality proteins. Milk is especially important for three nutrients: The mineral, calcium, which is needed all life long for healthy bones, and the B vitamin, riboflavin, which is one of the nutrients essential for healthy bones, and the B vitamin, riboflavin, which is one of the nutrients essential for healthy skin and nerves and which helps the body cells to use other nutrients carried to them by the blood; protein, which is the main building and repair material of all tissues in the body.

GOOD HOUSE DESIGN

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are planning to remodel or build a new house; plan, build, equip, and furnish it to reduce time and energy for you. A good house design provides: well-planned storage in every room; no unnecessary changes in floor level; no sharp corners, such as on kitchen counters; halls at least 3 feet, 4 inches wide and all interior doors with a free opening of 2 feet 6 inches. Folding doors and hinged doors need wider openings. Allow 4 to 6 additional inches for folding doors and 2 additional inches for hinged doors.

DISHWASHER

A three-year study was made by the Department of Microbiology in the University of Louisville's School of Medicine comparing dishes washed by hand (according to rules prescribed by the American Public Health Association) with dishes done in an automatic washer. The hand - washed dishes and utensils often had more germs and viruses on them than the ones washed automatically. Some 74 per cent of the dishes and utensils washed automatically gave a bacteria count of zero, while the remaining 26 per cent were cleaner than public health standards. Dishes, glasses, knives, and forks which appear to be sparkling clean may still contain bacteria and viruses which can spoil food or cause diseases. As a result of the finding, the study points out that there is adequate scientific data to recommend the use of electric dishwashers in the home to help insure against potential health hazards due to improperly washed dishes.

KEEPING COOL

An extra tip on keeping cool this summer comes from the U. S. army climate experts. They found mercerized cotton more absorbent and therefore cooler to wear in hot weather.

EAST CARROLL PROGRAM

Eunyce Howard, Home Demonstration Agent from East Carroll Parish, called yours truly and invited the homemakers, Home Economist and 4-H Club girls in this section of the state to a demonstration on recipes using rice and value of rice in the diet. Mrs. Irene Turner, Nutrition Specialist of LSU, will give the value of rice in the diet. The demonstration will be held Tuesday, June 7th at 2:30 p.m. at the American Legion Home in Lake Providence. Mrs. Dorothy Hutcheson from Houston, Texas, who is the Home Economist of the Rice Institute, will demonstrate new recipes using rice.

A THOUGHT

Success is getting what you like and happiness is liking what you get.

Rose Disease Control Easy, Expert Reports

Black spot, the nation's most destructive rose disease, can be controlled easily these days, thanks to the development of effective chemical fungicides. Black spot occurs widely in both city and farm home gardens across the state. The fungus produces unsightly circular black spots on leaves, causing them to turn yellow and fall.

When the attack is severe, a plant may lose almost all its leaves by mid-summer. The right chemical applied properly during the growing season will control this fungus. Call or write your county or home demonstration agent for information about the chemicals to use in your rose garden.

Flower Show Is Conducted

By MARY JARDINE

By GLADYS M. KLUCKE
Guest Writer

The Dixieland Daylily Society of the Twin Cities staged a daylily flower show last week in the Center.

Mrs. W. R. Gates exhibited three of her hybrid daylilies. A large ruffled golden yellow named, Meadowbrook Gold, a large ruffled orange named Pappy Gates, and a numbered hybrid, yellow with brown markings.

Mrs. Pattie Carr exhibited two arrangmements of daylilies. In a round white bowl on an inverted white plate she made a right triangle design using asasnqua foliage for the background material. The line was filled in with bronze daylilies and buds used for transition. This arrangement would be suitable for a white marble top table.

Mrs. Carr used a black, footed, ceramic bean pot which she made herself, for the second arrangement. The pot was placed on a round black plaque. Mrs. Carr used a mass vertical design. Very dark greenish - brown canna foliage formed the background for the yellow daylilies and buds. A very pleasing arrangement for the kitchen bar.

CONTAINER

Mrs. Fred Hayton chose a round, black, footed ceramic container, which she placed on a round black base. Her trinagle from composition consisted of Cathedral Tower daylilies, Texas bluebonnet, calla and risi leaves with a background of greenish - brown dock. This composition is suitable for a panelled room.

As daylily arrangements last only one day, Mrs. Hayton made the fourth arrangement using gardenias. She massed the gardenias in a white ceramic vase with stalks of nandian blossoms in the background. The vase was placed on a tiered black oblong base. A very pleasing combination of material to be used in the entrance hall.

HEMEROCALLIS

Although its popularity as a garden flower and the wide enthusiasm with which the Hemerocallis is now acclaimed dates back for only a few years, it actually has a long history. Hemerocallis, commonly called "daylily" dates back to the first century A.D. Long before the first pioneers ventured across the Atlantic to settle at Jamestown, it was featured in many European gardens.

The early records mention only two forms of daylilies. The early or lemon - flower, known as the "Lemon Lily"; the other one was a darker or redish - yellow, called the "tawny lily".

Daylilies are among our most dependable perennial plants. They are the most tolerant of all garden flowers and will thrive in almost any type of soil. Any poor soil, and especially a clay one, is improved by adding organic matter. The organic matter makes the soil more porous, more workable, improves aeration and aids in holding moisture, all of which aid root growth.

If one wishes they may have daylilies blooming from early spring until frost. The hybridists have given us early bloomers, midseason bloomers, late bloomers and repeaters.

Announcements — Marvin E. Phillips of Fairbanks, invities you to visit his Garden of Daylilies Sunday, June 5th. and the following week.

Bill Of Rights Is For Wives Of Fishermen

Hear ye, all wives of fishermen —

The season beginneth.

The worms have turned, dry flies have browned, hooks have been sharpened.

Now forever abide by a code of ethics for the protection of fishermen's wives or forever hold ye responsible,

Resolve ye, now that:

1. No man in thine household disturb women and children as he goeth forth at dawn to catch fishes.

2. No angler shall keep worms in coffee can in refrigerator to frighten unsuspecting wife and child.

3. Fresh bait — squid, shrimp, clams — shall not be kept in vicinity of house for more than 24 hours.

FISH-HOOK PERIL

4. That man shall have count of fish hooks and keep track of same and forever be held accountable for missing hooks.

5. Fishermen should dismantle in garage or tool house and suitably air said clothing before entering home with human beings.

6. Fish shall be cleaned by fishermen beyond 15-yard limit of the house.

7. Vulgar talk and angler cuss words are taboo and shall be conversation out of earshot of sensitive ears of women, children, household pets.

FISH STORY LIMIT

8. That all fishing stories should be limited to 20 minutes for fish that are landed, 15 for those that got away, and 10 minutes for nibbles.

9. Man shall not insist that wife accompany him on jaunts unless she is willing.

10. Fishing clothing and gear should not be deducted from family clothing budget.

11. Automobile or other family conveyances should be protected from fish scales, odors, waders, sand, damp garments.

12. Small fish and tiddlers should be cleaned and cooked by successful anglers.

13. No mounted fish shall be hung on walls of living room or dining room and shall be relegated to man's den, attic or basement.

14. No man shall disturb root vegetables, petunias, rhododendron, scarlet sage, pachysandra, myrtle or other plants in his quest for worms.

15. No kitchen utensil shall be appropriated for bailing out the fishing skiff.

16. Fishermen shall be required to cook their own predawn coffee and to provide sandwiches for their excursions.

17. Beer cans shall be disposed of, and not left in boat, car or on front porch.

18. Fish tales should suit the convenience of the listener, and not be the cause of interrupted sleep.

19. Reels shall not be cleaned and oiled on dining room table cloth.

Girl Scout News

Fly - up ceremonies, a court of awards, troop campins, all make news these days. A somewhat different fly - up ceremony was held by Troop 83 at Pine Wood recently. Leaders Mrs. George Harrell and Mrs. W. E. McGough had laid trails at the end of which the girls found their Brownie wings. Gathering in a shady spot under the pines, the girls made their Girl Scout Promise and received them now shiny Girl Scout pins. Congratulations to the following new Intermediates: Virginia Ann Allen, Beverly Edwards, Renee Harrell, Jennifer Jackson, Linda Jo Loftin, Martha McGough, Judy Medak, Patt Lynn Pate, Carolyn Pumphrey, Jo Jean Reynolds, Jenny Robertson, Harriet Stadler, Ann Vincent, Martha Wadham, Dianne Woodruff, Glenda Sue Young, Judith Sozzi.

After the ceremony the girls took part in a cookout, following a basket chart and using the fire-building skills they had learned. They made the ever - popular campfire stew and enjoyed it for supper. Mrs. L. A. Loftin assisted the leaders with transportation and other plans.

To complete the requirements in the Literature and Dramatics field, the girls gave a shadow play, "Hansel and Gretel." The girls had drawn and cut out the figures used, had written the version of the story they used. The girls served dainty refreshments they themselves had prepared.

Troop camping at Pine Wood still goes on. One of the latest reports we heard is that of Troop 94, first year Intermediate of Our Lady of Fatima School. Mrs. Gene Spatatora and Mrs. Robert Ellington accompanied the following girls on their first overnight: Judy Balsamo, Peggy Breard, Sheila Devereux, Kathy Ellington, Marianne Lauzzo, Betty Jane Miletello, Brenda Nunez, Carmela Sampognaro, Kathleen Savage, Dolores Smale, Lynn Smith, Laurie Spatatora, Mary C. Wilds and Mary Jo Zazone.

Girls and leaders report that the highlight of the experience was the outdoor campfire held after dark. We agree that it is an experience we wish all girls could have. They've missed something if they can't remember songs and games by firelight.

Tomorrow night is the Council meeting, which has been planned so that Girl Scout families can take part. It's a covered dish supper at 7:00 at Grace Church Parish House, 405 Glenmar, followed by a brief, but interesting program. There will be movies in another room for the children. Everybody can go home at 9:00. Make plans to attend.

When Buying Blankets Keep Label Watch

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — The many kinds of blankets on the market today will give customers kinds of service.

Jane Werden, home economist at the University of Illinois, advises brides to check on fiber content and care of blankets before buying.

Synthetic blankets have much to recommend them, Miss Werden said. They're easy to care for, launder, do not shrink and need no mothproofing. Synthetics can also be as warm as wool and weigh less, but Miss Werden cautions that most synthetics pull and generate static electricity.

Rayon blankets cost less than true synthetics and come in more colors. But they are not as warm as the more resilient synthetics and won't spring back after crushing, Miss Werden said.

Read the labels to determine fiber content, Miss Werden said. The generic names of synthetic fibers now used in blankets are acrylic, modacrylic and nylon. Most labels will carry these names.

Gathering in a shady spot under the pines, the girls made their Girl Scout Promise and received their new shiny Girl Scout pins. Congratulations to the following new Intermediates: Virginia Ann Allen, Beverly Edwards, Rande Herrell, Jennifer Jackson, Linda Jo Loftin, Martha McGough, Judy Medak, Toni Lynn Pace, Carolyn Pumphrey, Jo Jean Reynolds, Jenny Robertson, Harriet Stadler, Ann Vincent, Martha Washam, Dianne Woodruff, Glenda Sue Young, Judith Boggs.

After the ceremony the girls took part in a cookout, following a kaper chart and using the fire-building skills they had learned, they made the ever - popular campfire stew and enjoyed it for supper. Mrs. L. A. Loftin assisted the leaders with transportation and other plans.

To complete the requirements in the Literature and Dramatics field, the girls gave a shadow play, "Hansel and Gretel." The girls had drawn and cut out the figures used, had written the version of the story they used. The girls served dainty refreshments they themselves had prepared.

Troop camping at Pine Wood still goes on. One of the latest reports we heard is that of Troop 34, first year Intermediate of Our Lady of Fatima School. Mrs. Gene Spatafora and Mrs. Robert Ellington accompanied the following girls on their first overnight: Judy Balsamo, Peggy Breard, Sheila Devereux, Kathy Ellington, Marianne Lasuzzo, Betty Jane Miletello, Brenda Nunes, Carmela Sampognaro, Kathleen Savage, Dolores Smale, Lynn Smith, Laurie Spatafora, Mary C. Wilds and Mary Jo Zagone.

Girls and leaders report that the highlight of the experience was the outdoor campfire held after dark. We agree that it is an experience we wish all girls could have. They've missed something if they can't remember songs and games by firelight.

Tomorrow night is the Council meeting, which has been planned so that Girl Scout families can take part. It's a covered dish supper at 7:00 at Grace Church Parish House, 405 Glenmar, followed by a brief, but interesting program. There will be movies in another room for the children. Everybody can go home at 9:00. Make plans to attend.

When Buying Blankets Keep Label Watch

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — The many kinds of blankets on the market today will give different kinds of service.

Jane Werden, home economist at the University of Illinois, advises brides to check on fiber content and care of blankets before buying.

Synthetic blankets have much to recommend them, Miss Werden said. They're easy to care for, launder, do not shrink and need no mothproofing. Synthetics can also be as warm as wool and weigh less, but Miss Werden cautions that most synthetics pull and generate static electricity.

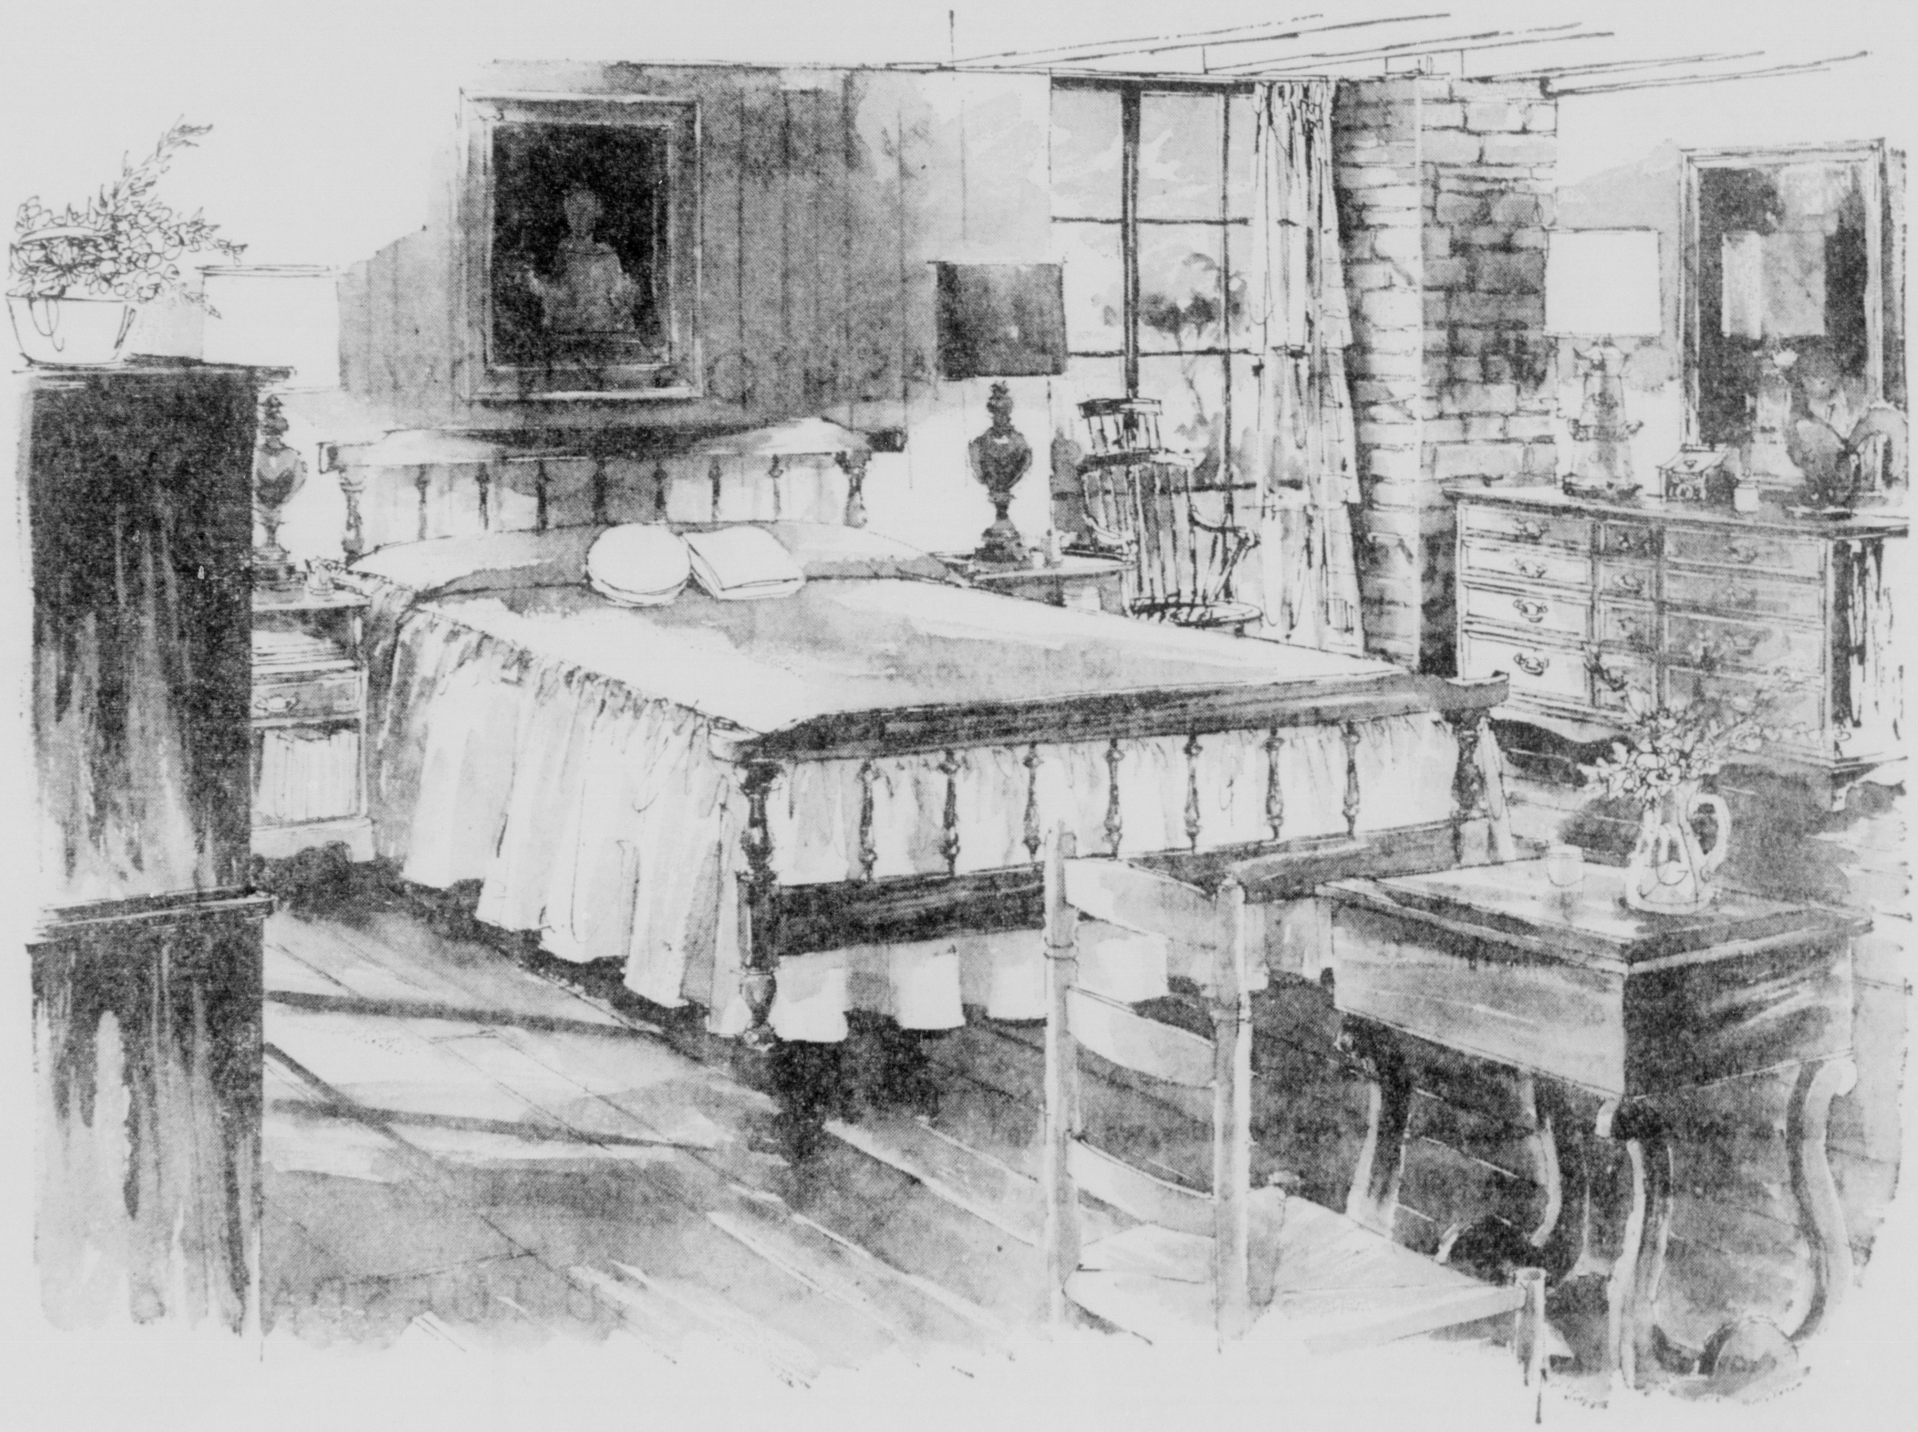

Rayon blankets cost less than true synthetics and come in more colors. But they are not as warm as the more resilient synthetics and won't spring back after crushing, Miss Werden said.

Read the labels to determine fiber content, Miss Werden said. The generic names of synthetic fibers now used in blankets are acrylic, modacrylic and nylon. Most labels will carry these names.

Crash Survivor Suffers Severe Back Injury

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A plucky secretary who survived an airplane crash and six bone-chilling, foodless days in the High Sierra, suffered a severe back injury as well as a fractured jaw.

Dr. Frank Wiens said Janet Robertson, 25, has a compressed vertebra and that means a section of her spinal column was crushed.

The crash killed her fiance, pilot Jack Steele, 28, of San Francisco.

Miss Robertson stumbled into Hockett Meadow ranger station, 5,000 feet high in Sequoia National Park, Friday.

The plane crashed a week ago Saturday.

Crash Survivor Suffers Severe Back Injury

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A plucky secretary who survived an airplane crash and six bone-chilling, foodless days in the High Sierra, suffered a severe back injury as well as a fractured jaw.

Dr. Frank Wiens said Janet Robertson, 25, has a compressed vertebra and that means a section of her spinal column was crushed.

The crash killed her fiance, pilot Jack Steele, 28, of San Francisco.

Miss Robertson stumbled into Hockett Meadow ranger station, 8,500 feet high in Sequoia National Park, Friday.

The plane crashed a week ago Saturday.
